Progress or Regress?

One of the most unhealthy dilemmas to confront any county is dissension among the ranks of its elected officials. Top that off with a law suit and the situation becomes critical.

After only six and one-half months in office, the Garrett County Commissioners now find themselves in litigation over the tax increase and the county budget, an unpopular budget which has occupied nearly all of the commissioners' time in office so far and has probably given them nightmares.

The suit filed by Del. DeCorsey Bolden is one problem. However, the greater problem is that the three commissioners are far from united in their defense.

There is no question that the commissioners lack experience. They have little control over that. But they are also lacking something they do have control over — cooperation. Obviously the county is faced with a Gregg vs. Paugh-Hunter dual.

If the county commissioners do not strive for cooperation among themselves, it is going to be a long, tough 3½ years. We could actually regress instead of progress as a county. Of course, it only takes two commissioner votes to make decisions. However, it only takes one commissioner to make life difficult for the other two.

Presently, our commissioners and our delegate seem to be engaged in what amounts to a waste of valuable time, talents and money on insignificant legal technicalities. There are far more important issues in the county that need attention.

At the risk of being a bit premature in our thinking, our initial reaction to Del. Bolden's is that it is not in the best interest of the county. His intentions may be good, but it is our feeling that we should not dwell in futile hassles over technicalities and get on with the county business at hand.

As we have stated before, a tax increase is never popular. Nobody likes it. However, as the cost of everything increases, as it has for the past several decades, so will our taxes increase. It doesn't take a superior mind to recognize that fact.

REMINDER — Unsigned letters to the editor will NOT be printed under any circumstances. Letters exceeding 300 word will also not be printed.

Dear Sir:

With the final trial of Ellwood Leuschner completed, I turn to a long-postponed letter. I considered writing this letter at the completion of the trial held in Oakland last June, and decided that discretion dictated that I wait until the case was finished.

Last June, I prosecuted the first of two trials against Leuschner for the murders of two boys in Wicomico County. The first trial was held in Oakland before Hon. Fred Thayer, of your Circuit Court.

Our police, our witnesses, and I spent nearly two weeks in Oakland during the trial. The beauty of your mountains, meadows, and waters was an inspiration. But the true beauty of Garrett County, I found in her people. We were graciously hosted by the Alpine Village, who, without complaint, met our constantly changing accommodation requirements. I had occasion to meet many people. Everyone was kind, pleasant, and hospitable.

At the time, your State's Attorney was Ralph Burnett. His office gave us considerable assistance. The help given to us by Bill Ferry, State's Attorney's Investigator, was invaluable. I was greatly impressed by Mr. Ferry's work and capabilities. I am deeply indebted to him and to Mr. Burnett for making him available to us.

The personnel of the Circuit Court and of the Office of Sheriff were, without exception, a pleasure to work with. They afforded us friendly and efficient service. Garrett Countians have good reason to be proud of their Circuit Court and their Sheriff's Office.

Being away from home and involved in the presentation of a case involving the brutal murder of a child is not a pleasant circumstance. But the pleasantness and hospitality of your people made our stay in Garrett County as enjoyable as possible under the circumstances. I look forward to being able to return under more pleasant circumstances.

Richard D. Warren
State's Attorney for Wicomico County,

Dear Editor:

As a concerned citizen of Mt. Lake Park, I would like to know if the sheriff is aware of the speeding problem on Youghiogheny Drive.

The speeding is an everyday thing, but on weekends it gets worse.

Using this past weekend as an example, one car was playing chicken with two boys who were walking. The car would get to a high rate of speed. Then, as he neared the boys, he would slam on his brakes.

The high speed is particularly bad now that small children are out playing. Last weekend was very dangerous for everyone involved.

Editor:

Bowens don't have to account to Sincells why they can't attend Sanitary Commission meetings. Between thee and me, let the county judge who has courage to speak out.

I was interested in that meeting to discover how accused act when confronted by accusers. I asked honest, intelligent people who were there, angry Oak Parkers and our Mayor.

They made accusation of illegal acts and unfair water rates. I made those accusations in your paper. They got not one satisfactory answer. The Commissioners sat silent. The lawyer stalled. Administrator Nace spewed out the evasive garbage you took pains to publish.

They were told their accusations would be discussed in executive session. The public is excluded in executive sessions. Executive sessions are used by officials caught with their pants down to rearrange their garments.

Picture Chairman Charles Morris telling Mayor Alexander he had no right to speak against hiring another assistant for Administrator Nace. Morris was asking for it. He got it.

The Sanitary Commissioners continue to strew a path of customer distrust, waste, more possible lawsuits across this county. They are business and professional people. It's bound to happen that citizens will ask if these things happen in their businesses and professions.

I leave you now with this free public service announcement:

Write or call this man if you seriously suspect wrong-doing by any public official:

Gerald Glass, State Prosecutor, 1 S. Calvert St., 15th Floor, Baltimore, Md. 21212; Telephone 1-383-7677.

He's there to serve you.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Our elected representatives are obligated to strive for the common good of the community with perhaps some show of united effort in this endeavor. They should be reasonable people using reasonable means and orderly manner such as "Robert's Rules of Order".

Nineteen seventy-nine is not an election year, their differences at this time seem best settled without public notoriety and surprise law suits. We don't need contentious people to represent us and hopefully such will be remembered at the next election.

Is it too much to ask of these officials to cease obstructionist tactics and, at least during non-election years, get with the program of performing their elected duties with more decorum and less cheap grandstanding?

Sincerely,
Pine Nut

DECD Project Looking For "Winners," Says Director

The challenge came through loud and clear to Oakland businessmen and town council members last Thursday night when Mark Friedman of the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development said, "We want towns that will be winners."

He wanted four towns, he said, that would be winners in a technical assistance program aimed to revitalize downtown business districts of small towns. Thursday, he offered the town of Oakland the chance to be among the four.

The one year state program would be a free service to the town, Friedman stated. It would involve the performance of an economic analysis study which would survey the present and future markets of a community as well as the regional opportunities and would project future trends in that market. From that study would come such recommendations as how to improve the market and how to recruit needed businesses.

Another part of the program would be a study by a team of architects from the University of Maryland School of Architecture which would provide recommendations for structional improvements, facade treatments, parking, traffic circulation patterns and an overall "design improvement."

The third part of the program would involve assistance in promotion activities for the town designed to bring people to the area.

In explaining the objectives of the project Friedman stated that "the program will emphasize local choice." For instance, he explained, once the studies have been completed and the recommendations made, the decision whether or not to implement the suggestions will belong solely to the town's government and businessmen.

Because of this local autonomy, Friedman is looking for towns that recognize a need for improvement, will be committed to the project and will seriously consider implementation of the final recommendations. He wants towns that will follow through with the project after it has ended and, essentially, will be successful, or as he said, will be winners.

He announced he has already selected two of the four towns, one from the eastern part of the state and one from the west. Since two towns are to be selected from the east and two from the west, Friedman is considering Oakland to be the second western town. He mentioned that Oakland is one of two towns under consideration to fill the vacancy. Final selection of the towns will be made by mid-August.

The Thursday meeting, he explained, was meant to introduce the program to the town council and downtown merchants and to answer any questions. He did not expect an immediate statement of commitment from the town during the meeting. He said the town would have ten days to respond. The response, he indicated, should prove that the town would be totally committed to the program and would fully cooperate with it.

James "Smokey" Stanton, president of the Oakland Town Council discussed in his opening remarks at the meeting the importance of the town to begin to direct its future and to prepared to meet the threats to the business community of business developments outside of the town limits. The project proposed by Friedman would, he said, "make sure we are moving in the right direction."

Later in the meeting, Stanton explained that the project was very timely for Oakland because of recent actions by the town council and businessmen to improve the town. One such action was the appointment of the Oakland Downtown Development Commission which was formed to study the needs of the town and make recommendations to meet those needs. The study would greatly aid this commission, Stanton commented.

"I think Oakland has potential," Friedman said. He emphasized the importance of town council and business community cooperation in the project because of the legal authority of the council and because of the key leaders and financial base of the business community.

He also made clear the terms of the project. There would not be a contract made with the towns, he said. The only contracts entered would be with the Institute of Small Business of Frostburg State College, which would perform many of the marketing surveys, and with the University of Maryland School of Architecture, which would perform architectural, parking and traffic studies and provide designs.

Since the program will last just one year, Friedman and his staff will act in an advisory capacity only. Recommendations would be practical, conservative, and achievable, he explained. The town and individual businessmen would be responsible for financing the implementation of the suggestions.

He stated there were resources available to individuals who needed to borrow funds to carry out needed improvements. Such loan programs available for housing and commercial development were described during the meeting by Deborah Lawton of the Maryland Housing Rehabilitation Program and Carol Bochett of the DECD.

Reaction during the meeting from those attending was generally supportive of the project. Many noted the need Oakland had for technical assistance but also pointed out the steps Oakland had taken towards improvement. Tom Ritchie, president of the Oakland Downtown Merchants' Association, stated that the business community had always cooperated and if chosen for the project, would back it 100 percent.

Bob Rudy also addressed the probability of commitment to the program saying that since the majority of the merchants in Oakland are of the second and third generations of family businesses and are young, they would have an interest in implementing suggested improvements.

Major problems of Oakland addressed were parking, traffic patterns, and the state moratorium on the town's sewer taps.

Reaction after the meeting from several who attended was also supportive of the program. Smokey Stanton commented, after talking with many who attended the meeting, "Of those who did turn out for the meeting, the reaction of the group was that this is something the town might be able to use. Based on comments of those businessmen and others who attended, the town council will be taking action to obtain that project."

Tom Ritchie also spoke in favor of pursuing the program. "I was very impressed with what Friedman had to say," he said. "I really feel like this is what the town needs." But he stated, he must meet with other Oakland businessmen before committing the Merchants' Association to the project.

"I think it is like a golden opportunity," stated Don Browning. He pointed out that area merchants, not just the Oakland downtown merchants, would have to place an emphasis on promotion as one of the steps in the follow up of the program.

Nordeck Shaffer of the Garrett National Bank expressed support of the project as well as concern for the outcome of the surveys. "I wonder what they would come up with," he said.

Thinking Small . . .

By Bart Naylor

Willie Schumaker does it. Jerry Brown and the whole state of California do it. Steve Martin jokes about doing it. Jimmy Carter wants to do it. Detroit is beginning to do it. Even stuffy English economists do it. Now Oakland might do it. Oakland might begin to think small.

Thinking small was the philosophy underpinning the Oakland rejuvenation plan discussed by Mark Friedman of the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development at a meeting of merchants Thursday, July 19.

Friedman explained to Oakland's leading businessmen his plan for small, inexpensive, but effective changes for store front, and downtown revitilization. "What we work on are small changes: Ways to improve the appearance of the storefront, deciding on if there should be more or less parking meters, suggestions to make certain streets one way, ideas for planting trees, community coordinated festivals.

This movement for small changes is part of an eclectic school, which involves such fields as architecture, planning, economics, ecology, government, and even ethics. E. F. Schumacker, English economist and author of the best selling book, Small is Beautiful, considered to be a modern monument in economic literature, is the most articulate advocate of this philosophy. Essentially, he argues that massive growth and production has led to many of today's ills, including pollution, the energy crisis, urban decay, and alienation of workers. Schumacker urges more respect of the land and of people. With "appropriate technology" — small projects and small production, directed by local officials, who respect both the value of the land and people employed — the problems of the area could be managed better.

California governor Jerry Brown recently made this theory politically popular calling for citizens to tighten their belts. As president, Carter has tried to enforce decreased consumption through his Energy Department. With the increased gas prices, demand on Detroit now is for smaller cars.

During the meeting, Friedman showed a film sponsored by the National Trust for Historical Preservation which detailed how small thinking could be realized in downtown enhancement. For example, some store owners have obscured fine craftsmanship on their buildings, with gaudy facades. This can be removed with little expense. Similarly, many historic but dirty buildings have been torn down to make way for modern constructions. A little cleaning and painting, could have made the older building attractive.

Friedman explained that he was considering several small western Maryland towns to which he would award the planning grant program. "I am here to get a feeling for a commitment to this program, on the part of the business leaders in Oakland," he announced. Later, in an informal discussion, he commented, "its just as important for me that I think the town is going to be a winner. I want this project to succeed."

Friedman was born in Pennsylvania, and trained as a lawyer, before entering the government. "I have a lot of autonomy," he said. "The department I work for is spread out, so there is a lot autonomy in each division. My supervisor doesn't know too much of what this project is about. So I have a lot of freedom. And there aren't any real political strings attached to it. Which towns gets the grant is pretty much my decision."

The technocrat had a reserved enthusiasm for Schumacker's small thinking philosophy, and for its realization in Oakland. "Oakland is a good town. And I think the program would work well."

Battle To Freeze Amtrak Fails

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reps. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., and Wyche Fowler, D-Ga., fought an uphill battle against acting Transportation Sec., W. Graham Claytor and Democratic and Republican leaders of the committee that drafted a $965 million Amtrak funding bill. They came within 17 votes of success, but their amendment to freeze the Amtrak system for one year failed, 214-197.

Instead, the House decided to take a back-door approach with technical amendments that will have the effect of saving several individual trains. The Senate also will act on the bill, probably within the next two weeks, and an effort will be made there either to freeze the system, or add more trains.

Carter's administration has proposed that the railroad industry be allowed greater freedom to set rates, consolidate lines, and abandon unprofitable routes.

Development Commission Supports DECD Project At First Meeting

Members of the newly appointed Oakland Downtown Development Commission met for the first time Tuesday, July 24, at 7:00 p.m., in the Oakland Town Hall to discuss objectives of the group and the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development technical assistance program.

The members of the commission are Art Naylor and Irvin R. Rudy as property owner representatives; Terry Helbig and John Kurilla as Merchants Association representatives; Maurice Brookhart and Mark Durst as planning commission representatives; Dee Raynovich, at-large member; and Courtney Tusing as First National Bank representative. Two positions not yet appointed are representative for Garrett National Bank, and another at-large representative. Tim Dugan, county planning director, and Dean Bastianini, municipal assistant coordinator for Garrett County, are serving as ex-officio members.

James "Smokey" Stanton, president of the Oakland Town Council, presided over the meeting in order to describe to the members the reason for their appointment as well as what the town council expected of them.

The commission was formed as a result of the Oakland Bypass controversy last fall, Stanton stated. The town council detected a challenge by the county commissioners in their statement concerning the withdrawal of support for the project. The challenge was to improve the parking in the town, the traffic patterns, and the downtown area. The council decided to meet that challenge and formed the Development Commission.

The council, Stanton explained, appointed persons to the commission based on recommendations from the Downtown Merchants' Association, the banks and area residents, and also based on the resolution to have representatives of as many different perspectives in the town as possible.

Stanton requested that the commission recommendations for improvement of Oakland meet three basic criteria. "Your recommendations should be usable, workable, and something you can live with."

In their first major action as a group, the commission members agreed to submit a letter of support of the DECD program proposed to the town of Oakland Thursday, July 19, by Mark Friedman. Dean Bastianini was directed to write the resolution which would include a statement of need, and willingness to follow through with the plan and a commitment of cooperation between the business community and the town.

Smokey Stanton stated that letters from the Oakland Mayor and Town Council and possibly from the Merchants' Association would be sent to Mark Friedman, director of the program, along with the commission's letter. He also stated that the council had decided to commit office space and a staff member to assist those coming to the town as part of the project. The council had also designated funds for financial assistance needed by the town for the project.

Though the group supported pursuing the project, the members agreed with John Kurilla's statement that whether or not the town is chosen for the project, the commission will still work with the Mayor and Town Council towards improvement of the downtown business area.

The commission members requested Stanton to serve as temporary chairman until the commission was better established and had time to select one of the members as chairman.

To prevent the commission from repeating progress of the past, Stanton provided the group with background information and booklets of former projects and studies. He explained that the town council expected the commission to have completed its assignment in six months after which it would be disbanded, unless its continuation could be justified.

The commission scheduled its next meeting for Tuesday, August 14, at which a priority list of issues needing attention in Oakland will be constructed.

How much oil are the new 78 degree thermostat settings supposed to save us?

Under new federal rules thermostats can be set no lower than 78 degrees in summer no higher than 65 degrees in winter. The Administration hopes these temperature restrictions will save the equivalent of 200,000 to 400,000 barrels of oil a day, or about 2 percent of U. S. oil consumption.

Will the proposed new Department of Education have a limit as far as the number of employees it can hire?

Under the House version of the bill the department would be limited to 800 fewer employees than were currently working on programs transferred to it. The proposed new department would also have to gain congessional approval if it seeks to add more than 50 new employees in any given year.

What are the major sources of inflation this year?

During the first five months of this year inflation ran at an annual rate of 13.4 percent. According to the Congressional Budget Office, energy, mortgage rates and food prices have been the leading contributors to higher inflation rates since December.

Why doesn't our country use more coal and put an end to all the oil import blackmail?

I totally agree with you and have joined forces with congressional sponsors of a resolution urging the immediate and increased production and use of our massive coal reserves. Expanded coal production is mandatory if we are to meet the energy needs of the next decade, because our economy just cannot withstand outlays like the estimated $60 billion we will be paying for oil imports in 1979. One of the ways we can hold down spiraling inflation and equalize our ever-growing balance of payments deficit is to end our dependence on the whims of OPEC. This can be done by moving ahead with a total national commitment to coal. Pursuit of a realistic goal in this regard would also have a beneficial side effect by easing the chronic unemployment problems in coal-productive Western Maryland.

130-year "Antique" Still Asks For Crackers

By Beverly Sincell

Sisters Betsy (Weber) Sukow and Cara Weber, Oakland, have a different kind of antique at their house. It is alive and goes by the name of Polly Paul or Pretty Boy. It is an authentic 130-year-old parrot.

One hundred and thirty years may seem like a long time in human terms, but longevity is not unusual for parrots. Many live to be almost 200 years old.

Betsy Sukow says she has no way to document Polly Paul's age, but based on her calculations he is 130. Who Polly Paul's first owner was, is lost to time, as is the second and possibly the third.

His known owners can be traced back to Mamie Weber, Betsy and Cara's aunt, who worked in the Weber flower shop in Fairmont, WV. Mamie had Polly Paul, or Pretty Boy as she called him, from around 1911 until 1936 or 37. Betsy and Cara's mother took him in after that and kept him until Mrs. Paul Naylor asked to keep him in 1942. She had him until her death four years ago. Betsy and Cara agreed to take him then and have had him ever since.

Betsy recalls Polly Paul in his younger days when he had a lot of spirit and would mimic conversations for as long as one half hour. Then, if someone would ask him to dance he would spread out his feathers and strut around. "He put on the darnedest show you ever saw," said Betsy. Now, Polly Paul stays on his roost, has limited his vocabulary to "thank you" and "cracker" and has gone blind in his left eye. Betsy says the color of his feathers has also faded over the years. Even so, Betsy predicts at the rate he is going now he will probably outlive her and Cara and maybe even the next set of owners.

If Polly Paul's age has been calculated correctly and if he could talk, he would be a walking history book.

Simple arithmetic shows anyone that 130 years ago was 1849. Zachary Taylor was president then. Polly Paul would have been a young parrot of twelve when Abraham Lincoln became president.

Polly Paul

Polly Paul saw the United States engage in war six times — the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, World War I, World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War. He saw the addition of twenty states to the union. He witnessed the first telephones, electric lights, automobiles, radios and televisions. He heard of the Emancipation Proclamation, the first skyscraper, the first successful airplane flight, the stock market crash, the first atomic bomb explosion, and all of the firsts in the space programs. He was born at a time when the population of the United States was 23,191,876 and has lived to see the population reach over 200,000,000.

To ask him about those days now would probably draw little response, although he may ask for a cracker. Then again even at the turn of the century, the most important thing to him was probably where he would get his next cracker.

40 Years in Downtown Oakland

GOOD NEWS
for SAVERS

At last . . . there's a high-yield certificate for people with only modest savings. You don't have to be rich to buy one!

It's First National's new Four-Year Consumer Certificate. It gives small savers a better way to fight inflation. You only need $1,000 for a term of four years.

The annual interest rate on First National's Consumer Certificate changes from month to month. Your rate for the entire four-year term is guaranteed the day you purchase your certificate.

Look into the new Consumer Certificate now at The First National Bank of Oakland. You'll find more offices, more hours, more people, more service and more convenience.

And now, more interest.

FNB's Consumer Certificate Rates:
7.60% annual interest 7.90% annual yield

Rate effective to and including the last day of this month. Interest rate is 1¼% less than the average 4-year yield of Treasury securities. Interest compounded daily. Minimum: $1,000. Term: 4 years. Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for withdrawal before maturity.

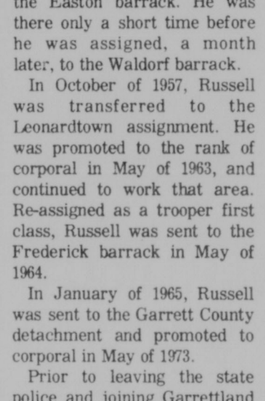
After 22 Years, Russell Leaves State Police



The Maryland State Police Department named Steven M. Russell, McHenry, as one of five retiring officers honored Wednesday, July 18 during a dinner of the Mountain Lodge 40, Fraternal Order of Police Inc. Russell who left the state police after 22 years of service, is now employed by Garrettland Realty as a sales associate.

Russell, in his late 40's, does not agree with the term retirement, at least not in his case. He simply changed jobs. "I am one of those persons who believes changing jobs is a plus," he stated. "I left the state police with good feelings."

Russell entered the Maryland State Police Academy in January of 1957 and in June of the same year was assigned to the Easton barrack. He was there only a short time before he was assigned, a month later, to the Waldorf barrack.

In October of 1957, Russell was transferred to the Leonardtown assignment. He was promoted to the rank of corporal in May of 1963, and continued to work that area. Re-assigned as a trooper first class, Russell was sent to the Frederick barrack in May of 1964.

In January of 1965, Russell was sent to the Garrett County detachment and promoted to corporal in May of 1973.

Prior to leaving the state police and joining Garrettland Realty on a full time basis, Russell worked part time with the realty firm for five and a half years.

He and his wife reside in McHenry.

REDUCE TAXABLE SALE PROFIT

If you sell your home and make a profit, Uncle Sam will expect to get a share of that profit in the form of income taxes. That is, unless you reinvest your proceeds in another home or are over 55 and take the $100,000 gain exemption. Therefore, those who profit from a home sale, put the check in the bank and rent an apartment, should not overlook any legitimate expenses which would reduce the size of the taxable gain. Expenses such as the Realtor's commissions, deed preparation, legal and appraisal fees, and any escrow fees, can be taken off the top. So-called "fix-up" expenses also can lead to tax savings. This "fix-up" work must be done during the 90 day period before the sale and payment must be made no later than 30 days after the sale.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

Blue Barn Review

By Bart Naylor

"Move over Mrs. Markham" is a British bedroom comedy of the type now dominating London theatres, where the play ran in 1971.

Mrs. Markham, wife of a publisher, tries to seduce one of the servants in her posh London apartment. While in the process, in walks Olive Harriet Smythe, author of the "bow wow" novels, — the "biggest thing since Mickey Mouse." The butler and wife exit to dress, and Olive leaves to feed a dog.

Enter the husband who expects Olive. Enter the new "sexretary" whom he mistakes for the canine novelist. After complimenting her "woofer," he suggests they "get down to business." The seduction continues.

Joan Statkus, as Mrs. Markham is effervescent, bouncing about between bedroom and living room, trying to salvage a contract as well as her dignity from the mess of 'nighty naughties.' Gerry McLaughlin, as her husband, the publisher is equally fun. During much of the play, he must pretend he is the butler; his mistakes are well timed, and his recovery is always comical.

At times, the play seems to bog down in its own fun. The purient puns and awkard circumstances become wearisome. Playwrights Cooney and Chapman seemed to have been aware of this, and saved the script with the refreshing Olive Smythe. Wonderfully enacted by Cather McCallum, the eccentric writer scowls in one moment like a discarded lemon at the pornography to which her other publishers have stooped, and in the next, delights with a bird-like laugh to even the thought of a "doggie woggie." McCallum scuffles confidently about the stage, with deft expression and a malleable voice.

In addition to this core, Director Milburn Mehlhop, has called on Ben Sincell, Marsha Little, and Lisa Robeson to provide a strong supporting cast.

While the farce is constructed around the bedroom, and has a flurried pace because of this, it pokes fun at a variety of subjects, and makes for a lively, enjoyable evening.

A Dairy Improvement meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oren Bender last Monday evening, where about 50 people were in attendance. Gary Beitzel was an overnight guest of the Benders. Thursday dinner guests were Rev. and Mrs. Jesse Yoder, Bayport, Michigan.

Deputies Apprehend Youth At SHS

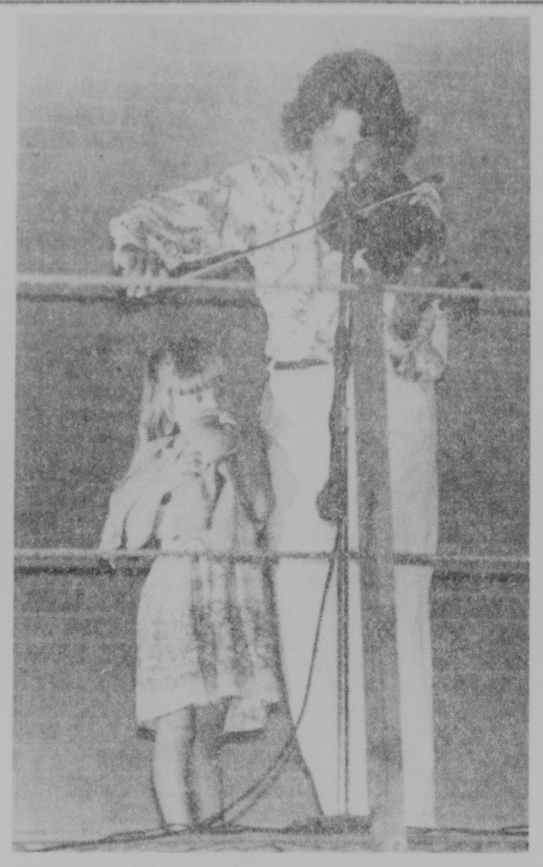
Deputy sheriff's investigating a report of an open door at Southern High School at 1 a.m. July 21 took into custody a juvenile male who appeared to be intoxicated.

As two deputies stood by the front door while a third deputy checked the back entrances, they spotted the young man coming from the direction of their patrol car, and walking toward the school. After a brief struggle in which the juvenile kicked the left front of the patrol vehicle, the young man was subdued.

Juvenile officer Wayne Wilt was called to the scene, and accompanied the juvenile and a deputy to the young man's home, where he was released into the cutody of his father.

JUST ONE OF THE GUYS — A young member of the "Guys and Dolls," from College Park, spices up an intermission with and old fashioned Clog Dance.



FIDDLIN' TO DAWN — Nancy Costerrisan fiddles while daughter Dawn stands next to her lending moral support.

THE Playhouse Players

Robert Baca

by Bart Naylor

Last week he played the fiance. Tonight, he is the boyfriend. Next week, he will have another role. Such is the experience that student actor Robert Baca is enjoying as an apprentice at the Blue Barn playhouse this summer.

The well-built, dark-haired Baca, whose ansestors are mostly Spanish, stood in the make-up room during the second act; all the chairs from the green room had been taken to seat the overflow crowds for this last performance of "Towards Zero," an Agatha Christie mystery. He looked at the floor most of the time, perhaps reviewing lines for his next appearance, or maybe of next week's show, for which tomorrow would be the first rehersal without scripts.

"I am really enjoying the opportunity to be here. Its a great experience. I am new at acting, you know, and everybody is being really helpful." Baca felt the makeup around his eyes — it was rather thick there. "I have really only been in acting for a year. I began last year, as a sophomore." Baca is a student at the University of New Mexico. "I changed my major to theatre arts, so it will take me three more years to get a degree."

Baca came to acting through modeling. He modeled in high school, and continued in the first year of college. He has been asked to go to New York twice. "The first time, I was 17, and my father said no." Baca is the youngest of 12 children. His father, now retired, was a bar owner near Albuquerque. "I was asked to go to New York this summer, but then I got the chance to come here."

Though too early to tell, he imagines he will make acting a career. "Yea, its pretty tough. There is a lot of competition. That's why this is such good experience. Its a lot of work, and I am learning a great deal."

Baca and the rest of the company stay at Hemlock Hollow. He has been here only a few weeks, and as yet, has not had much free time to see Garrett County. "After 'California Suite' (the last play he will be in) I hope to do some boating." He enjoys backpacking and did a tour of the Grand Canyon this spring. "Maybe I can do some hiking as well."

He again felt the thick make-up under his eyebrow. The relative quiet was suddenly interrupted by a shrill scream. Baca smiled. "That's Mary Alden discovering the body of Lady Tiesman." He still had the rest of this act, and a second intermission to wait before going on stage again.

Moving has never been one of my favorite pastimes. In fact, if I were given the choice between packing crates, or brushing the cat's teeth, — I'd begin flossing with glee, (the cat can't stand to have his teeth brushed. I can't stand a cat with bison breath).

Two weeks ago I decided to move. I decided to move from the couch to the recliner. I'm basically a very lethargic person.

I'm not sure what prompted me to vacate. Was it that the carpet needed shampooed? Could it have been the sooty dining room windows, — victims of the Industrial Revolution? Perhaps it was the litterbox that drove me to leave my comfortable abode.

You've all seen the commercial where the guests arrive, sniff daintily, and inquire of the hostess, "Do you have a cat?"

I've had guests arrive, choke, and gasp, "How many elephants are you boarding?"

Anyway, back to the packing. It seems the only readily available boxes are from the local liquor emporium. Therefore when you are carrying out Jim Beam cartons, Riunite cases, and Old Grandad boxes, it causes your neighbors to speculate on why you were such a quiet neighbor. "Honestly, Louise, he must have drank himself into a stupor every evening!"

Moving should not be this difficult, I kept telling myself. They evacuated Johnstown in less time than it took me to pack.

I was often hampered by the nature of what I was packing. Old photographs, old records, old magazines, old whiskey. When I'm doing something I dislike, I will take advantage of every distraction.

I sat there reminiscing, "Ah, there it is — my junior prom picture. Why in the world did she leave me for the captain of a college football team who doubled as a wealthy Rhodes scholar? Why me, who had everything? i.e., a sense of humor, a sense of humor . . ., a sense of humor."

Of course the cats were a big help. It took them a relatively short time to throw their kitty things into an overnight bag. They spent the remainder of the time pestering me.

"No, Kinky, I haven't seen your tail. If you can't keep track of your personal possessions, then don't expect any sympathy from me," I admonished the one.

Cleaning out the refrigerator was a sure sign that something was amiss. Cleaning out the refrig is an epoch event in my house. It means either the Health Department has received complaints; a leg of lamb therein is doing an undue amount of kicking; or my mother is coming for a visit.

The last time I put a box of baking soda in the ice box, it begged me to leave the light on. I found it the next morning, throttled to death. I'm using this plot for a movie script . . . "Just when you thought it was safe to go back to the vegetable crisper."

Finally after ten days of tugging, ripping, stuffing, chipping, dragging, labeling, and taping, I was done. Seventy-one cartons of extraneous, incomparable, indescribable miscellaneous.

Moving day was Saturday, seven a.m. The day dawned dreary. The truck arrived.

The doorbell stirred me from my sleep atop cartons marked, "recent non-fiction paperback," "cancelled checks non-sufficient funds," and "inflatable companion Doberman Pinscher," (it belongs to the cats).

First item to be moved (by myself and two equally rugged friends) was a 900-pound solid oak piano. Lifting heavy objects often leaves one incapacitated for hours. Even my hair hurt.

Well, in three-and-a-half hours we had everything transported to my new residence. Four blocks away. I never move far; just often. I'm slowly working my way into the country.

Everything still sits in the new house. I've done enough. I stood there when it was all over, leaning on a box marked "unidentifiable twisted and burned metal objects found in front yard." A friend says I should call NASA. What do they know? I suspect the neighbor's puppy was probably just chewing on parked cars again.

Anyway, addressing the mass of cartons, I said, "Look, fellows, I got you into the boxes — now you can get yourselves out."

Somewhere, under "china and silverware," the cats scratched their distress.

Ah, they'll get out. It's only cardboard.

Oakland, Cresaptown Divide Doubleheader Sunday, 2-1, 7-2

by Terry Helbig

Oakland scored its lone run in the first inning as Dave Bender doubled, advanced to third on an infield out, and scored on a passed ball during the opening of a doubleheader hosted by Cresaptown last Sunday.

Cresaptown scored in the bottom of the second with two outs and runners on first and third. Oakland fumbled a defensive ploy, an attempted delayed steal and Bucky Cecil scored from third.

Neither team got on the scoreboard from that point on, driving the game into extra innings. Basil Armstrong relieved Bill Malec for Cresaptown in the ninth inning.

In the bottom of the ninth, Al Fatkin singled and advanced to third on an error. Murray reached base on a single, but Fatkin failed to score.

Bucky Cecil was intentionally walked to load the bases, and Dave Fatkin laid down a perfect squeeze to win the game, 2-1 for Cresaptown.

John Chaney took the loss for Oakland, his second in a row. In the last 16 innings pitched, Chaney has only given up one earned run. He fanned seven in Sunday's game, allowing four walks (two intentional) and gave up only six hits.

Oakland protested the game in the sixth inning when, with bases loaded and two outs, Cresaptown pitcher, Malec, apparently balked and picked off Bender at third base for the last out.

Oakland recovered in the second game and exploded for a 7-2 win. Pete Brosnihan and Dave Bender both singled in the first and John Kruk then knocked in Brosnihan with an infield out.

Ernie Shotwell singled and advanced to third on a error during the second inning, and Lawrence Nesselrodt then singled Shotwell home.

In third inning action, John Kruk reached on an error, Mark Tysinger singled, and Corky Sweitzer singled, driving in Kruk.

Shotwell singled again in the fourth and then stole second. Pete Brosnihan singled with Shotwell on third and Oakland used a delayed steal with Shotwell scoring on an error by the first baseman. In the fifth, John Kruk singled as did Mark Tysinger, and Craig Cumberworth belted a towering sacrifice fly to right center field which scored Kruk.

Tysinger singled in the seventh, Corky Sweitzer doubled, and Craig Cumberworth followed with a two run single.

Mark McCarty went the distance for Oakland, picking up his second win. He allowed only four hits, walked one, and struck out none. Basil Armstrong absorbed the loss.

Oakland is now 8-8 and in third place. The team will host Cumberland at Garrett Community College in a double header on Sunday beginning at 2 p.m.

As a team, Oakland is hitting .272 after sixteen games. Leading hitters are John Kruk, .364; Mark Tysinger, .356; Craig Bosley, .351; Ed Tritley, .333; Corky Sweitzer, .320; Pete Brosnihan, .310; Craig Cumberworth, .306; Frankie Lewis, .300; Dave Bender, .280; and Randy Cirillo, .270.

In the pitching breakdown, John Chaney stands at 3-3; Mark McCarty, 2-3; Mike Brady, 1-2; Bob Harman, 1-0; and Craig Cumberworth, 1-0.

League standings at the present time are as follows: Tri-Towns, 16-2; Everett, 12-2; Oakland, 8-8; Hyndman, 8-10; Ft. Cumberland, 7-9; Cresaptown, 3-12; and Island Creek, 3-15.

Garrett Signs Both NHS "Workmen"

By Jim Willis

Garrett Community College baseball coach, Phil Caruso, announced the signings of two more Garrett County high school baseball players this week. Jamie and Phil Workman, both graduates of Northern High School, have signed letters of intent to play baseball for the GCC Lakers.

Jamie Workman is a 1978 graduate of Northern and is transferring from Allegany Community College, back to GCC. Jamie was a three-sport athlete for the Huskies in football, basketball, and baseball. He was named the 1978 Senior Athlete of the Year and will come into the Laker program as an outfielder/infielder.

Jamie has played three years for the Friendsville Little League, four years of varsity baseball for Northern, and two years American Legion baseball for Grantsville Post 214.

Coach Caruso stated that, "Jamie is an outstanding defensive player who can play many positions well. If Jamie can regain the hitting stroke he had his sophomore year at Northern when he led the Huskies with a .385 average, he could earn a starting role in the outfield, or third base."

Jamie will major in Business at Garrett and hopes to continue his education and baseball career at a four-year institution upon graduation from GCC.

Phil Workman is a 1979 graduate of Northern. Like Jamie, he played three sports during high school. He was also the Senior Athlete of the Year for 1979.

Phil will come into the Laker program as an outfielder with some additional catching experience.

He has played three years for the Friendsville Little League, three years at Northern, and two years of American Legion baseball for Grantsville Post 214. He lead Northern in RBI's during his sophomore and junior years, and was the Huskie MVP as a senior.

Coach Caruso stated that, "Phil has the potential to be a solid player in the Laker program, but must demonstrate his ability to hit Junior College pitching."

Phil will be majoring in Business at Garrett. He and Jamie are the sons of Lowell and Judy Workman, Friendsville.

Coach Phil Caruso reports that he expects two more letters of intent for the Laker program to be signed this week, and he announced that a Laker scholarship program, and booster club, have both been established.

Contributions to the scholarship program are being solicited from area businesses. Further information concerning the "Dugout Club," yearbook advertising, or the scholarship fund may be obtained from Coach Caruso, 334-9732, or Coach John Helmick, 689-8439.

Lewis Wins In Motordrome Race

Frank Lewis led the pack all the way July 15 to cop a win at Motordrome Speedway, Smithton, Pa. This was his first time to place first in the Motordrome event.

This past Saturday evening, however, troubles dogged the veteran operator of late model 98 at Latrobe. Frank took sixth in his heat, but in the feature his car heated up, forcing a pit stop, and Frank did not place in the money.

Senate Approves Bryron Change On OSHA Rules

The Byron amendment easing the burden on small businesses to comply with the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) has won passage in the Senate, three weeks after it was approved in the House of Representatives.

The action makes Rep. Beverly Byron (D-Maryland Sixth) this year's first freshman representative to have a floor amendment approved by both houses of Congress by a recorded vote.

Under the amendment there can be no separate federal inspection of any workplace that has been inspected by state OSHA officials during the previous six months. Joint inspections and inspections under certain special circumstances would not be prohibited.

"I am delighted the Senate has concurred with the House on this matter because it represents a step forward in reducing unnecessary government spending and eliminating wasteful bureaucratic procedures which overlap and duplicate each other," Mrs. Byron said.

In her maiden speech in the House last month, the Western Maryland congresswoman noted the "enormous waste of resources with federal inspectors checking up on state inspectors," and cited data indicating states were more successful at preventing fatalities and injuries than the federal government."

Carter Nominates New Chairman Of Federal Reserve

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today nominated New York banker Paul Volcker to be chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Volcker will replace William Miller, who will take over for Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal in Carter's major administration shake-up.

Volcker is chairman of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

Quoting Carter, Powell said Volcker, 51, "has broad economic and financial experience and enjoys an outstanding international reputation."

"He shares my determination to vigorously pursue the battle against inflation at home and to insure the strength and stability of the dollar abroad," Powell quoted the president.

Volcker has been president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York since 1975. He was undersecretary of the Treasury for monetary affairs in the Nixon administration and deputy undersecretary for monetary affairs during the Johnson administration.

Hijackers Give Up After Nine Hours At India Airport

CALCUTTA, India (UPI) — Three hijackers who commandeered a Bangladesh Biman passanger plane today and threatened to blow it up unless they were paid $1 million surrendered to police, the All India Radio said.

The hijackers had taken over the aircraft with 43 passengers and crew aboard during the 80-mile flight from Jessore to Dacca in Bangladesh and ordered it to land at Calcutta's Dum Dum Airport.

During nine tense hours of negotiations, the hijackers released Mrs. Mufuja Khatun, 30, her 2¼-year-old baby, and a man on crutches, Mosaffar Hossaina, 40.

The three Bengali-speaking hijackers had said the Fokker Friendship aircraft the 40 persons on board would be blown up unless they were given the ransom and a getaway plane by 6 p.m. (8:30 a.m. EDT). Their surrender to police camewithin minutes of the deadline.

State Home Secretary Rathin Sen Gupta conducted the negotiations with the hijackers.

Guerilla Bomb Explodes In Cafe In Israeli City

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — A bomb planted by Palestinian guerrillas exploded near the rest rooms of a snack bar at a bus stop east of the coastal resort city of Netanya today, injuring 12 persons, none seriously, a police spokesman said.

The Palestine Liberation Organization news agency WAFA, in a statement from Damascus, said the attack was carried out "by one of our special units operating inside the occupied territories."

Hospital officials said none of the injured was badly hurt.

"I was sitting waiting for a bus when I heard a loud blast," a wounded woman told the state-run radio after being treated at a nearby hospital. "I started running and I felt that I was hit in the legs but I just kept running.

"There was a lot of smoke, people running around — police and soldiers — no one knew what was happening," she said.

The bomb came only hours before Israel handed back a chunk of the Sinai peninsula to Egypt according to the terms of the peace treaty between the two countries.

Police said the bomb exploded at 9:15 a.m. (3:15 a.m. EDT) near the rest rooms of a snack bar at an intersection of the old Tel Aviv-Haifa highway.

The intersection is east of the coastal resort city of Netanya, about 20 miles north of Tel Aviv.

A small bomb exploded Monday in Kfar Saba, slightly wounding a woman in the legs. Two bombs exploded last Thursday in a Jerusalem clothing store, sending one woman into shock and causing considerable damage to the store.

Baltimore Realtors Push For Decision Against Ban Of Signs

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Greater Baltimore Board of Realtors has drafted a letter cautioning realtors about posting "for sale" signs on property in the wake of a court ruling knocking down an ordinance banning the signs.

Board spokesman C. Willis Hammons said Tuesday the letter will be sent to 500 city realtors urging them to use discretion in posting the signs. Many brokers have held off posting the signs until it is decided whether city attorneys will appeal the July 13 ruling.

Judge Mary Arabian ruled illegal the five-year city ordinance banning the signs. The ban was placed in effect in to restore stability to neighborhoods plagued by panic selling when blacks moved into an area.

Arabian's ruling came in the case of a city realtor who filed a suit seeking to overturn the ban. She said "it was highly unlikely" that Baltimore residents would be victims of "panic peddling and resort to panic selling."

The board's letter said it agreed with Arabian's statement and cautioned discretionary use of the signs to prevent any type of panic selling.

Sandinista Army Orders Execution Of Guardsmen

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — The Sandinista army issued a decree ordering its troops to execute any former national guardsman caught attacking its checkpoints and the junta declared some 2,000 guardsmen in a Red Cross refugee center will be treated as prisoners of war.

Firefights around the capital Tuesday overshadowed the diplomatic recognition extended the new government by the United States, Cuba, and El Salvador.

Interior Minister Tomas Borge charged Tuesday exguardsmen in a Red Cross center just outside Managua were heavily armed and have been responsible for the continuing sniper attacks on Sandinista checkpoints in the capital.

The Sandinista National Liberation Front Tuesday issued a decree ordering its forces to kill any guardsman caught ambushing or sniping at Sandinista positions.

"The military forces have definite orders to immediately execute all those elements of the Somoza guard who are caught in these activities," the communique said.

The decree also ordered all Sandinista militias to turn in their weapons to the new army with a promise that those who join the new military force will be re-armed.

But Nicaraguan Red Cross President Ismael Reyes challenged Borge's statements during a joint news conference outside a row of warehouses where more than 2,000 guardsmen and their families are staying.

Borge took newsmen to the fields around the camp and pointed out what he said were the bodies of Sandinista soldiers killed and burned by guardsmen who left the refugee camps at night.

Reyes said in response, "I cannot ascertain that these people (in the camp) are the ones who did the killings. He ascertained that, not me."

He said the guardsmen had been brought to the camp — a former free trading zone near the international airport — in buses and had been searched before they entered.

In announcing the guardsmen were prisoners of war, Borge said each guardsman's case will be considered individually and those charged with crimes will be brought up before civilian tribunals and tried under the criminal laws of the Somoza regime.

"In no case will the death penalty be applied," Borge said. He added that the Nicaraguan revolution had been "the most generous revolution in Latin America. We have not executed anyone, nor will we execute anyone."

The Red Cross will continue to administer the camp and all women and children who wish to do so will be allowed to leave.

AIRBORNE ACROBATICS — "Moondog," the illustrious resident of Seventh and Alder Streets, Oakland, goes into orbit periodically, much to the delight of passersby. Such inexplicable behavior in a normally sedentary dog could either be: 1. a new disco dance step; 2. an imitation of Skylab; or, 3. part of Dr. A's weight reducing plan. Whatever the reason, at least she's having fun.

ICC Rate Policy Could End Efforts To Switch To Coal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, says soaring railroad coal-hauling rates approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission could stop a switch from oil and gas to coal "dead in its tracks."

"We have reached the ridiculous situation where it is cheaper for utilities in Texas and Florida to import coal from South Africa and Poland than it is for them to use U. S. coal shipped by rail," Bentsen said Tuesday.

Bentsen, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, said the ICC rate policy was "at odds" with President Carter's program for reducing reliance on foreign oil by increasing the use of coal.

"Ever higher coal shipping rates could stop the president's effort dead in its tracks," Bentsen said in opening hearings on the matter.

However, ICC Chairman A. Daniel O'Neal said the Railroad Revitalization and Regulatory Reform Act of 1976 gives the commission little choice. The law, he said, requires it "to consider the need of the railroads for additional revenue in reviewing rates."

He said federal agencies also are divided, with the Transportation Department calling for rates that would make the delivered price of coal the same "per unit of energy" as it is for other fuels. The Energy Department, on the other hand, wants rates that will promote coal as an alternative to imported oil.

Bentsen said he agreed the revenue needs of the railroads were "real and pressing."

"The task before us is to bring energy and rail transportation policies into balance so that the ligitimate needs of both will be served to the benefit and not the detriment of the nation," he said.

State Parole Board Releases 120 Inmates

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Parole commissioners say they realize there are risks involved in a program that has freed nearly 120 state inmates who were serving sentences for armed robbery.

Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services figures released Tuesday showed that 11 convicts serving terms for murder were freed after completing one-third to one-half of their sentences; eight were freed while serving time for manslaughter convictions; and most of the others were serving time for violent crimes.

Henry P. Turner, chairman of the Parole Commission, said the commission realizes it is taking a risk in releasing some of the prisoners early.

A total of 500 prisoners will be released by August 1 as part of a program to reduce prison populations. The program's goal is to eliminate double-celling at the Maryland House of Corrections in Jessup, Maryland Penitentiary and a reception and diagnostic center.

One of the prisoners to be released August 1, Wendel D. Griffin, has served five years of a 15-year sentence for murder.

Griffin was convicted of shooting a 31-year-old Philadelphia man.

Bundy Convicted Of Murder; Now Awaits Sentence

MIAMI (UPI) — Law school dropout Theodore Bundy was found guilty Tuesday night of murdering two sorority sisters in their beds and of beating three other coeds on evidence that included bite marks found on the buttocks of one victim.

Bundy, 32, who headed his own murder defense, did not change his self-assured gaze as guilty verdict after guilty verdict was returned by the 12-member jury after a five-week trial on two counts of first-degree murder, three counts of attempted murder and two of burglary.

Bundy was whisked back to his "escapeproof" jail cell after first giving a wave to his mother, Louise, in the spectator's seating area and a smile for the television camera that recorded the entire trial.

His mother, who had commented earlier, "I'd like to wring the prosecutor's neck," added tearfully, "I just can't understand the jury — they didn't give it enough time."

The jury deliberated only six hours and 38 minutes before finding Bundy guilty of beating and strangling Lisa Levy, 20, and Margaret Bowman, 21, at the Chi Omega sorority house at Florida State University in Tallahassee on Jan. 15, 1978.

They also convicted Bundy of beating three other university coeds, two of them in the same sorority house and another just four blocks away in a duplex apartment, the same day.

The penalty phase of the trial, during which the same jury will determine a recommendation of whether Bundy should be electrocuted or face life in prison, begins Saturday. The delay was caused because witnesses must be summoned from the Pacific Northwest.

Assistant State Attorney Larry Simpson, who said he was "very pleased" with the verdict, confirmed he will seek the death penalty.

Simpson said Bundy still faces car theft charges in Tallahassee and another trial for the slaying of a 12-year-old girl from Lake City, Fla.

Bundy was a fugitive from Colorado, where he was awaiting trial for a sex murder, when he was arrested for the Tallahassee killings. He already had been convicted of kidnapping in Utah, and the FBI has said he is a suspect in more than two dozen sex killings in the West.

Except for one eyewitness identification, the state's case was circumstantial.

To link Bundy with the slaying of Miss Levy, the prosecutors called forensic dentists Dr. Richard Souviron of Coral Gables, Fla., and Dr. Lowell Levine of New York City.

They testified about bite marks found on the strangled and beaten body of Miss Levy. The dentists said in their opinion the bites could only have been inflicted by the teeth of Bundy.

Defense counsel brought in their own dentists, who said the teeth marks could possibly have been made by someone else.

Nita Jane Neary, now an art student at Ball State University, in Muncie, Ind., was a key state witness. She identified Bundy as the man she saw in profile in a three-second glimpse as he left the sorority house after the slayings.

Aquarium Team To Go On Shark Hunt

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A team from the Baltimore Aquarium is going on a shark hunting expedition in the Delaware Bay next month as part of its plan to stock up on the 10,000 live animals needed to fill its tanks.

Four aquarium workers will be hunting for sand tigers and sandbar sharks to be used in trade offs with other aquariums across the country when the time comes to stock the city's aquarium tanks.

Aquarium curator John Dinga said Tuesday four aquariums — the Mystic, in Connecticut; Niagara Falls; the National Aquarium; and Sea World in San Diego, Calif. — have agreed to take the sharks.

He said the aquarium team will use equipment from the University of Delaware's marine studies program to catch the sharks.

Dinga said the Delaware Bay trip is the first for the team. Trips to Bermuda and an island off Puerto Rico also are planned, he said.

The $20 million aquarium, a highlight of the Inner Harbor renewal project, is expected to open in late 1980 or early 1981.

PLO Leader Shot In France

CANNES, France (UPI) — A PLO leader was shot and critically wounded today by a gunman stalking his luxury Riviera home.

Zouherir Mohsen , 43, leader of the Syrian-backed Saika organization and chief of the military department of the Palestine Liberation Organization, was ambushed outside his apartment today at 1 a.m. local time (7 p.m. EDT Tuesday), police said.

Police said his condition was critical and one investigator said, "He was shot point-blank in the head from close quarters."

Mohsen underwent emergency surgery at Saint Roch hospital in nearby Nice an hour later. Doctors said they could not say whether he would survive.

The investigator said Mohsen was gunned down by a lone attacker as he was entering his fourth-floor apartment in Gray d'Albion residence where he was staying with his wife.

The attack came at a time when the Palestinians had launched a major diplomatic offensive to win backing from France and other Western nations.

Mohsen arrived in France last Friday from Monrovia, Liberia, where he has been drumming up support for the Palestinian cause during the African summit last week.

A mathematics teacher and former Lebanese university political science graduate, Mohsen combined both posts as Saika chief and PLO military section chief.

In Paris, Mohsen's colleague, PLO political department chief Farouk Kaddoumi, was organizing meetings with French officials in an effort to win their political support. Kaddoumi arrived in Paris Tuesday but for security reasons his activities were kept secret.

Political sources said Kaddoumi was in Paris to make arrangements for a western tour by PLO leader Yasser Arafat.

The Cannes attack was the fourth in France staged against Palestinian officials.

U.S. Navy Rescues First Group Of Boat People

By S.C. WEE
United Press International

The U.S. Navy today rescued its first Vietnamese refugees under President Carter's new campaign to save the boat people.

A Navy spokesman said the 7th Fleet oiler Wabash picked up 19 Vietnamese in an open boat Tuesday about 100 miles west of the Philippines.

It was the first group to be rescued since President Carter ordered the Navy to be "particularly alert for refugees and to render all possible assistance to vessels in distress." U.S.-owned ships previously had picked up about 1,000 Vietnamese.

In Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, 261 Vietnamese refugees, including a newborn baby, left a West German cargo ship today on their way to a new life in West Germany. They had been rescued from their sinking vessel.

Two Italian warships and a support vessel left Singapore for the South China Sea in a search and rescue mission. Adm. Sergio Agostinelli said his vessels would provide medical aid and food but would pick up refugees only if necessary to save their lives.

The stepped-up rescue effort by Western nations followed their pledges at the U.N. refugee conference in Geneva last week to take more in than 260,000 Indochinese refugees for resettlement.

The U.S. Navy spokesman in Manila declined to say how many American ships were in the South China Sea, citing Navy policy not to disclose its ship movements.

Vice President Walter Mondale told the Geneva conference that four more American ships would be dispatched to the area to help provide assistance and transport to refugees.

More than 250,000 Vietnamese are believed to have perished at sea.

In Washington, the State Department said Tuesday it plans to send U.S. consular officers to Vietnam to process refugees there for entry into the United States. Vietnamese authorities have agreed in principle to allow the Americans into Ho Chi Minh City, formerly Saigon.

Despite the Western pledges to accept the Vietnamese, Malaysia said it remains unconvinced and will not lift its naval blockade against the boat people "until we get a firm guarantee that we will not be burdened with the problem forever."

Prime Minister Datuk Hussein Onn also said the mobilization of the U.S. 7th Fleet "does not affect us one way or the other. Their ships will only pick up the boat people who sink their boats at sea."

In addition to the ships, the Navy spokesman said anti-submarine P-3 Orion turbo-prop planes were scouring the sea for refugees. The 7th Fleet also set up a command information center at Subic Bay to monitor the rescue operations.

"Oh, just worms."

Parole Date Moved Up For Sirhan Sirhan

SOLEDAD, Calif. (UPI) — Sirhan Sirhan, the assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, is four months closer to freedom today thanks to a parole board he accused of trying to have him killed.

The state Community Release Board Tuesday moved up Sirhan's recommended parole date to Nov. 1, 1984, after noting his good behavior, college work and improved mental health.

Sirhan, 35, escaped the death penalty when the state Supreme Court ruled capital punishment unconstitutional in 1972. He has been behind bars 11 years.

He could be freed as early as July 1983 if he continues to receive the usual four-month sentence reduction routinely awarded inmates who stay out of trouble and who try to improve themselves through courses and job training.

However, the three-member panel at the California Training Facility 100 miles south of San Francisco rejected the Palestinian immigrant's demand that it disqualify one of its members from hearing his case.

Sirhan said presiding officer Ray Brown "prejudicially" suggested last year he be transferred from a special 125-inmate protective custody unit into the main prison population.

"It seems a way for the Community Release Board and the state of California and the government to set me up and have me killed and thereby avoid having to make a decision in my case," Sirhan said.

His lawyer, George Roberts, said Sirhan was in danger in the United States and had been invited through the New York-based Arab-American Relations Committee to live and work in Libya.

During Tuesday's 3¼-hour hearing, the slender inmate listened intently, frequently rising from his chair to whisper to his attorney.

When one officer noted wryly that Sirhan was "a law-abiding citizen" before the assassination in June 1968, the convict said: "That's just the damn' problem, sir. I was drunk at the time. I was a mentally sick person. I believe I have received my mentality, my good senses."

Roberts showed psychiatric reports saying Sirhan was unlikely to be violent in the future. Earlier studies indicated that Sirhan's anger over Kennedy's support of Israel triggered the assassination moments after the senator's victory in the California Democratic presidential primary.

Partnership in Arabian Company Proves Advantage to Oil Companies

United Press International

The four U.S. partners in the Arabian American Oil Co. have a distinct market advantage over other domestic oil companies because Saudi Arabian crude is cheaper than oil from other OPEC nations, oil analysts said Tuesday.

Exxon Corp., Mobil Corp., Texaco Inc., and Standard Oil Co. of California are the four participants in Aramco, which accounts for approximately 6.5 million barrels a day of Saudi oil production.

Saudi Arabia, the largest U.S. source of foreign oil, is selling its light crude at the current OPEC minimum of $18 a barrel while other members of the cartel are charging as much as $23.50 a barrel for oil of comparable quality.

The largest oil producer in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, Saudi Arabia has raised the price of its light crude by 42 percent so far this year. But the rest of the OPEC nations have increased prices by a far greater margin in the aftermath of the Iranian oil cutoff.

"This is not a diabolical scheme on the part of the Aramco partners," a Wall Street analyst said. "They are buying Saudi crude at $18 a barrel and then selling their refined products at world market prices determined by companies that are buying crude at $20 or $23.50 a barrel."

The Saudi price of $18 a barrel — compared with an average of $20 a barrel now paid for foreign crude by the rest of the U.S. oil industry — could add $1.2 billion in each quarter to the combined earnings of the four Aramco partners this year, according to one Wall Street specialist.

"There's no question the Aramco partners will make money from the cheaper Saudi crude," another analyst said. "But it's simplistic to try to quantify this advantage because of certain Saudi restraints on the resale of its crude, U.S. price regulations and other factors."

Constantine Fliakos, senior oil industry analyst at Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., estimated the less expensive Saudi crude could boost Mobil's earnings by about 50 percent and Texaco's by more than 100 percent this year. He also pointed out that both companies had depressed earnings in 1978.

Exxon, Mobil and Texaco had no comment.

In San Francisco, California Standard said its second-quarter earnings — due today — will show "some obvious benefits" from the cheaper Saudi crude.

"We do have benefits from Saudi crude but not as great as people may think," said Ted Dow, deputy controller for California Standard, probably the largest crude reseller among the Aramco partners.

"A lot of the crude we buy from Saudi Arabia is resold to an outside party at the same price we paid for it under the Aramco agreement with Saudi Arabia," Dow said.

He also said the company's profits on Saudi crude are limited by price controls in the United States and other countries and escalation clauses in long-term contracts that reflect price increases for Saudi Arabian marker crude.

On a clear day when you turn into a dual-highway you know well, the "wrong way" sign may seem superflous. Yet, for the stranger who doesn't know the area, when visibility is limited or driving conditions poor — that sign may avert a head-on collision.

The divided thoroughfare requires a new assessment of the dangers of confusion. It wasn't enough to design better highways. Man had to anticipate a whole new set of circumstances in which human error could invite disaster.

Our churches have been conscious of that kind of forward thinking for years. Religion is more than the quest for truth. It is the sound recognition of the costs, the hazards, of moral and spiritual confusion.

Part of following the right way is understanding why the wrong way is wrong.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

DESPISED OFFERINGS

Lesson for July 29, 1979

Background Scripture: Amos 1 through 2: 5.
Devotional Reading: Psalms 106:1-5.

If Amos is well-remembered to us today, it is certainly not a reflection of his popularity in his own day. He was easily one of the most despised and rejected of all the prophets.

Rev. Althouse

For one thing, he was without any training or background in this sacred vocation. By vocation he was a herdsman and dresser of sycamore trees — hardly preparation for the role of the prophet.

Secondly, he was a foreigner in Israel. His home was Tekoa, a little village between Jerusalem and Bethlehem in the nation of Judah. To the people of the neighboring Israel to the north, it was presumptuous for Amos to presume to come to their land and pronounce dire prophecies. Why didn't he stay in his own country and be a prophet there?

Justice To Wormwood

Worst of all, however, was Amos' pronouncement upon all that they valued in their national life: "O you who turn justice to wormwood, and cast down righteousness to the earth!" (5:7). It seemed that Amos was saying God's judgement would be harsher on the people of Israel than on their pagan neighbors. There was virtually nothing in Israel that did not fall under his righteous indignation: "Therefore because you trample upon the poor and take from his exactions of what you have built houses of hewn stone, but you shall not dwell in them... For I know how many are your transgressions, and how great are your sins —" (5:11,12).

If this was hard for the people of Israel to bear, his judgement upon their religious life was even more devastating:

I hate, I despise your feasts, and I take no delight in your solemn assemblies. Even though you offer me your burnt offerings and cereal offerings, I will not accept them... Take away from me the noise of your songs; to the melody of your hearts I will not listen. (5:21-23).

Amos' message was shocking: God was not pleased by their worship, he refused to hear their singing, and hardest of all to believe: he was completely hostile to their offerings. I've never been in a church that refused to accept people's offerings, but that's precisely what Amos said God was doing.

True Offerings

Of course there was nothing wrong with their offering per se, what was wrong was that these offerings of money were just so much hypocrisy in light of the evil that had reigned all about them. What God wanted more than great offerings could be summed up in one grand passage: "But let justice roll like waters, and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream" (5:24).

How we treat other people — particularly those in need — will always be of far greater importance than our rituals, feasts and offerings.

Congregation Of Log Church Sets Special Service

A special service has been scheduled for Sunday, August 5, at our Father's House, Espiscopal Church, Altamont, marking the anniversary of the cornerstone laying at the church. Beginning at 11:15 a.m., the service will feature the singing of special hymns and scripture readings, and has been given the name of "Welcome Home Sunday," according to Rev. John A. Grant, pastor.

Last year, the congregation marked the forty-fifth anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of the Log Church. Friends and former members of the congregation who attended the service asked that an annual service be conducted to commemorate the anniversary. Since it was a time that many people came back to visit in the area, the term "Welcome Home Sunday" was adopted for the particular day, according to Rev. Grant.

Following the service, refreshments will be served from tables under the trees that surround the Log Church.

Employee List No Longer Required By Internal Revenue

Federal income tax return preparers will no longer have to file an annual list of their employees, the Internal Revenue Service said this week.

The next Form 5717, Annual List of Income Tax Return Preparers, would have been due on July 31, 1979.

Section 1.6060-1 of the Income Tax Regulations, which requires the annual filing of Form 5717, will be changed so that the information previously reported on the form need only be retained for IRS inspection upon request.

The IRS said that self-employed income tax return preparers, who also were required to file Form 5717 for themselves, no longer need do so.

As a result of this change penalties assessed against tax return preparers for failure to file the 1978 Form 5717 will be abated. Penalties already paid will be refunded automatically, according to the IRS.

Actual deliveries during May averaged $12.00 per hundredweight, $1.30 above May 1978. The preliminary price for June is $12.00 at 3.55 percent butterfat.

Prices paid by farmers during June for feed were all above a year earlier.

Three Hurt When Car Skids Off Bridge Into Creek

Three escaped serious injury Sunday when the vehicle in which they were traveling skidded off the Savage River Road bridge in Bloomington and came to rest in Poplar Lick Run.

According to Cpl. Elmer Selby, Maryland State Police, the 5:15 mishap occurred when a vehicle being operated by Robert S. Alexander, 26, Owings Mills, skidded out of control over the bridge and landed on its top in the water.

Alexander has been charged with operating a vehicle at too great a speed for conditions. He was treated at the scene for a broken collar bone by personnel from the Tri-Towns Rescue Squad.

Also treated for minor lacerations were two passengers in the vehicle, Anita J. Wilson, 14, Frostburg, and Robert Booth, Midland.

The vehicle, a 1979 Chevrolet Camaro, was termed a total loss.

Members of the Bloomington and Westernport volunteer fire departments also responded to the scene.

Forest Boards Meet July 11

The Garrett County and Allegany County Forest Conservancy Boards held a joint meeting on July 11, at Camp Hickory, near Accident, to develop a program for the fall meeting of the Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy Boards, which is scheduled for September 27-29 at Camp Hickory.

The theme selected by the Board members for the fall meeting was "Cooperation between private industry and State Forest Management." Since Allegany and Garrett Counties contain approximately 75 percent of all of the State Forest land in Maryland, it was felt that this meeting would provide Conservancy Board members from across the State the opportunity to view the management of State Forests.

A committee consisting of Paul Mateer, Eugene Straub, Charles Strauss, Sr., and L. D. Peterson was appointed by the Conservancy Boards to plan tours for the meeting that would provide an overall view of management of State Forest land.

Wool Payments Total $36,595

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) paid $36,595 to Maryland sheep growers for their 1978 wool marketings. The incentive payments were earned by 466 producers.

According to Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland ASC Committee, $2,789 was deducted from these payments to finance advertising, sales promotion and market development. Sheep producers previously approved the wool and lamb promotion program by voting in a referendum.

The 1978 wool program report shows that Maryland sheep producers marketed 90,000 pounds of shorn wool and 4,210 hundredweight of unshorn lambs, earning payments of $30,951 and $5,644 respectively.

"Each payment was determined by multiplying the producer's net dollar returns from 1978 marketings by the payment rate," Crowl said. The national average market price for shorn wool was 74.5 cents per pound and the support price was $1.08. Payment rates were 45.0 percent for shorn wool and $1.34 per hundredweight for unshorn lambs.

According to the report, 10.7 million head of sheep were on U.S. farms and ranches on January 1, 1979, 1 percent less than a year earlier and the smallest number on record. Shorn wool production last year totaled 101.3 million pounds, 5 percent less than in 1977 and 9 percent below the 1976 production level. Pulled wool declined from 4.0 million pounds in 1976 to 1.7 million in 1977 and 500,000 pounds in 1978.

U.S. sheep growers marketed 91,061,000 pounds of shorn wool and 3,821,310 hundredweight of unshorn lambs. Incentive payments on the 1978 marketings totaled $29,024,930 and $5,120,707, respectively.

The ASCS official said the objective of the wool program is to encourage growers to increase production and improve the quality of wool.

Synthetic Fuel Plant Suggested For Western Md.

"In light of President Carter's commitment to developing synthetic fuel resources for America, I recommend that part of the additional revenues to be spent on synthetic fuels be used to construct a synthetic fuel plant in Garrett or Allegany Counties in Western Maryland, where we have abundant supplies of the coal needed to produce the fuel," State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein told the Maryland branch of the National League of Postmasters, meeting in Odenton on Tuesday evening, July 17.

"This would save money in transportation costs, and the finished product could be shipped to the rest of the nation or region by pipeline. We must actively pursue these alternative fuel sources and conservation, or we will continue to have our pocketbooks picked and our basic principles abused in this energy crisis," the Comptroller stated.

"As State Comptroller, I regulate portions of the gasoline industry here in Maryland, so our office has been very active in checking on the gasoline situation, and doing everything we can to protect Maryland's gasoline consumer. On July 13, 1979, we implemented Maryland's new Service Station Divestiture Law, which prohibits company operated service stations.

"However, when five companies operating service stations in Maryland requested extensions on that deadline, we granted them to protect any possible loss of gasoline allocation in Maryland," the Comptroller said.

The Comptroller also noted that his office is notifying the oil industry of new requirements for reporting unusual sales of petroleum products and more timely inventory information.

"These reports will allow us to determine if product on the spot market is being diverted or withheld from consumers," he said. "The inventory information will be a great help to the State Energy Policy Office and allows them to eliminate some of their reporting requirements."

Provided By The Garrett County Mental Health and Addictions Services

This is a good time to examine what you are doing to promote and maintain your own mental health and that of others, according to Mary I. Love, Director of Planning, Garrett County Mental Health and Addictions Services. Take a minute and answer the following questions:

1. Do you recognize or thank others when they have done something you appreciate?
2. Do you take time to relax during a hectic day?
3. Do you avoid the excessive use of alcohol and other drugs?
4. Do you remember to spend meaningful time with your children or parents each day?
5. Do you do work which is neither far beyond or far below your ability?
6. Do you share your concerns with someone close to you?
7. Do you listen attentively when someone shares his/her concerns with you?
8. Do you take time each day for recreation and exercise?
9. Do you give yourself credit every day for the good qualities you show?
10. Do you work patiently but consistently on your weaknesses?

If you can answer yes to these questions, you are probably on your way to having good mental health and to increasing the mental health of others. If many of your answers are no, perhaps now is the time to make a change, even a small one.

Good mental health, like most qualities worth having, has to be worked on in order to be maintained. But what is good mental health? How do you know when you have it? While a true definition is complex, the following are some of the characteristics of a person with good mental health, according to Mary I. Love:

1. Sleep usually comes within a half hour after going to bed and is sound until waking in the morning.
2. Physical aches and pains can be explained medically.
3. The regular use of alcohol is not necessary to maintain a low level of tension.
4. While the person does not remain emotionless, neither does he/she exhibit wide swings in emotional mood over a short period of time.
5. The person does not have fears which have little basis in reality.
6. The person possess a basic trust for others.
7. The person is able to establish close relationships with others if he/she chooses.

While this list does point to some of the characteristics of a mentally health person, it is not exhaustive. Where questions regarding the status of an individual's mental health is in question, a mental health professional should be consulted.

PET POINTERS

"Dog Days"

Jogging with pet dogs may be good exercise but it can be dangerous for the animal in the "dog days" of summer, the Maryland Veterinary Medical Association warned this week.

Veterinarians have reported incidents of dogs collapsing with heatstroke while jogging with their owners and some of the pets have died, according to Dr. Robert H. Batchelor, president of the Association.

Veterinarians have noted an increase in heatstroke cases allied with jogging and they report an "unfortunate number" of heatstroke victims among pets left in closed automobiles, Dr. Batchelor said. He added that owners should realize that dogs cannot tolerate heat as humans can.

In a related incident, a veterinarian reported that a pet suffered serious blisters on the pads of all four feet after the animal and owner had played frisbee on a hot paved asphalt parking lot.

In heatstroke cases, Dr. Batchelor said, it is imperative to reduce the pet's temperature as soon as possible. The animal should be rushed to a veterinary hospital while, at the same time, efforts are made to keep the animal cool. A good way to do this is to sponge the animal with cold water or wrap it in a cool wet towel.

Kids Dog Show

A prize for everyone will be the order of the day at a free Kids Dog Show to be held at 2 p.m., Saturday, August 18 at Hopemont Hospital, Terra Alta, W. Va.

All area children between the ages of four and 14 who have a dog are invited to enter. Any dog may compete, regardless of breed, pedigree or professional training, provided it is at least six months old.

The Kids Dog Show is sponsored jointly as a public service by the National Recreation and Park Association, Ken'L Ration and Hopement's Activities Department in conjunction with The International Year of the Child Week. It gives children the opportunity to learn responsible dog ownership while having fun parading their canine friends.

Judging categories are best behaved, funniest, best trick, smallest dog, largest dog, best looking and Best of Show. First, second and third prize ribbons will be awarded to winners in each category, with a Best of Show to be selected from the first place winners. In addition, each entrant will receive a merit award ribbon and Ken-L Ration dog care booklet.

Senators Ask For Title V Funding

Fourteen U. S. Senators, including Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) are calling for full funding of the new Title V regional economic development commission which includes the State of Maryland.

Their support for the funds which would enable the commission to begin operations in the 1980 fiscal year was expressed in a joint letter to Senator Ernest F. Hollings (D-S.C.), chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee's subcommittee which has jurisdiction over the Department of Commerce program. Funding for the Mid-Atlantic and two other regional commissions was omitted from President Carter's 1980 budget.

The senators said problem-solving on a multi-state regional level "is a worthwhile goal" which should be pursued. The Mid-Atlantic Region, they said, is an area containing more blight, more unemployment and more social problems than in other parts of the country.

A recent survey of regional economies by the Conference Board indicates that the Northeast and Midwest sections of the country will bear the brunt of this year's predicted recession. The business-financed study said the two regions will be most affected by the downturn because they are the home of many cyclically sensitive capital and consumer-goods industries.

"If we are to tackle these problems on a regional basis, then we must fund the Title V Commission, so that we can make use of their resources," they wrote. "Enabling the regional commission to do its job will be a first step in solving our common economic problems."

Pilots shot down with all aboard

By ANNE THAYER

BARNARD HUGHES: ...until the last minute he thought "Father Brown" was a hit.

Many of the new movies made for television are one-shots. Others are the so-called pilots for possible future series. How can you tell the difference?

You, the viewer can't always spot whether a yarn is destined to spin on weekly. And neither, as the esteemed Barnard Hughes recounts it, can the star, who may be held on option in a limbo where he's forbidden to sign up for another vehicle until the network has said whether the pilot is "go" or "no go" for the series treatment.

For more than a year now, Hughes has starred on Broadway in "Da" as an irascible, charming Irish working man. Without padding or makeup he appears to gain 40 pounds and age 30 years in the course of an evening. It is the plum stage role of his life and it won him the 1978 Tony Award as the year's best actor.

"I'm glad it didn't happen too soon. When it did, I was ready for it."

Hughes, who used to play a priest in "All in the Family" and starred in "Doc," says he was also ready about now for a good TV series and he thought fate had given him the nod with "Father Brown, Detective."

How was he cast?

"It's a funny thing. I came across it first during a discussion with Ed Asner about choices. I said I supposed he had a lot after 'The Mary Tyler Moore Show' ended."

Asner replied that other than the "Lou Grant" offer there was "just 'Father Brown.'"

Was the role still open?

Hughes wondered. He loved the concept enough to approach the Marble Arch Company, which planned to produce it. But nothing happened for whole year.

Then, with "Da" going great on Broadway, Hughes got the word that NBC had discovered Father Brown. A development deal was his if Hughes would take the role. He would as long as it didn't interfere with "Da." So an on-location shooting schedule was set for New York.

The pilot movie took five weeks. Says Hughes, "Until the very last minute, I thought we had a hit that would go into a series. The bad part is that NBC didn't tell me yes or no. The answer was 'no' of course but not until the last day of my option. By then I'd lost a good movie role I could have had.

Lee Strasberg replaced me in 'Steppin' Out' with George Burns and Art Carney."

Hughes may have fingered the reason why there are so many new pilots and so few good series.

"Even if you have all the right ingredients, you have to let a series shake down for a while ... let the writers get used to the characters."

Taking a backward glance, by today's sudden-death ratings' standards, "All in the Family" would have perished as a fledgling.

In fact the series went through three successive pilots – all with its eventual star Carroll O'Connor – before it even got on the air. The first network that optioned it, backed out. And in its early weeks on CBS, its status was shaky.

Oddly, in September, the hit show spins into a new crisis cycle because Jean Stapleton, who first plannwd to quit cold, will appear only occasionaly. The new episodes focus on Archie Bunker's new incarnation as a bartender. It could work. If it doesn't, nobody suffers, least of all O'Connor who's already made a mint on the series and has his own production company.

Also casting himself as a bar owner in what ran as half-hour special, but was really a pilot, is Redd Foxx.

Foxx's own company brought the property to ABC which had signed him to a development deal in conjuction with the unsuccessful variety format he tried after bowing out of "Sanford and Son."

His new effort, "My Buddy," might be just what Foxx needs. It has a storyline, but the mood is pure farce: he gets rich and tries to break into society.

TV People

In March of 1978 Don Drysdale, one of the outanding pitchers in recent National League history, came to ABC Sports as the third man in the booth on "ABC's Monday Night Baseball."

Drysdale starred for 14 years with the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers, winning 209 games, the most won by any Dodgers pitcher in history. Following his retirement from baseball after the 1969 season, Drysdale turned to sportscasting Expo games on Canadian television.

Later, after a year with the Texas Rangers, he joined the California Angels in 1973, and continues to broadcast California games except on Monday nights when he is performing broadcast duties for ABC Sports' baseball series.

His broadcasting career has not been limited to baseball. He has covered golf tournaments and also has served as one of the announcers for World Championship Tennis. In addition, he covered football's Los Angeles Rams for four years on radio.

In his major league career as one of the game's most respected righthanders, Drysdale compiled a 2.95 earned run average. He participated in five World Series and was named to nine National League All-Star teams.

He set a record by pitching six straight shutouts and a total of 58 2-3 consecutive scoreless innings in 1968.

In the most recent Hall of Fame election, in which only Eddie Mathews qualified for induction, Drysdale received more votes than any other pitcher on the ballot.

Drysdale makes his home in Rancho Mirage, California, outside Palm Springs, with his wife of 20 years, Ginger. They have one daughter, Kelly.

SUNPORCH SOJOURN — Diana, Pat, and Ricky, otherwise known as the "Hooker Holler Symphony," conduct an informal jam session on the porch of Diana's family home in Mt. Lake Park. The group will appear at the Elks Club this evening from 9 p.m. until midnight.

By Jim Willis

Usually when you put three talented virtuosos in the same band, tempers flare, egos conflict, and disharmony reigns. Not so with "Hooker Holler Symphony," a three "man" bluegrass band popular in the area for the last four years.

In fact, its members, Diana Haynes, Pat Sheilds, and Ricky Roberts, are so close they should have been siblings, 'cept for the fact that there must be an ordinance about so much talent in the same family.

Diana, 23, of Mt. Lake Park, is the femme fatale banjo strummer. Born and raised in Washington, D. C., she moved to her summer home in Mt. Lake Park in 1973.

Self-taught, she learned the five-string banjo using an instruction book, and after she'd exhausted its methods she began haunting bluegrass festivals in search of a few pointers.

All that pickin' and grinnin' paid off in 1976 when she won the Maryland State Banjo Championship at Garrett County's own Autumn Glory Festival. The following year she was first runner-up in the West Virginia Championship held at Elkins' Forest Festival.

Her talents are many and varied. In addition to playing the bass and guitar, she sings back-up harmony for the band, creates stained-glass windows, dabbles in calligraphy, paints sporadically, folk dances, and concocts imaginative birthday cakes for her friends.

Diana will admit that the sport of kings courses through her veins. She has spent a portion of the last two years breaking race horses in Frederick, as well as tending to her own thoroughbred mount at home.

Pat, 38, resides in Keyser, WV with his wife, Annie, and their daughter, 18 month-old, Jessie.

Their home is situated in an area with the honest-to-goodness nomenclature of "Hooker Hollow," hence the band's name.

Raised in Athens, Georgia, Pat moved to Washington, D. C. in 1964 and began weekending in Berkeley Springs, W. Va. at the Coolfont Recreation Area where he met Annie.

Pat is also self-taught and is the guitarist, lead singer, emcee, and comedian for the band. His entire family is musical but, as he says, "I'm the only one doing it for a living." Previously he worked as a park manager and third-grade elementary school teacher.

At present Pat is working under a grant from the West Virginia Arts and Humanties Council as an Artist in Residence for the West Virginia school systems.

Then there's Ricky, 24. If someone were to string two clothespoles together, Ricky could probably elicit a tune from it. He plays the mandolin, fiddle, guitar, banjo, or in short, anything with strings attached.

A native of Sutton, W. Va. he began his musicality by teaching himself to play the guitar. Ricky has never bothered to learn to read music. Why guild the lily?

"I went through the whole Rock 'n' Roll thing," he says. With a band by the name of (may it rest in peace), "Carnivorous Couch." He then played with Mike Morningstar and eased into bluegrass with Diana and Pat.

Obviously competition material, Ricky has never competed in any contest, fiddle or otherwise. He did, however, play accompaniment for Diana when she took the State Championship.

He has assisted Pat in the organization of such contests as the Mountain Heritage Festival at Potomac State College — where they met Diana. He says, "Usually Pat drafts me into helping him."

Ricky kids about his future. "I'm gonna move to Key West and play with Jimmy Buffett." Jimmy would be tickled to Carol Burnett couldn't keep away forever. Despite recent rumors to the contrary, she'll return to CBS next fall with a couple of hot pals to do four new variety specials. A regular series is in the beginning to be developed, but Burnett has also done some recent work for her old network. CBS September 18 is the airdate of her "Tenth Month," a comedy-drama in which Burnett plays a pregnant housewife. Also appearing are Ken Berry, Richard Kelton and Diane Ladd.

The program, tentatively titled "Carol and Company," will feature Harvey Korman, Lyle Waggoner, Vicki Lawrence, as well as Kenneth Mars and Craig Wasson. A number of special guest appearances are also planned.

Wasn't Kitty, one of Holly-wood's most dynamic femme performers, will play Joe Don Baker's pet cat, P.C., in Eastwood, NBC's new police drama airing Fridays this fall.

Baker is a cat lover who personally cast the part of P.C. (initials for police commissioner). "I checked out a lot of cats," says Baker. "But none could compare with Waldo for size, color and personality. Waldo is an orange and white 3-year-old who enjoys shopping for kitty litter in Beverly Hills."

Keenan Wynn, Mary Tyler Moore and Randy Powell are all heading to Dallas, Texas, to join the cast of CBS's popular soap and sit tight. "Dallas" won't appear in the special report later. Bigger Barnes for merly played by David Wayne. Ms. Crosby will play Sue Ellen's younger sister. And Towell is Alan Bean, a devious lawyer who becomes the protege of J.R. Things will probably be a lot more devious all around next season.

An international all-star hour movie, "The French Atlantic Affair." Alphabetically, they are: Jean Pierre Aumont, Horst Buchholz, James Coco, Chad Everett, Richard Jordan, Louis Jourdan, Vivian Blaine, Ann Sothern and Yvonne Wilder.

When "Fantasy Island" returns to TV next fall Hall Bartlett has also done some recent work for her old network. CBS September 18 is the airdate of "The Tenth Month," a comedy-drama in which Burnett plays a pregnant housewife. Also appearing are Ken Berry, Richard Kelton and Diane Ladd.

Solution to Last Week's Puzzle

Bert Convy & Co. save the world

If you think you've got a busy life, wait till you see "Ebony, Ivory and Jade," a special action-adventure movie airing Friday, Aug. 3, over CBS.

Bert Convy stars as Nick Jade, former Ivy League tennis bum, race-car driver, song-and-dance man and Vietnam hero who now manages a two-girl nightclub act and doubles as a private detective with important friends in high places and desperate enemies in low places.

Also starring are Debbie Allen and Martha Smith as Claire Bryant and Maggie Davis, who perform as Ebony and Ivory, but who also work undercover for Nick Jade in his world-wide dangerous assignments.

The trio's current problem is protecting Dr. Adela Teba, played by Nina Foch, who has developed a new super-explosive whose potential as a weapon for terrorists is incalculable.

While smuggling Dr. Teba from the Near East to Washington, D.C., Ebony, Ivory and Jade find that one lap of the journey involves an overnight train ride through a portion of Canada, and it is here that Jade's old nemesis, an international hit-man known as the Vicar, appears in the guise of English gentleman Ian Cabot and tries to blow up the train. Cabot is played by guest star Donald Moffat.

The intrigue's conclusion is played out against the background of a Las Vegas hotel and casino, where comedian David Brenner and singer Frankie Valli make special guest appearances as themselves.

"Ebony, Ivory and Jade" was written and produced by Jimmy Sangster from a story by Ann Beckett and Mike Farrell, and directed by John L. Moxey.

SINGING SLEUTH -- Bert Convy, known generally on TV as a game show host, gets to show both his singing and his dramatic side as he stars in "Ebony, Ivory and Jade," August 3, on CBS.

Hooker Holler

death.

Hooker Holler Symphony would be surprised if someone told them that they were professional musicians. How could a profession be so painless?

The group has played anywhere and everywhere: Fox Hollow Folk Festival, Petersburg, N. Y.; Key West, Florida; Pimlico Racetrack; Red Fox Inn, Washington, D. C., and the Cafe Lena, Saratoga, N. Y. — springboard for Peter, Paul and Mary; Gordon Lightfoot, and other luminaries.

They even played the Grand Seafood Festival, Grant County, Fla., which was attended by 20,000 people. Diana says, "They paid us in oysters and fried fish."

With a similar fee in mind, Pat jokes, "Ricky and I have been hoping we can get a job at a brewery somewhere."

Diana is leaving Hooker Holler Symphony at the end of the summer. A multi-talented lady, she needs a break from the rigors of performing, and to pursue other areas of self-expression.

Pat and Ricky will continue to perform as a duo and will go where the mandolin and guitar may lead. Pat also jokes about Diana leaving the band. "After four years we get tired of looking at one another — we usually can't stay away from each other for too long though."

Hooker Holler Symphony performs at Geoff's, Davis, W. Va. on Friday evenings; Coolfont Recreation Area, Berkeley Springs, W. Va. on some weekends; and they'll even be at the West Virginia Poultry Convention in Moorefield, W. Va. next month. No jokes about "Turkey in the Straw," please.

And since one measure of "Orange Blossom Special" is worth a thousand words — put on your Sunday-go-to-meetin' clothes and be at the Elks Lodge tonight from 9-12 midnight.' Diana, Pat, and Ricky will be there. Tell the management Hooker Holler Symphony sent you.

Masonry block has far better M & U factors than poured concrete. That's a fact. So, used naturally, without any insulation, masonry block will always be warmer. Yet, the builder can still add additional insulation in the cores of a masonry block for an exceptionally energy-efficient wall. Masonry block foundation walls can even allow the builder to insulate his floors more quickly since he need not wait to strip the concrete forms.

We also have attractive pre-cast materials, patio stones, steps, splash blocks, parking curbs, concrete pipe, flower boxes, etc. So stop in and see us for all your masonry needs.

Almanac

Today is Wednesday July 25, the 206th day of 1979 with 159 to follow.

The moon is new.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Leo.

American artist Maxfield Parrish and actor Walter Brennan were born on July 25 — the artist in 1870 and Brennan in 1894.

On this day in history:

In 1866, Ulysses S. Grant became the first American officer to reach the rank of general in the U. S. Army.

In 1952, Puerto Rico became a self-governing U. S. commonwealth.

In 1972, Democratic vice-presidential nominee Thomas Eagleton, a Missouri senator, disclosed he had had psychiatric care for "nervous ailments" in the 1960s. Presidential nominee George McGovern removed him from the ticket and replaced him with Sargent Shriver.

In 1975, Turkey said it would (and later did) halt all activities at U. S. military installations in that country because of a six-month arms' embargo imposed by the United States because of the Turkish invasion of Cyprus.

A thought for the day: American statesman Daniel Webster said, "Let our object be our country, our whole country, and nothing but our country."

Spot Market Gas Sales Eyed By Goldstein's Office

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said recently that his office is notifying all known bulk sellers of petroleum products that they will be required to report certain unusual sales and to submit more timely inventory reports in order to provide State officials with more complete information about petroleum supplies and movements in Maryland.

The regulations will affect individuals and companies who make sales of more than 5,000 gallons of gasoline, diesel fuel, home heating oil, and kerosene designed for resale. Those sales are to be reported if they are made to persons or companies which were not customers of record as of December 31, 1977.

"These monthly reports have been authorized by the Administrative, Executive and Legislative Review Committee of the Maryland General Assembly, and they should give us a clearer picture of the true nature of the 'spot market' here in Maryland," Mr. Goldstein said. "While we can now trace the purchases of gasoline made by some brokers, these regulations will allow us to trace the sales of spot market gasoline, diesel fuel, heating oil and kerosene so that we know where the product is moving in the State and whether it is being diverted from consumers or withheld."

The Comptroller noted that spot market purchases of gasoline by brokers and speculators has increased dramatically in recent months. May 1979 purchases totaled 12.8 million gallons, nearly 1,000 percent greater than May 1978 levels.

An additional regulation requires end of month inventory information from most individuals and companies with bulk storage of petroleum products. The inventory information must be reported to the Gasoline Tax Division of the State Comptroller's Office within six working days of the end of the month. Retail service stations and individuals who store exclusively for their own consumption will not be required to submit reports.

"This timely inventory information will be of assistance to the State Energy Policy Office in its efforts to deal with the supplies of petroleum products in Maryland," Mr. Goldstein said. "The State Energy Policy Office will use this information and will no longer require its monthly inventory reports from the oil industry."

The emergency regulations will require reports for August 1979 and later activity. Adoption of permanent regulations is being pursued through the publication and hearing process required by State law.

Mathias Says Senate Should Set Example

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has suggested that the U. S. Senate put its house in order from an energy standpoint by adhering to building temperature restrictions, shutting off electric lights and equipment when not in use and walking up and down stairs instead of using elevators.

The Senate is not subject to the temperature restrictions, which stem from a resolution it passed on May 2 by a vote of 89 to 3 approving President Carter's contingency plan for heating and cooling government buildings.

Mathias made his suggestions in a recent letter to Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd (D-WV).

"Although the Congress is not subjected by law to the provisions of the President's contingency plan," Senator Mathias wrote, "We should lose no time in showing our determination to participate fully in this conservation effort by adopting national standards for the cooling and heating of buildings occupied by the Legislative Branch. I urge you to take whatever steps are necessary to implement such a policy without delay."

Mathias also recommended that the Senate undertake a thorough examination of its physical plant to determine what structural changes should be made to conserve energy and what energy conservation devices should be installed "to help us husband our energy resources."

Mathias said that while no institution or individual can solve U. S. energy problems single-handedly, "it is important that each of us as individuals and as members of the United States Senate, do our utmost to demonstrate leadership in the current crisis."

He noted that nearly a quarter of the energy consumed in the United States goes for space heating and cooling and the production of hot water. Under full compliance with the President's plan for building temperature restrictions, he said, as much as 364,000 barrels of petroleum could be saved each day.

"Adopting temperature restrictions is a small beginning," Mathias told Byrd. "But at least it is a beginning. We should also discourage the use of elevators by making it a point of patriotism to walk rather than ride down, and where possible, to walk up stairs as well.

"We should initiate a vigorous campaign in individual offices of vigilance against waste by turning off lights and electrical equipment when they are not in use. How many xerox machines, for example, are turned off now at the end of each day? A spot check would reveal shocking waste I fear."

He suggested that the majority leader appoint a committee to receive suggestions and to publicize techniques for energy saving, adding that such a move could produce dozens of useful ideas.

"I would like to see us get started on such a campaign immediately," Mathias told Byrd. "Perhaps I am overly optimistic, but I forsee a time when we will vie with one another to see who can save the most energy and when we will be as proud of that kind of a competition as we are now when we manage to fill up our gas tanks, despite all of the forces arrayed against us."

In the spirit of his conservation suggestions, Mathias issued a memorandum to his staff asking them to become "pacesetters in the conservation effort on Capitol Hill."

ROOM-SIZE OR WALL-TO-WALL?

What would be best, a room-size rug or wall-to-wall carpeting? Have you asked yourself this question? Here are a few factors to consider before deciding.

Wall-to-wall carpeting can do wonders for a room. It can make a small room seem larger and bring together an odd shaped room. There's a rich, luxurious look to wall-to-wall carpeting. Because of installation charges, wall-to-wall carpeting is more expensive than a room-size rug. This is why, in very heavy traffic areas, we often recommend a high quality room-size rug for people who can't afford wall-to-wall carpeting of comparable quality.

A room-size rug is a foot or more smaller than the room itself. To distribute wear and insure long life, you can turn it periodically. A room-size rug can be sent out for professional cleaning rather than having it done in your home. Of course, when you move, you can take your rug with you much easier.

Whether you decide on a room-size rug or wall-to-wall carpeting, you're sure to love the fine selection at Roderick's.

Each week we will tell you more about carpeting for your home. Watch for these columns.

Brenda Wakefield Is State FFA Band Director

Northern High Head Majorette Brenda Wakefield was picked to direct the 1979 State FFA Band during the recent State Future Farmers' Convention at the University of Maryland.

In preparing for her assignment Brenda had received applications from Future Farmer musicians from across the state and mailed each of them their instrumental music for the selections to be played during the three-day convention. The director and her musicians reported to the university one day early for practice and performed at the first convention session. Their total effort was rewarded by commendation by the University President in his welcoming remarks to the assembled FFA Members.

Brenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Wakefield, Friendsville, and received her music training from Mrs. Lillian Reckner and Melvin Schwing. She was enrolled in the Northern Horticulture program in her senior year and is presently employed by IBMI in Oakland.

Other Northern Band members participating in the state FFA Band were Patty Lowdermilk, Kim Fike, Kurt Harshman, Jeff Frost, Brian Glisian and Regina Bender.

The Maryland FFA Band was organized three years ago under the student direction of Cathy Reckner and adult chairmanship at the Northern FFA Advisor. It has increased in size and popularity each year and provides an opportunity for state participation by FFA musicians who may be ineligible for other activities.

At the close of the convention, Brenda presented each member of the band with a state pin signifying their part in this year's production.

In addition to band members Shirley Stouber, McHenry, and Dianne Rinker, Accident, accompanied the group to the University as official Delegates of the Junior North Garrett Chapter. Shirley participated in the state creed contest and Dianne was a FFA Knowledge contestant.

FFA Members were chaperoned by Mrs. R. Dale Fike and the Northern FFA Advisor.

Donna Broadwater Is FFA American Royal Candidate

Donna Broadwater of Grantsville represented the Northern FFA as American Royal Candidate during the recent State FFA Convention. Donna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Broadwater and is engaged in producing beef cattle in addition to enrollment in the Northern Horticulture program.

Eighteen FFA Chapters had representatives in the contest which consisted of an essay of the individual's knowledge of the American Royal plus an intensive 30-minute personal interview with a panel of four judges.

The winner of the state contest will travel to Kansas City in November to represent Maryland as American Royal Princess and compete with girls of the FFA from the other 49 states and Purto Rica for the honor of serving as Queen of the American Royal Livestock Show.

Energy Tip — When possible and practical, line dry clothes instead of using an automatic clothes dryer. By doing this, you will utilize readily available human energy and save valuable gas and electricity!

KEEP FOOD SAFE DURING SUMMER OUTINGS

Camping, picnicking and backyard grilling are favorite summertime family activities where food is served and eaten. Keeping food safe at these times is extremely important in order to prevent food poisoning from occurring. Think beforehand and follow these few simple rules to help you protect your family and guest when eating out-of-doors.

*Be extremely clean in preparing food. Use plenty of hot water and soap on hands as well as on utensils. Also, keep insects and animals away from food.

*Keep hot foods hot (above 140°F) and cold foods cold (below 40°F). Bacteria that causes food poisoning thrives in temperatures between 50° and 120°F.

*If using raw meat for a picnic, you might wish to start out with it frozen and wrapped in newspaper for extra insulation.

*Use a well insulated cooler — one for hot foods and one for cold foods, if carrying both.

*Use as many non-perishable foods as possible, such as fresh or cannned fruits or vegetables. Pickled foods usually have enough acid for preserving the food. Creamed dishes, cream sauces, and custard and cream pies are highly perishable and are best left at home.

*If your picnic menu includes sandwiches, leave the actual preparation until you are ready for the meal. When using a freezable filler you can make and freeze sandwiches ahead of time. They will thaw out in the cooler enroute to the outing area.

*Mix salads just before use. Be sure that all salad items are well chilled before putting into the cooler.

*For an outing away from home check on the water drinking supply. Clear running water is not always safe to drink. If this is so, carry your own water with you.

*Do not allow left-over food to sit in the sun once the meal is over.

Keep picnic food simple, easy to prepare and easy to carry. Remember that quality and food safety are more important than great variety.

FOOD NOTES

Melons are now readily available and are very nutritious. Here is a refreshing recipe that combines oranges with melon — I think you will enjoy it.

FRESH ORANGE MELON SHRUB

makes 2 servings
2 Oranges, peeled, cut in chunks
2 cups assorted melon chunks (watermelon, cantaloupe, honeydew)
1 pint raspberry sherbet

In blender, combine oranges, melon and ½ pint sherbet; blend until smooth. Pour into 2 large glasses. Top with scoops of remaining sherbet.

WANTED: ONE GINGHAM DOG — This precocious Calico kitten would complete someone's set, if they had a gingham dog. Of course, they would get along more amicably than their proverbial predecessors. Kittens adapt easily to other animals, but "strange" animals should always be introduced slowly and patiently. The above little girl is available from the Garrett County Animal Shelter, 334-3553, with all shots and a clean bill of health. Last week's German Shepherd was adopted by Richard Wildesen, Sr.

TCC Includes One Garrett Project On Priority List

Garrett County had one economic development program on the priority list adopted by the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland during the Wednesday, July 11 meeting. The council gave priority ratings for 11 projects in the three counties as a practical step to implement the overall economic development program.

The Garrett County project, number four on the priority list, is a tentative one, according to Tim Dugan, county planning director. It involves expenditure of about $470,000 which would provide water and sewer lines and an access road to a 45-acre Route 135 industrial park which would be adjacent to Oakland, Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn.

Tom Jones, director of the Garrett County Development Corporation, explained that the project is contingent on the acquisition of clients or businesses to develop the proposed site. Several companies have indicated an interest but until they commit themselves the county will not proceed to conclude negotiations with property owner, Francis Sanders. "Even though tentative terms have been reached with the owner, the county is not buying an option to the land just yet," Jones said.

The project would be financed with $282,000 from EDA, $94,000 from ARC and another $94,000 from local sources.

Woman Pleads Guilty To Welfare Fraud

Ellene R. Tharp, formerly of 16 N. Third Street, Oakland, entered a plea of guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court to the charge of welfare fraud on July 18. The evidence in the case presented by James L. Sherbin, State's Attorney for Garrett County, disclosed that Mrs. Tharp was receiving public assistance while at the same time she was receiving child support from her husband which she failed to disclose to the Department of Social Services.

Judge Fred A. Thayer imposed a two-year sentence which he suspended upon the condition that Mrs. Tharp make restitution in the amount of $3,747.00.

Trooper Gordon L. Tittsworth, of the Maryland State Police Welfare Fraud Division, investigated the case.

Carter Proclaims July 25-31 Farm Safety Week

President Carter has proclaimed July 25-31 as National Farm Safety Week and reaffirmed the need for a reduction in the number of accidents and fires that lower production and bring personal loss to farm and ranch residents.

Co-sponsored by the National Safety Council (NSC) and the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), Farm Safety Week was begun in 1944 to help reduce farm accidents impairing wartime food and fiber production. The annual rural safety event is supported by many organizations serving agriculture.

The theme for the week is "Personal Protection — A Defense Against Injury." NSC and USDA officials are encouraging expanded use of personal protective equipment by farmers and ranchers. The equipment has been a significant factor in reducing the number and severity of work injuries in other industries.

According to preliminary estimates by the NSC, in 1978 accidents claimed the lives of approximately 5,700 farm and ranch residents. Agricultural work accidents resulted in 1,900 deaths and 180,000 disabling injuries; farm and ranch residents accounted for 1,500 and 140,000, respectively. Total cost approached $5 billion.

USDA officials urge farm workers to participate in the nationwide observance and strive to attain a safer agricultural community.

State To Receive $349,479 Mining Program Grant

Maryland will receive a $349,479 program development grant under the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act, Secretary of the Interior Cecil D. Andrus announced last week.

The Federal grant includes $44,385 for general program development costs and $280,000 for data collection to meet requirements of Section 522 of the Act for a process for designating lands unsuitable for surface coal mining.

Andrus, in making the announcement, said he was "genuinely pleased with the record Maryland has established in enforcing the Act's initial rules" and that he looked forward to further progress by Maryland in its mining regulation program.

The funds will be administered by the State's Energy and Coastal Zone Administration, Bureau of Mines, headed by L. E. Zeni.

Maryland passed its first surface mining law in 1955 and revamped the laws between 1969 and 1974, leading to requirements that land be restored to approximate original contour and 90 percent revegetation. Regulations which encompassed the interim program requirements of the new Federal Surface Mining Act were later approved.

In 1977, coal production in Maryland totaled 3,028,628 tons with 2,722,912 tons from strip mining and 261,094 tons from deep mining and 44,622 from auger mining. A total of 1,227 acres were strip mined in 1977. There are 891 persons employed in Maryland's coal mining operations.

Man Sought In Murder, Shooting Surrenders Here

A Mill Run, PA man was charged with homicide last Wednesday night after he gave himself up at the Garrett County Sheriff's Department in Oakland.

Thomas David Hensley, 36, was charged with shooting and killing Charles H. Burnsworthy, 26, also of Route 1, Mill Run, and with shooting and critically injuring Frank Burnsworthy, 24, Mill Run. He was held in an Oakland cell until picked up by Pennsylvania State police on charges of murder and aggravated assault.

The shooting occurred earlier in the evening near Ohiopyle, apparently following a dispute over water rights shared with family members.

After evading authorities all along Route 48, the suspect walked into the Garrett County Central Alarm office at 10:13 armed with a shotgun, and asked for directions to the sheriff's office. The dispatcher told him to go on down the hall to the next office.

Hensley then turned himself in to Jack Michael, dispatcher for the sheriff's department and surrendered his unloaded Remington 12 gauge shotgun. Hensley later told police he had come to Oakland through Terra Alta. He was accompanied to the office by his wife, his child and his father.

Officials Explore Ways To Keep Gorman Water Project Afloat

Four members of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission met with Dick Nace, county engineer, and Thomas Bourne of the Thomas B. Bourne Associates consulting firm Monday night to discuss possible ways to keep the Gorman water project from sinking.

When bids were opened last Tuesday, it was discovered that the apparent low bidder, Walter N. Yoder and Sons, Cumberland, exceeded the amount of grant and loan money by over $400,000. Yoder's bid was $970,900, while the county had obtained $550,000 for the project.

At the meeting Monday, Mr. Nace was instructed to meet with the consulting firm and Yoder representatives as soon as possible to determine all possible ways the bid could be lowered. John Yoder, present head of the contracting firm, had expressed concern over the amount of rock expected to be encountered in working on the project, and a savings might be recognized here if his firm could be convinced that core borings of the area provide accurate information about the amounts of rock.

The Walter N. Yoder firm is the affirmed low bidder for the project following bid tabulations by the county engineer and the consulting firm.

Once a bottom line for a contract has been established, the officials will meet with representatives of the Farmers' Home Administration state office to look at all bids to determine areas of overrun, and to gain some idea how much additional grant money could be contributed by that organization.

An August 10 deadline is looming, as this is the time FmHA state offices revert unused monies into the national pool.

Sanitary Commission members present were Charles Morris, chairman; Harry Filemyr, Jeanne Devine and E. Lawrence Groves. Tom Jones, who has been affiliated with the project for the past three years, was also present along with Jack Turney, legal counsel for the Sanitary Commission.

Tom Butscher of Radio Station WMSG attended, along with Gorman resident Clarence Bowman. There was some question by the Sanitary Commission chairman whether members of the public should be admitted to the session, and Mr. Turney indicated that the two could remain for the meeting.

Crosco Defense Asks Dismissal Of Indictment

A hearing began Tuesday morning before Associate Judge James S. Getty in Allegany County Circuit Court on a defense motion to dismiss a murder indictment against Robert Lee Crosco, 30, of 407 H Street, Mt. Lake Park.

The hearing will be resumed Wednesday, August 8.

Crosco was indicted May 4 by the Garrett County Circuit Court grand jury for the murder of his wife, Kotchie Ruth Crosco. She disappeared March 25, 1973, and her decomposed body was found four months later on July 25 in the Lost Land Run area of Potomac State Forest.

Associate Judge Fred A. Thayer, III, had granted a defense motion May 28 to remove the case to Allegany County for trial.

Thomas B. Dabney, Jr., and Robert Watson are Crosco's attorneys. Appearing for the state Tuesday was Daun R. Weiers, assistant state's attorney for Garrett County.

In their motion for dismissal of the indictment against Crosco for denial of a speedy trial and due process of law, the defense attorneys said Crosco was not indicted until six years and two months after his wife's death.

When Mrs. Crosco disappeared in 1973, her husband reported to police she had been kidnapped. He later retracted the statement and was fined $250 by Judge Lewis Jones in District Court on a charge of making a false report. Mrs. Crosco was 19 years old when she disappeared, and she is survived by two small children.

Crosco has been free under a $25,000 property bond since May 28. On may 31 he pleaded not guilty to the murder charge and elected to have a jury trial.

Airport, TCC Projects, Education Budget Are Commissioner Topics

The Board of County Commissioners heard recommendations from the Airport Advisory Board, signed leases for the additional office space at the Courthouse addition, and discussed a potential project package for Tri-County Council for the coming year at its Tuesday session.

Commissioners Truman Paugh, Ernie Gregg, Jr., and Lester Hunter also met with Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, assistant superintendent of administrative services for the Board of Education, who presented the Board's final budget draft.

The total education budget for the coming fiscal year, as presented to the commissioners, is $9,700,000 from all sources. The commissioners deferred final approval of the budget pending further evaluation.

Tim Dugan, county planning director, listed a half dozen sewer or water system improvements for local towns which may be included in the Tri-County Council project package.

Towns which may be eligible for improvements are Grantsville, Mt. Lake Park, Friendsville, and Oakland. The Kitzmiller water project may be re-submitted, according to Mr. Dugan, who will talk with the Commissioners about the projects later this week to confirm which projects should be considered.

The Board and Mr. Dugan discussed a State Department of Transportation request for federal money to complete preliminary engineering work on a rest area on Route 48 near Friendsville.

The area was graded and paved at the time the Freeway was completed several years

Ohio Man Arrested Thursday For Rape Of Elderly Grantsville Woman

An Akron, Ohio, man wanted in connection with the brutal rape of a 68-year-old Grantsville woman last Thursday waived extradition to Maryland Monday and was returned to the Allegany County jail.

Thomas William Griggs, 21, was apprehended by Pennsylvania State Police about 4 p.m., July 25, near Somerset as he was hitchhiking west along the Turnpike.

Maryland police had released his name and description as the man wanted in connection with the Grantsville incident, which took place shortly after 3 a.m. that day.

Maryland State Police reported that Griggs had been in the Blue Moon Saloon since 5 p.m. Wednesday, leaving the saloon at the 2 a.m. closing time. He apparently had spent the preceding week with relatives in the Kitzmiller area, and had left there after an argument with a family member.

Police reported that he was next heard from about 3 a.m. as he went from house to house on the east end of Grantsville, on the pretext of seeking shelter.

According to police, after he gained admission to the victim's home, he viciously beat her with his fists and repeatedly raped her. He then left her home about 3 a.m.

At 7:30 a.m. the victim managed to call a minister in LaVale, who notified the LaVale barracks of the state police and then continued to Grantsville. He called the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, which transported the woman to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, where she was listed in serious condition.

From various clues discovered by police, Griggs was identified by name, and all area police notified. Griggs is a resident of Akron, Ohio, where he lives with his mother, and is unemployed.

He was arrested without incident by Pennsylvania police, and charged as a fugitive from Maryland.

Assisting in the investigation here are Sgt. Howard Graham, Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland, and criminal investigator Tfc. R. E. Friend.

Man Rescued From Fuel Tank At Gulf Oil

A seemingly innocent task turned into near catastrophe at Gulf Oil Co., Oakland, Monday evening when an employee was overcome with fumes while cleaning a fuel storage tank. Both the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department were called to the scene after co-workers had failed at several recue attempts.

William Green, 19, of Swanton, and co-worker Clayton Miller began to clean the storage tank at 2:00 p.m. Monday after it had been drained of a bad load of #2 diesel fuel. Green went down into the 14,700 gallon tank to scrub it down with water, occasionally coming up for air, while Miller stood outside on top of the tank for safety purposes.

According to Doris Hershman of the oil company, Green stayed too long before coming out for air and was overcome by fumes at approximately 5 p.m. Miller and two others tried to get him out of the ten-foot-deep tank, but when their attempts failed and Miller, who had gone into the tank, was also affected by the fumes, they decided to call the rescue squad.

Frank Eberly, Southern Rescue member, responded to the scene before the squad and descended into the tank. He found Green face down nearly submerged in the gasoline and stayed in the tank long enough to prop Green up against the wall before he too had to get out due to the fumes.

Upon their arrival, the res-

Friendsville Man Dies Monday In Pickup Crash

A young Friendsville man died of multiple injuries resulting from a one-vehicle crash late Monday night on the Addison-Friendsville Road.

The victim was identified by Maryland State Police as David Stanley Miller, 23, of Route 1, Friendsville. The accident apparently occurred between 10 p.m. and midnight Monday, but was not discovered until daylight Tuesday when a passing citizen saw the vehicle.

According to the police report filed by Tfc. R.C. Georg, Mr. Miller was enroute home from work at Ringer Petroleum Company, Markleysburg, when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his 1974 Toyota pickup.

The vehicle ran off the right shoulder, crossed the road to the left side, went over a six-foot embankment and struck a tree. The accident occurred about three miles north of Friendsville.

Dr. James A. Feaster, county medical examiner, was called to the scene. The body was then taken to Cumberland where an autopsy was performed by Dr. Benedict Skiltarelic.

A native of Keyser, Mr. Miller was a son of Stanley and Adelia (House) Miller, Accident.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Darlene (Ours) Miller; two daughters, Kimberly Miller and Carla Miller, both at home; a brother, Paul Miller, Accident; two sisters, Mrs. Regina Brenneman and Miss Linda Miller, both of Accident; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Bessie House, Rawlings; and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cletes Miller, Keyser.

Services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. in the United Pentecostal Church with the Rev. Roy Riffle and the Rev. Gail Hixon officiating. Interment will be in Blooming Rose Cemetery, Friendsville. The body will be taken to the church at 1 p.m.

Funeral arrangements were made through the Newman Funeral Home, Friendsville.

Two Arrested For Oak View Larcenies

A Walnut Bottom man and a local juvenile have been arrested in connection with several area thefts, and are also implicated in a larger ring of thefts in Mineral and Allegany counties.

Arrested just before midnight Friday were Edward Alvin Morton, 25, Walnut Bottom, and a 17-year-old male.

They were apprehended by Oakland Sgt. Roger Lewis and Deputy D. A. Tucker.

According to the police report, the two were observed by Sgt. Lewis as they attempted to take two tires from a vehicle on the Oak View Motors parking lot in Oakland. They were apprehended on Poplar Street, and at that time it was noted the tires on their vehicle matched the description of four tires and wheels removed from a four-wheel drive vehicle at Oak View two weeks previously.

Morton was freed on bond Monday morning, and was apprehended again Monday night on other larceny charges by the sheriff's department, implicating him in the theft of $500 worth of tires and wheels from a vehicle along Route 135 over two weeks ago.

The juvenile was to have a juvenile detention hearing before Judge Fred A. Thayer this morning.

Commissioners File Answers To Coal Company's Suit

The Garrett County Commissioners have filed their answers to a suit by TG & C Coal Company of Midlothian asking $40,000 damages for what that company alleges is a worthless deed.

The suite was filed June 29 in Circuit Court, claiming that the commissioners gave the company a deed for 318 acres of coal, that the state government owns the land on top of the coal, not the commissioners, and that therefore the deed is worthless and the company has sustained resulting revenue loss of $40,000.

Commissioners Truman Paugh and H. Lester Hunter filed an answer through county attorney Jack Turney denying all the allegations. Commissioner Ernie Gregg filed an answer through his personal counsel Robert Watson saying that he had no personal knowledge of the situation.

W. Marshall Rickert, county administrator, stated that the action stems from an auction of coal lands by the previous board of commissioners approximately three years ago.

The Commissioners had the titles traced for various coal tracts which the county had acquired in the late 1930s, the tracts were identified, and an auction held.

The land concerned in the suit lies near Savage River. No hearing date has been established for the suit.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT — Southern Highlander Band Director, Richard D. Clever, and the members of the band know better than anyone else how much dedication and hard work is necessary to have a championship band. Thus, in preparation for a busy fall season of field competition, the members and staff held band camp last week at the school to brush up on their marching skills and learn the routine and music for their 1979-80 field show. Gruelling practice sessions were held Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. until 10 p.m., with breaks for meals and special activities. Band members endured high temperatures, high humidity, and occasional mud, however, from all reports, their spirit was also high throughout the week. The band ended the camp on Friday evening with a field show performance for the public. Those who assisted Mr. Clever in directing the camp were Bob Thomas, choreographer; Diane Thomas, silks corps; Toby Zimmerlink, rifle corps; Dave Lorenzi, drum corps; and Joe Buncie, musical arranger.

Cell Destruction Draws Probation, Fine For Two Men

Two Terra Alta, WV, men who caused $250 in damages to the holding cell in the Garrett County jail June 16 were each placed on a 24 month supervised probation period and commanded to make restitution to the sheriff's office in the Garrett County District Court Monday, July 23.

Judge Lewis R. Jones gave Richard P. Tasker and Robert B. Gallagher 30 days to pay $204 each to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office for payment of damages which included a broken glass door panel and a dislodged door knob. Both men had plead not guilty to the charge of malicious destruction of the property of another, but both received a verdict of guilty.

In other cases in District Court, Richard P. Tasker, Terra Alta, WV, also faced the charges of disturbing conduct on the land of another and battery, both filed by Christopher L. Jordan, Corinth, WV. The decision of no prosecution was made for each charge.

Reece Riley, Deer Park, stood trial for three charges filed by Edward A. Pennington, Mt. Lake Park. For the charge of disturbing conduct — property of another, he was found guilty and fined $25; for the charge of trespass-wanton he was found not guilty; and for the charge of malicious destruction — property of another he was found guilty, fined $15, placed on a 12 month unsupervised probation period and commanded to make a restitution of $18.50 to Pennington.

The decision not to prosecute was made in the case of Michael L. Hoye, Deer Park, who was charged with disturbing the peace by complainant Deputy Donald W. Tucker. He was found guilty for the charge of resisting arrest and fined $165.

Randall V. Leighton, Oakland, was placed on probation before judgment was made on the charge of controlled dangerous substance — unlawful possession filed by Tfc. John E. Foley. He was placed on a 24 month supervised probation period and fined $15.

Not guilty was the verdict in the case of Mark L. Mayle, Oakland, charged with malicious destruction — property of another filed by Bobby Lloyd, Oakland.

Because restitution was made, Sandy S. Clark, Oakland, was not prosecuted for the charge of false pretense — bad check filed by David R. Jagdmann, Oakland.

Rebecca J. Perry, Oakland, was not prosecuted for the charge of false pretense — bad check filed by David R. Jagdmann, Oakland.

The case of John E. Nazelrod, Oakland was placed on the stet docket. He was charged by Jack L. Michaels, Jr. of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department with battery and disturbing the peace.

CONVERSATIONS ON CARPETING

Brought to you by Carolyn & Butch Helbig
who say "A floor without a rug is like a kiss without a hug."

CARPETING AND TOGETHERNESS

In today's fast-paced world, family members are constantly going their separate ways. Father off to work, mother to a job or to take care of household errands, and the children off to school. Meal time is one of the few occasions when all family members come together. It should be a pleasant, relaxed time for family conversation.

Did you know that kitchen carpeting can aid meal time enjoyment? It sure can! Parents and youngsters will be more relaxed because they need not worry about spills. Unlike the tile floors that require frequent waxing, kitchen carpeting is easy to clean and it's marvelously stain-resistant. Milk and other liquids can be wiped away with a damp cloth. Carpeting makes for more enjoyable family conversation too. It absorbs sound much better than hard floor covering, thus providing a quieter, more pleasant atmosphere. Mother will be less tired and more able to enjoy meal time because of kitchen carpeting. It's easier on feet and legs and provides lots of comfort while cooking.

Want to make your family meals more pleasant while bringing a striking new look to your kitchen decor? Then kitchen carpeting is for you. Stop in or call us today.

Each week we will tell you more about carpeting for your home. Watch for these columns.

Police Need Help . . .

The number of major crimes seems to be on the increase in Garrett County. In an attempt to find a reason for this trend, many people automatically lay the blame at the feet of the county's law enforcement officials. The claim by many is that they are not doing their job.

Most of this criticism is undeserved. In reality, the police have their hands full. Garrett County is a large county and there are only so many officers to go around. Any one of them certainly cannot spend an entire tour of duty watching just one business, although it was reported this week that several county deputies have been patrolling some areas on their own time.

It is the citizens who need to become more involved in, first of all, crime prevention, and secondly, assisting the police in solving crimes that have been committed.

On the subject of crime prevention, too often we set ourselves up to be ripped off (see article on page 17). We make it all too tempting for the criminal. We leave our doors unlocked, we leave keys in automobiles, we leave valuable items on our porches, on our lawns and in front of our businesses, just asking to be picked up. The time when a Garrett Countian could state that "we don't have to worry too much about crime here" has sadly disappeared.

Citizens need also to become more aware, more dedicated and more involved in aiding law enforcement officials in finding those responsible for criminal activity. People must learn to condition themselves to be more alert and to literally take note of suspicious persons and activity.

For example, we should take more care in getting a description of a person we see engaged in a suspicious activity — the clothes he is wearing, approximate height and weight, hair color, unusual markings, etc. Any suspicious occurance, such as loud noises at night, gunfire and breaking glass should not only be reported to police, but the time of it should be noted. A description of automobiles, and if possible the license number, should be noted. Persons should also be careful not to alter or disrupt the scene of a crime before the police arrive.

Most importantly, persons who have any information should not be afraid to come forward and give that information to the police. There are still too many citizens who "do not want to become involved." We often think that this type of attitude exists only in the city, that country folk don't hesitate to cooperate and give information to police. However, just last week, in the case of an elderly Grantsville woman being raped, local police reported that many citizens with some possibly useful information refused to talk to them.

Crime prevention and the solving of already-committed crimes should be a duty of all persons, not just law enforcement officials. Their job is already tough enough.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

It is difficult to understand why you should say Delegate Bolden's lawsuit is a "futile hassle over technicalities." Should citizens not complain when two very inept and uninformed commissioners raise taxes (the only county in the state to do so) when a recession, if not, a depression, is in the offing and do it in an unlawful way? I'm thankful we have one commissioner who has studied his new job and can act knowledgeably. I'm also thankful that he and Delegate Bolden have made an effort to halt the tax raise.

Garrett County has many citizens who can well afford the raise and think it is an unconsequental thing. However, others will find it a real hardship. Consider, our citizens on fixed incomes who are struggling to make ends meet rather than swelling the already overloaded welfare list. During this time of inflation our county should budget economically, as many households are having to do, rather than pad the budget with extras the county can ill afford.

A former commissioner was defeated because he made our courthouse big enough to serve the city of Baltimore, but two of our present commissioners have added to our county's problems by proposing to spend large sums of money to furnish the monstrosity in one year.

These same two commissioners have retained the services of Mr. Rickert and reportedly have raised his already large salary (much more than a master degreed teacher in Garrett County). It was apparent at the meeting at GCC that he knew more about the budget than either Mr. Paugh or Mr. Hunter. We didn't elect Mr. Rickert. Is is really impossible in Garrett County to find three men capable and willing to serve as commissioners without having to import a bureaucrat with little understanding of our needs and desires?

Sincerely,
Bernice Idleman
Mt. Lake Park

Dear Sir:

On June 7, 1979, my son was detained by Deputies David Crossland and Steve Beeman along the highway between Route 50 and Oakland. He was suffering from a self-inflicted injury to his left hand, and an obvious mental disability.

Deputies Crossland and Beeman exhibited the helpfulness, judgement, and above all, compassion, to have my son's injury treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. They further had the compassion and kindness to telephone my wife and inform her of the situation. Due to their actions, they averted a situation that could have been much more traumatic to my son, my wife, and me.

When Mrs. Coffman and I arrived in Oakland a few hours later, we were received at the Sheriff's Office with the utmost kindness and consideration. After obtaining further treatment for my son's physical and mental condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, one of the Deputies led us to a service station where we were able to obtain fuel for the trip back to Virginia. All this caused the Deputy to be quite late getting off duty, but that did not affect his kind and helpful attitude.

After a few weeks' treatment at a hospital near our home, my son is now well again.

Garrett Countians should be proud of their Sheriff's Department.

Sincerely,
David B. Coffman,
Sterling, Va.

Dear Editor:

On page twenty-seven of last week's Republican, it was reported that a member of the Garrett County Planning Commission is now under the employ of a local realty firm.

Having in the past noted that the Planning Commission is often influenced by vested interests, exhibiting a marked disregard for public sentiment, it therefore seems incongurous that a member of the Commission would accept a job dealing with the development, rental, and sale of property, while retaining a position on the Commission.

Not intending to attack the individual integrity of either the realty firm or the Commission member, it is at least apparent that it is this type of public relations blunder which characterizes our local government. And, in addition, further impedes the progress of governmental agencies, even when their intentions are honorable.

Name Withheld by Request

Dear Mr. Editor:

Some of my friends, Garrett Countians, complain of recent increased costs of boat launching into Deep Creek Lake and it is wondered if we should not review this situation in a more practical manner.

This lake is completely enclosed by Garrett County, depends upon and receives many county services such as roads, police, zoning, etc. etc. which is a burden not shared by residents of other counties. May it not be more practical to allow our residents certain privileges not shared by other Marylanders?

Other counties, such as those bordering Chesapeake Bay, restrict certain fishing privileges termed as "commercial" to their residents only. Why should we not do likewise?

It seems wise to make this tax burden more palatable, wiser still to promote the use of our resources by our younger generations. It is suggested that we devise a way to reduce this cost of boat launching to ourselves.

Selfish? No, just practical.

Sincerely,
Pine Nut

Bicentennial Tree Dies

B. O. Aiken, Garrett County Bicentennial Chairman, recently announced that the Garrett County Bicentennial Tree has died.

The 257-year old red oak located on the B. O. Aiken farm near Accident, was dedicated August 30, 1976. Its death, Aiken stated "is a great disappointment, as we had fully expected that the tree would stand for at least another hundred years." The cause of death is not presently known.

Aiken said he had appointed a committee to select a tree to take the place of the originai tree. Committee members are: Chairman, Charles Strauss, Sr., Accident; James A. Metz, Oakland; Paul R. Mateer, Jr., Oakland; and Lester Hunter, Frostburg.

The committee is accepting recommendations from county citizens for trees to consider. Aiken noted that for a tree to be selected as the bicentennial tree, it should be at least two hundred years old, be located in an accessible place, and be a healthy tree.

Upon selection of a tree, the Bicentennial tree plaque presented in 1976 by A. R. Bond, State Forester, will be removed from the cement base at the foot of the original bicentennial tree and reset in a base at the foot of the new Garrett County Bicentennial Tree.

Airport,

ago, but no additional work has been started.

The state is requesting approximately $100,000 to do the preliminary engineering work, with 75 percent from federal sources and 25 percent from state funds.

The Commissioners then heard a report from Mr. Dugan on the final Housing and Urban Development performance report on a block grant received two years ago to install a chlorinator for the Shallmar water system, and for rehabilitation of 19 housing units in the county.

Robert Railey, chairman of the Airport Advisory Board, presented a series of recommendations from his Board which has been reviewing the first phase of a feasibility study underway to evaluate alternatives and methods of expanding the airport.

The Board advised the commissioners to notify Michael Baker and Associates, the engineering firm working on the study, to proceed with the remainder of the work.

Funding for the feasibility study is $52,000, with 95 percent coming from state and federal sources and five percent from local sources.

The advisory board has also evaluated a request from John Spencer to locate a hangar at the airport for his airplane sales business. The Board agreed to allow Mr. Spencer to locate a hangar at the airport, but will delay any building until the feasibility study is completed so a suitable location can be determined.

Mr. Railey then requested additional funds of $10,000 from the county to provide needed maintenance at the airport, including repainting of runway lines and replacement of burned out navigational lights.

Gary Mullich presented leases providing office space to state agencies for the commissioners' signatures. The commissioners signed leases for the assessment and juvenile services departments for offices in the new Courthouse wing. Leases were also negotiated for the state Parole and Probation department and federal Farmers Home Administration and ASCS.

The commissioners anticipate an annual lease income at the Courthouse of $17,000.

Oakland Is Only Maryland County Seat Without One

Jaycees Attempt Formation Of Local Chapter

By Jim Willis

State officers and prospective members of the Jaycees met at the American Legion Home, Oakland, Tuesday evening for the first organizational meeting of the Greater Oakland Jaycees.

Guest speakers included, Fran Shives, Maryland State President; Bruce Hall, Maryland Membership Vice-President; Bob Nasser, Region I Director; Jim Robey, District I Director; Pat Murphy, Chapter President, Upper Potomac; and Charlie Johnson, State Director, Greater Cumberland Jaycees.

The meeting included an explanation of the Jaycees' purpose and a reading of "What are the Jaycees," Written by J. Terryl Bechtol, National President. A movie, "Jaycees Help You Become," followed.

The Jaycees is a 70-year-old organization originally affiliated with the United States Chamber of Commerce. The club is 40-years-old in the state of Maryland and is served by 22 districts, comprising the five state regions.

As of this date, Maryland has the tenth largest membership in the nation, 5200. Membership is open to young men, 18-35 years of age. Associate membership is available to those over 35, and Honorary Membership is often bestowed on community leaders who have contributed aid to the Jaycees.

Sister organizations such as the Jayncees and Jaycettes, although autonomous, share the ideals of the Jaycees.

At present, there are 238 members in the area District which includes Upper Potomac, Cumberland, Frostburg, Grantsville, and Lonaconing.

Bob Nasser, Region I Director, explained that each individual chapter decides on its own projects, by-laws and constitution in keeping with national guidelines.

There are four state board meetings per year which include three days of seminars and various speakers. An officer's training school is offered by the state to encourage leadership advancement, and two officer's training schools are provided by the national headquarters in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Locally, individual "development colleges" may be sponsored by the region or district.

"Service to humanity is the best work of life," is a portion of the Jaycee creed. In keeping with that philosophy, the local region has recently conducted a Runathon that raised $700 for the Jerry Lewis Telethon; sponsored a tennis tournament which funded the purchase of a 4-wheel drive emergency vehicle for the town of Westernport; conducted a "haunted house" in Cumberland which funded a Christmas Shopping Tour for disadvantaged children; sponsored the Special Olympics held at Allegany Community College; and funded several junior athletic events.

The local chapter will need 20 members before it can be chartered. Corporate sponsors are welcome and further information may be obtained by contacting Pat Murphy, president, Upper Potomac Jaycees, 359-0298 or 359-3071.

The Greater Oakland Jaycees will meet next Tuesday, August 7 at 7 p.m. in the American Legion, Oakland.

Businessmen, Police Officials And Commissioners Discuss Rise In Crime

Members of the Mt. Lake Park business community and members of law enforcement agencies gathered in the County Commissioners' office Tuesday to discuss mutual concerns over a rash of area larcenies.

At the conclusion of the meeting, police told the citizens that additional patrols and special efforts were underway as crime deterrents, but reminded that citizens should do all within their power to help prevent larcenies of their properties.

Representing the Maryland State Police were Capt. William Turnbull, in charge of the LaVale barracks; First Sgt. Paul Sanders, in charge of the Garrett County detachment. Sheriff John Evans, Jr., and Oakland Police Chief Hobart Shillingburg represented their respective departments.

Businessmen and women included Kate Hanley, Manor Mart; Ralph Livengood, Richfood, which has been hit by thieves twice in as many weeks; Dick Williams, American Burger Center; Charles Tressler, Tressler Suzuki; and Mike Johnson, Mt. Top M&M Homes.

Dean Bastianini, municipal assistance coordinator, was present to suggest possibilities for added police protection, including the use of resident troopers for such towns as Mt. Lake Park. Total cost of a resident trooper would be about $25,000 a year, to be borne by the communities.

Sheriff Evans pointed out that some of his deputies have volunteered to donate extra time for additional patrols until the crime wave is broken.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg noted the importance of citizen cooperation in reporting suspicious happenings, and in taking precautions to help make properties burglar proof.

Commissioner Chairman Truman Paugh advised that with the promises of extra police surveillance, property owners wait one month to see if the crime rate is lessened before taking further action.

Problems related to the outbreak of criminal activities were also brought out, including the courts' "easy-going" sentence terms for prison terms and probation, and instigation of an "habitual criminal" law which would automatically mean life in prison after five convictions for serious offenses.

Delegate DeCorsey Bolden arrived in time for the latter part of the meeting, and agreed that the courts are too lenient with criminals. He was then asked by several by of the businessmen to try to initiate an habitual criminal law for this state.

The state police pointed out that there is a specially-trained trooper who will come to businesses and homes, free of charge, to pinpoint safety precautions against thefts. To obtain his services, citizens may call the state police office or contact any law enforcement officer.

The sheriff's department offers engraving tools which can be used to mark possessions with the owner's driver's license number. The identification helps to deter crime, and speeds return of stolen goods if they should be taken.

cue squad called for further assistance from the squad equipment and fire department. Squad member Ben Sincell went into the tank long enough to secure an oxygen tank to Green. He then asked for someone skilled in the use of a breathing apparatus to continue the rescue.

Fireman Mark Durst, who arrived at the scene before the fire truck, descended into the tank with an air tank and secured a rope with a rescue hitch around Green. Rescuers above pulled Green up through the mansize opening, loaded him on a Stokes litter and lowered him over the side of the tank.

The squad then transported Green and Clayton Miller to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where they were treated and released that evening. Both were back to work the next day.

Mark Durst later commented that the event "could have been a dangerous situation." He explained that the amount of fumes contained in the tank presented more of a hazard than a full tank because it was much more likely to explode if it caught fire. "It would have gone off like an atomic bomb," he stated.

Area police and fire authorities have been investigating the event.

Howard L. Robertson, Route 1, Lonaconing, reported that on July 22, about 11:30 he had heard a gunshot, and two days later he noticed a small hole in his aluminum siding. The hole appeared to have been made by a bullet from a small calibre rifle.

She described the suspect to police as a white male, approximately 30, wearing a red jacket with white lettering. Her pocketbook and contents were taken, with a loss value estimated at $45.

On July 26, two white females returned her checkbook and told her they had found it on N Street in Mt. Lake Park. No other stolen items have been recovered as yet.

The victim advised police she had been in the habit of leaving her purse and her car keys in her unlocked vehicle.

Two Sustain Broken Legs In Collision

Two men suffered broken legs in a headon collision on Route 40 at the Maryland-Pennsylvania state line about 4:30 p.m. yesterday.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland were John Davis, 23, Listonburg, Pa., and Ralph Maltba, 55, Mt. Clare, WV.

Details of the mishap were not immediately available from state police. Members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported the injured to Cumberland. Central Alarm also dispatched the Accident and Grantsville volunteer fire departments.

Straight Talk About Aging

Dr. Tayback, State Director on Aging

PHYSICAL FITNESS AND A CHALLENGE FOR ALL AGES

Some symptoms of aging we bring on ourselves. Physicians are almost unanimous in agreeing that physical inactivity hastens aging and that some conditions seen among the elderly are due not to disease but to disuse. Evidence indicates that people exercise less as they grow older, mainly because they expect to be less capable. Trapped by our attitudes in a self-defeating cycle, we fulfill our own notions of old age. The less we do, the less we are capable of doing.

Without exercise, muscles shrink and atrophy, bones may lose their calcium and joints stiffen. It is a biological fact that physical functions which are not repeated frequently will undergo a decline in efficiency and the organs and tissues involved will atrophy. For example, lung capacity diminishes as we grow older, usually at the rate of one percent a year after age 20. But research has shown that people who exercise can boost their lung power to higher levels. At 60 an active individual can have the lung power of a 30 year old who doesn't exercise, according to C. Carson Conrad, executive director of the President's Council on Physical Fitness. "Older Americans are losing years of life and forfeiting a more abundant way of life because of their basic misconception about fitness," says Conrad.

Research has proven also that many health problems associated with aging are acquired changes resulting from poor health practices, rather than simply the passage of time. It is confirmed now that proper died and regular physical activity as part of an individual's lifestyle are major factors in the maintenance of physical and mental vigor. In respect to cardiovascular disease, physical activity and diet combined with smoking and personality type appear to be the principal factors accounting for risk of heart disease.

Physical fitness for the later years should ideally have been a part of a lifetime program. According to many physiologists, however, when such a program has not occurred for one reason or another, the damage may be remedied. The need for fitness and training in the seventh and eighth decades is no different than in the third and fourth. In addition, physical training can restore an older person's level of fitness to that of a person 10 to 20 years younger, according to a University of Toronto study.

There are many forms of exercise. All physicians agree that any reasonable exercise is better than no exercise at all. In terms of total fitness, nothing is better than an aerobic program. This is true for all ages, and today aerobics have been adapted to the physical needs of the elderly. Aerobic exercise works faster and more efficiently in bringing about desirable body changes that spell fitness, promote heart health and cardiovascular fitness. Aerobics is the intake of oxygen that achieves a balance between oxygen intake and the amount of oxygen that is used up in the working muscles. If you are out of breath when walking steps, hurrying or running, you are using more oxygen than you took in and are borrowing heavily on stored oxygen in the muscles. Aerobic exercise — sustained muscle activity — is much more effective in promoting physical fitness than stop and go activity. Some aerobic exercises are: brisk walking, calisthenics and deep breathing, cycling, swimming, running and running in place, jogging and cross country skiing. Weightlifting, tennis, golf, down hill skiing, football, handball, racquet ball, sprinting and bowling are stop and go exercises, which are better than no exercise, but particularly for the elderly, are not equal to aerobic exercises.

Lutherans believe . . .

The Gospel is the story of what has happened, what is happening and will yet happen with Jesus. The Kingdom is here. He preached "The Kingdom," the day when all the longing God puts in us will be fulfilled. He preached with such faithfulness as to invest his own life in his hope for us. He proved his commitment by incurring death. And God carried him past death so that nothing can now hinder his love for us, so that his promise and devotion must surely triumph. We Christians are in this world to tell this Gospel by life, word and deed.

Mt. Lake Park Tennis Club Hosts 58th Annual Western Md. Tourney

TOURNEY UNDERWAY — Steve Reise, Bethesda, prepares to smash a serve across the net in first round action of the Western Maryland Tennis Championships in Mt. Lake Park.

The 58th annual Western Maryland Tennis Championships, the nation's oldest sanctioned amateur clay tournament, got underway yesterday at the Mt. Lake Park Tennis Club courts with first round action in the men's singles category. Play is expected to be completed Sunday, barring foul weather, according to Earle P. Brown, tournament director.

Other classes of competition include senior men's singles, age 45-54; senior men's singles, age 55 and over; women's singles; men's doubles; senior doubles; mixed doubles; and women's doubles.

Approximately 100 persons, many of them from the immediate area, have signed up to compete in this year's tourney, according to Mr. Brown.

Seeded number one in the tournament in men's singles is Richard Pollara, Potomac, followed by Kevin Manning, Arlington, Va. Beth Miller is the top seed in the women's singles class.

Herb Rappaport, Arlington, and Jack Dorsey, Wheeling, are expected to take the number one and two spots, respectively, in the senior men's, age 45-54, and Mickey Pardew, Baltimore, and Henry Foss, Chevy Chase, are the top two seeds in the elder senior men's category.

Tim Jenkins and Jim Hodges, both of Bethesda, are the top seeded duo in the men's doubles class, while the teams of Charles Atherton, John Myers, Chevy Chase, and Ken Volk-Ray Tompkins, Baltimore, are the number one and two seeds in the senior doubles category.

Trophies will be awarded immediately following the final match, hopefully on Sunday, according to Brown.

The tournament referee is Dave DeGrafft, Baltimore. Tournament umpire is John Noble, Columbus, and the tournament secretary is Kathy Smith, Mt. Lake Park.

Social events scheduled for club members, tournament players and their families include a President's Reception tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Davis-DeGrafft cottage in Mt. Lake Park; a buffet dinner at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, Thursday evening; a corn roast, hosted by the Thomassons and Pollards in Mt. Lake Park on Friday evening; and a surprise party Saturday evening at an, as yet, unannounced location.

Post 214 Edges Cumberland 4-3

By Jim Willis

After three years and 14 games, Grantsville Post 214 finally defeated Mt. District Champs, Ft. Cumberland, 4-3 during 10 innings in the final game of the season. Cumberland started the scoring by tallying two runs in the first inning on a walk, single, and two errors.

Post 214 put up one run in the second when Mickey Chapmen reached on an error, stole second, and scored on a single by Albert Thomas. Cumberland went ahead 3-1 in the seventh on a Ken Klosterman home run.

Post 214 chipped away again in the bottom of the seventh with two outs. Greg Beachy singled, Sweitzer walked, and Kenny Marks singled to score Beachy.

The next two innings were the most dramatic in the three year history of Post 214 American Legion baseball.

Down 3-2 going into the bottom of the ninth, Frank Lewis began the inning by flying out to left. Greg Beachy singled to left and moved up to third base on two wild pitches. Then Corky Sweitzer walked to put runners on first and third. Marks struck out, leaving but one out to go. Jeff Colaw was sent in to pinch run for Sweitzer and with two outs, Bill Bender hit a sharp grounder to short which appeared to be the final out of the game. Instead, Cumberland's shortstop bobbled the ball and rushed his throw to second. The throw was too late — Colaw was safe and Beachy scored to tie the contest, 3-3.

Grantsville was set-down in order in the top of the tenth. Tom Cuppett started the inning off for Post 214 by reaching first on an error by the catcher. Dick Bender attempted to bunt Cuppett over to second, but Cuppett was forced out. Dave Harris struck out for the second out of the inning and Frank Lewis singled to center to keep the inning alive.

Greg Beachy worked the count to two-and-two, and hit the next pitch into center, in front of the center fielder.

Dick Bender raced home to score as the cather had difficulty handling the throw from center.

Jim Siebert pitched all ten innings, scattering six hits, walking two, and fanning five. This was the final Legion game for Mickey Chapman, Tom Cuppett, Frank Lewis, Ken Marks, Dave Harris, Jim Seibert, and Coach Phil Caruso.

Coach Caruso stated, "I am very proud of the baseball players who played in the Legion program over the past three years. Only those close to the program could understand what we went through. To beat Cumberland in my final game as coach of Post 214, provided me with the greatest gift I could receive from the players. The theme of our program for the past three years was 'pride,' and it was pride that turned a meaningless final game of the season into a championship match-up."

Paunchy Pigskinners To Clash Saturday

By Jim Willis

Alumni Rams and Huskies will stage a grueling gridiron performance Saturday, August 4 at 8 p.m. during the First Annual Northern-Southern Alumni game, to be held on Southern's field.

This is the first game of its type in Western Maryland, and proceeds from the sale of nominally-priced tickets will be divided between SHS and NHS football teams.

A commemorative plaque will be awarded to the winning team.

Coaches for the Southern team include Dave Bosley and Rick Shaffer. Northern's coaches are Jack Lear, Jack Settle, and George Edwards.

The rosters of both teams show alumni football luminaries from Potomac State, West Virginia University, Madison University, as well as for All-Area players, and Tri-Valley award winners.

So, dust off your megaphone and saddle shoes, and cheer on your favorite team, Saturday evening.

In a wide field of 24 cars, Rex Bartlett won the road stock feature. Buddy Tasker, weaving his way through the pack, finished fourth in the feature and fifth in his heat.

In the same class, Eddie Lewis came in behind the tow truck after a crack-up. Dale Hinebaugh also competed in this class.

Lakers Sign Two Garrett Countians

Ed Wildesen

Mickey Chapman

By Jim Willis

Garrett Community College announced the signings of two more Garrett County High School baseball players this week. Ed Wildesen and Mickey Chapman have signed letters of intent to attend Garrett Community College.

Ed Wildesen is a 1977 graduate of Southern High School where he played four years of varsity baseball. Ed will be coming into the Laker program as a utility first baseman/outfielder. He will transfer back to GCC from Allegany Community College and has elected not to play this year at ACC in order to have two years of eligibility at Garrett.

Ed led Southern in hitting his senior year with a .385 average and 16 RBIs. He has been a member of the Oakland Little League all-stars, the Pony League all-stars, and has played two years of American Legion baseball for Grantsville Post 214. Ed was the co-winner of the unsung player award for Post 214 last year. He is currently a member of the Oakland Pen-Mar team and hopes to continue his education at Frostburg State College upon graduation from GCC.

Ed will major in teacher education at GCC. He is the son of James and Doris Wildesen.

Laker Coach, Phil Caruso stated, "Ed is probably the most dedicated player I've ever coached. He will do all the little things that are so important to winning games, and he will be a tremendous asset to our program. I am delighted he has decided to come back to GCC."

Mickey Chapman is a 1978 graduate of Southern High School and has been employed for the past year. Mickey has played three years at Southern, three years of Pony League ball, and three years of Little League. He has been a Little League and a Pony League all-star several times.

Mickey has also played three years of American Legion baseball under Coach Caruso and has twice won the Unsung Player Award, — once in high school, and once in Legion ball. Mickey will be entering the Coal Mining Technology program at GCC. He is the son of Blondale and Alice Chapman of Mt. Lake Park.

Coach Caruso stated, "Mickey has developed so much over the past three years. He was a starter for me this year in Legion ball and had his best season ever. Mickey is a dead fast ball hitter who is just starting to learn to hit the curve ball and should he continue to develop at the plate, Mickey will see lots of action next year. He is a very competitive player."

Coach Caruso explained that this will conclude the college's recruiting for the upcoming school year. He said, "I believe it was most successful in that there were only three county baseball seniors. Two players are transferring back, and one had been out of school. That brings a total of six county players coming into the Laker program this fall. The Lakers will now begin to announce out-of-county signings."

Coach Caruso hopes to announce several letters of intent from players recruited from nearby West Virginia, and throughout the state of Maryland.

In Memory

In loving memory of Alta M. Bolyard, who died July 24, 1976.

It broke our heart to lose you, but you did not go alone.
For part of us went with you the day God called you home.
Treasured thoughts of you bring silent tears,
Thoughts of those happy memories will last a million years.

DNR Announces Opening Dates For Waterfowl Season

For the first time in the history of waterfowl regulations in Maryland, opening dates are being announced for the goose and duck hunting seasons well in advance of the time they occur.

The dates are: October 26 for geese on the eastern shore, November 2 for geese on the western shore and November 9 for ducks statewide.

This precedent-setting decision came out of a joint meeting between Wildlife Administration Director, Bernard F. Halla, and the Wildlife Advisory Commission.

As Halla put it: "There are some important reasons for announcing the opening dates of the goose and duck seasons as early as possible, even though the full-season lengths and bag limits will not be announced until after we get the guidelines from the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

"For one thing," continued Halla, "hunters will be able to pick their vacation or leave-time to suit the opening dates early enough to be more assured of getting reservations with hunting areas, guides and overnight accommodations at hotels, motels and Hunters' rooming houses, all of which go on the scarce-list early in the fall.

Following a discussion of the advantages to hunters as well as businesses catering to waterfowlers, Director Halla and the Commissioners unanimously agreed to the announcement.

During the same meeting, Director Halla and the Commissioners officially welcomed new member Charles B. Allen, Owings Mills.

In addition to Allen, the Wildlife Advisory Commission includes: John W. Barton, Chairman; John S. Saladin, Vice Chairman; Dr. Wm. K. Brendle, and V. Edwin Unger.

Next Stop — Garrett County

Japanese Youth Tours U.S. By Bicycle

Tales of Garrett County will be carried back to Japan when 22-year-old Yoichi Tejima returns there this September. The county was one stop of the young man's trek across the United States from New York City to San Francisco by bicycle.

Tejima, the son of a veterinarian who lives and practices in Sapporo on the island of Hokkaido, Japan, says that he has had a desire for several years to travel across the United States by bicycle. He finally decided this spring that if he was going to realize his aspiration he would have to do it this summer. When he graduates from Rikko University, Tokyo, in March 1980, he will be expected to go into a full-time career. He will graduate with a degree in economics.

Garrett County hosts of Tejima were Colonel and Mrs. James Riley and son, Jack, of Oakland. They met the Japanese youth in a Winchester, Virginia, restaurant at breakfast and invited him to stay in their home when he reached the county. He reached Oakland on July 10, after stopovers in Romney and Mt. Storm.

Tejima arrived from Japan in New York City June 22. After a six-day visit in that city he purchased a bicycle, bed roll and other necessities and traveled to Philadelphia and Washington for short visits. He wanted to see the Appalachian Mountains and chose to travel west on U.S. Route 50.

During his overnight visit in Oakland, Tejima met several area young people, went bowling and demonstrated his prowess as a black belt in Judo.

He said he hopes to get to know the United States and its people better through his travels and expects to be in San Francisco in late August or early September for his return to Japan.

Once again the Kitzmiller School was entered, but this time the would-be thieves left their "take" behind.

It could not be determined how the subjects entered the building sometime between July 17 and 25. A pry-type tool was used to open doors to the storage and kitchen areas, and the handle of the freezer was broken off, but entry into the unit was unsuccessful.

When the intruders left, they left behind, stuffed in a trash bag, such items as four coffee cups, stainless steel flatware, trash bags, spatulas, a garden spade, and a box of scalloped potatoes.

Week's Weather Wet, Wet, Wet

"Rain, rain, go away," was the familiar lament as overcast skies dumped showers on the county for nearly a solid week.

Precipitation levels, beginning last Wednesday through yesterday, were, .03; .18; .05; .10; .58; .03; and finally, .0 precipitation Tuesday.

High and low temperatures for the week are as follows: Wednesday, 82-58; Thursday, 74-66; Friday, 77-63; Saturday, 74-65; Sunday, 73-64; Monday, 81-55; and Tuesday, 86-64.

The overnight low was 64 degrees.

One Detained For Shooting Incident

Thomas White, of near Kempton, was detained briefly by members of the Garrett County Sheriff's department Tuesday afternoon after random shots were fired in a dispute at his home.

White was not arrested, as family members refused to press charges. The shootings evidently arose from a family dispute but no one was injured.

Members of the sheriff's department responded about 4:30 p.m. to the residence, which is on Kempton Road not far from the West Virginia state line. Maryland state police were also summoned, but the call for assistance was cancelled before they arrived.

State Buildings To Remain At 78

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — A plan by Gov. Harry Hughes to impose warmer summertime temperatures on state office buildings than President Carter's 78-degree order has been abandoned for this year, aides said Tuesday.

"There has been a concern all along that we don't want to penalize Maryland citizens by making them comply with a plan that is more restrictive and that would curtail their activities in any greater way than anyone else in the country," said spokeswoman Virginia Friedlander.

Hughes had proposed a summer limit of 80 degrees but a legislative committee rejected it.

State officials are still soliciting comments from Maryland businessmen and local governments on a conservation plan that is considered tougher than the federal regulations. But aides said the plan has encountered opposition from the business community.

No decision will be made until after the responses are filed, probably not before the end of the air conditioning season, Ms. Friedlander said.

"We are still soliciting comments and responses from the businesses and local governments, cabinet secretaries as well as taking a poll of other states," she said. The surveys will help dentermine "whether we should simply stay with the federal program or introduce a state program," she said.

The surveys of businessmen and local officials was not mailed until last Friday and the responses will not be considered until Hughes returns from vacation, she said.

"Where did we go wrong?"

Premium Gas Tops Dollar Mark

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The cost of premium gasoline jumped 1.9 cents per gallon last week to top the dollar mark in Maryland for the first time, the Automobile Club of Maryland said Tuesday.

The average price of premium gasoline was $1.00.8 per gallon, according to the AAA's survey of 30 stations. Club spokesman William Zorzi said premium prices ranged from 95.9 cents in Ellicott City to $1.06.9 per gallon in Ocean City.

The price of unleaded increased an average of 1.3 cents a gallon and regular increased 1.4 cents a gallon last week, Zorzi said.

The price of unleaded gasoline averaged 98.4 cents a gallon while regular averaged 94.1 cents a gallon, he said.

The AAA survey also indicated that availibility was increasing along with prices. Zorzi said 10 of the 30 stations indicated they will be open Sunday and most will pump on Saturday.

"I know some people will say 'I told you so, gas hits a dollar a gallon and the outlook is improved all of a sudden,'" Zorzi said.

"We had a station in Frederick open for 24 hours a day and that is very unusual," Zorzi said.

But the easing gasoline crisis has failed to please many Maryland gasoline dealers. About 500 of them plan to take more than 200 tow trucks to demonstrate in Washington Wednesday to protest government price and allocation regulations.

Jack Morgan, vice-president of the Greater Washington-Maryland Service Station Association, said dealers and their tow trucks will gather at specific areas of the state Wednesday morning and motor into Washington in convoys.

Dealers want the federal government to freeze rents the oil companies charge them as long as profits are limited, said association spokesman Vic Rasheed.

Service station operators are also unhappy with the 15.4 cent a gallon profit limit, which had forced some dealers to lower their prices, Morgan said.

Morgan said the protest will not mean widespread closings of Maryland stations Wednesday.

Maryland Public School Curricula To Be Examined

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Maryland public schools will soon be examined to see if their curricula meet new state guidelines on teaching ethics to students, the head of the Values Education Commission said Tuesday.

Richard Schifter, chairman of the 23-member commission that drew up the guidelines, said a resolution passed by the General Assembly asked the commission to determine if schools were teaching values.

"What we have done is to identify with greater precision what that resolution encompasses," he said. "What values are we talking about?", he added.

Schifter said the guidelines, which are goals for the schools to aim for, stress character and citizenship, such as patriotism, personal integrity and honesty.

He said the first step will be to determine how close schools come to the objectives, then suggest ways to improve.

The panel said it will recommend that the legislature and state officials take corrective action against schools that do not meet the 10 specified character objectives or the eight citizenship guidelines.

The commission formed two subcommittees to monitor compliance.

One committee will hold closed-door meetings and prepare questionaires to solicit reaction from parents, school administrators, teachers and students. The second will review social studies textbooks to see if they meet the citizenship objectives.

The personal characteristics include "personal integrity, honesty, respect for the truth, intellectual curiousity, love of learning; a sense of duty to self, family, school and community; self-esteem that is rooted in recognition of one's potential; and respect for all people regardless of their race."

The citizenship standards include patriotism; love, respect and loyalty to the United States; willingness to correct its imperfections legally; understand on rights and obligations of a citizen in democratic society.

State Malpractice Suits Quadruple

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The state is arbitrating four times as many medical malpractice suits this year than it expected and is running out of money, a state health claims arbitration employee said Tuesday.

"The office was set up, budgeted and staffed for 50-70 cases a year," said Addie Pavsec, a legal assistant for the office. "So far this year, there have been 145," she said.

A new law allows the state to arbitrate disputes of at least $5,000, but smaller claims still go directly to circuit courts.

The law was passed because insurance companies threatened to stop providing medical liability coverage for physicians because of the soaring costs of insuring them.

The legislature felt the arbitration office could reduce costs by streamlining the handling of cases that previously had been delayed two or three years before getting a hearing in the state courts.

Ms. Pavsec said that streamlining may be one reason for the unexpected flood of cases.

"It's so much easier now," she said. "It only takes six to eight months to try a case, so maybe it's more worthwhile for attorneys," she said.

She said cases that went through the courts used to take up to two years to be settled, but she said she did not think the increased number of cases meant people were trying to take advantage of the new law.

Only 26 cases have been settled of the 145, partly because the staff is new to the process, said Lynn Deutschmann, the assistant director of the office.

She said hearings will be scheduled heavily during the next few months to complete the 97 cases in progress.

Of the eight claimants who have gone through the hearing process, only one has been awarded damages. A 56-year-old Baltimore man was recently awarded $15,000 in damages caused by a clamp that had been left in his abdomen during an operation at Franklin Square Hospital, she said.

Ms. Pavsec said the office doesn't expect more money before next year.

"The way it looks right now, we aren't going to be able to increase our budget or staff until the next meeting of the legislature. That could create problems. We have a staff of between eight and 12 part time people," she said.

She said when those part time employees leave in the fall the office will be understaffed. "We're going to get behind," she said.

MOSH Says Evidence Insufficient To Cite Bethlehem Steel Plant

BALTIMORE (UPI) — State industrial health officials say an investigation of a gas leak at Bethlehem Steel's Sparrows Point plant that killed a steelworker did not find sufficient evidence to cite the company.

The Maryland Occupational Safety and Health unit announced its decision Tuesday despite a report from an engineer assigned to investigate the January 28 accident that there was "enough technical information to support a citation."

MOSH spokesman Frank Morgan said the unit did not dispute engineer Gerin Sylvia's findings, but felt that there was not enough legal evidence to support a citation. He also said some of Sylvia's conclusions were not supported by the facts.

Sylvia, a Pennsylvania State University engineering professor, was hired by the state commissioner of labor and industry to investigate the accident in which steelworker Earl Barley, 52, was killed and six others hospitalized.

Sylvia examined the mill's system of blast furnaces and gas pipelines. His report said "that the company had failed to take adequate precautions for the health and safety of the workmen."

He conceded that more information on the accident may be needed, but he said there was enough technical evidence to support a citation on violations of state health rules.

But Morgan said the report did not back up its findings to warrant issuing a citation.

Chrysler Records Heavy Loss: Looks To Government For Aid

DETROIT (UPI) — Squeezed by regulations and a failing big car market, Chrysler Corp. is swallowing its record losses and counting on the government to help it regain financial health.

There are strong indications the government is preparing some form of aid.

The No. 3 automaker exceeded the most pessimistic forecasts Tuesday by turning in a loss of $207.1 million in the second quarter of this year, more than it lost in all of 1978 and its worst quarterly showing in history.

At a news conference, Chrysler Chairman John Riccardo said the company has been lobbying hard in Washington for $1 billion in tax relief and a two-year delay in meeting costly 1980 exhaust emission standards.

He said Chrysler is "working on the assumption" the government will come through with some sort of help.

President Lee A. Iacocca said the firm is continuing its multibillion-dollar retooling plans to meet safety, environmental and fuel economy standards and to produce in 1981 a small, fuel-efficient, front-wheel drive car it hopes will restore it to a profitable position.

"We're in a tough period, but we intend to make it," Riccardo said.

He said it costs Chrysler $620 per car to retool to meet those rules, compared with $340 for General Motors Corp., which, he said, can spread costs over its larger production.

Its small car lines are selling well, but production is restricted because of limited supplies of engines for them.

The result is 20,000 laid-off employees and a $700 million factory inventory of unsold vehicles, most of them big cars, vehicles equipped with V-8 engines, and light trucks and recreational vehicles — all at a time when traditional retooling costs have doubled, he said.

Chrysler is seeking $1 billion in accelerated tax relief for 1979 and 1980, which Riccardo said the firm would repay in the future. That and any delay in 1980 auto emission standards would require special acts of Congress.

He rejected the suggestion by United Auto Workers Union President Douglas Fraser that the government make massive, direct investments in Chrysler, but said he was pleased the union and management appear to agree on the root causes of Chrysler's troubles — regulations and the economy.

In Washington, the Department of Treasury said it is reviewing Chrysler's financial position and will forward its findings to administration officials responsible for ruling on the company's request for aid.

"The Treasury Department has monitored Chrysler's financial situation in the past several months, and is concerned about its possible impact on the overall economy and on the employees of Chrysler and its suppliers," a department statement said.

Chrysler reported sales of $3.2 billion in the second quarter, down $13.6 percent from a year ago.

Man Emerges From 36 Year Hiding Place

SHADY POINT, Okla. (UPI) — Fast cars, fast planes and fast women were the biggest surprises for Pvt. D.B. Benson upon his emergence from 36 years in hiding in the Oklahoma hills since he went AWOL during World War II.

Benson, who lived off the land in the Kiamichi Mountains in southeastern Oklahoma for more than three decades, signed papers Tuesday discharging him from the Air Force.

He told reporters, after receiving a "less than honorable discharge" from the armed forces, "I just learned how to live" in the mountains.

He said "fast cars, jet airplanes and fast girls" were his biggest surprises when he came out of the mountains last week to surrender to authorities.

Benson, who went AWOL from the old Army Air Corps in 1943, said he left because a sergeant told him he would not be any good at war. The sergeant told him to go home and wait for his discharge.

Benson took the advice and left his post at an Amarillo, Texas, base. The few friends he kept in touch with said it was more than a year before he realized he had done something wrong.

The 57-year-old ex-soldier, dressed in jeans and wearing a green baseball cap, stood outside his sister's home and talked with reporters for the first time late Tuesday.

He said he would take a house in some town and would not return to the mountain wilderness to live.

Benson never married and has never held a full-time job because of a constant fear that Social Security records would be traced to his military background.

Neither his sister nor any of his relatives except his parents had seen him in more than 30 years. Most, including his family, believed he was dead.

He said he wished he had come out of the woods earlier but he feared the Air Force would have him court-martialed, executed or would force him to complete his tour of duty.

Will and Marva Stacy, Benson's nephew and his wife, convinced him to come out of hiding.

"He was hard to convince of the fact that he would not be shot," Stacy said.

Benson said he decided to give himself up because he believed most of his life had passed him by. "I just got studying about it (surrendering) and I decided I would," he said. "I just did it on my own."

Although Benson was illiterate when he joined the Army Air Corps, a now disbanded section of the U.S. Armed Forces, he has since taught himself to read from old school books and magazines. Stacy said Benson's home is littered with hundreds of magazines.

Benson told reporters, "I just picked them (old school books) up out of a junkyard. I still have them at home."

Regulations Insult Gasoline Dealers, Says S.S.A. Leader

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Department of Energy's gasoline pricing regulations are an "insult to the service station dealer," a spokesman for a dealers' group said, and the dealers plan to share their feelings with President Carter.

Vic Rasheed, president of the Greater Washington-Maryland Service Station Ass., said Tuesday "a couple of thousand" dealers from around the country planned to participate in a parade of 300 tow trucks around the White House today.

Rasheed said the demonstrators represent 65,000 gas station operators from around the country.

District of Columbia police spokesman Gary Hankins said the protestors were affiliated with the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers and planned to drive their tow trucks through downtown Washington for about two-and-a-half hours.

Rasheed said the dealers were planning to protest Department of Energy Regulations limiting profits to 15.4 cents higher than the wholesale price for a gallon of gasoline.

He said the regulations would force dealers "to charge customers for every extra service. They find it repugnant." He added, "I think we're going to find a groundswell of self-service stations."

Rasheed also blasted the major oil companies, which he said are allowed "to increase their rents at will" for dealers who lease stations from them.

"This is the height of all government bungling," he said. "It's about time that Mr. Carter get some people on DOE who know something about the industry . . . our lives are being controlled by rules issued by incompetent people."

Rasheed said there will be no general shut-down of stations across the nation, but "there may be quite a few stations closed."

The dealers will also protest federal allocation policies, Rasheed said.

Message From Area Police:

Don't Set Yourself Up!

by Carol Canan

Storm windows are costly and someone less than honest might really be tempted to "serve himself" from these left readily available at a local business.

A delightful sight for those bent on removing a vehicle—keys not only in the vehicle, but in the ignition switch. This truck could disappear one night with no trouble to thieves unless some obvious precautions are taken.

Since the dawn of time, one of man's first instincts has been to protect his property from marauders. Cavemen flailed their clubs at those creatures who threatened their caves or dinners. Today's man is no exception, but now it seems mans' greatest enemy is man.

Protection of property from theft has grown ever more difficult, as the most sophisticated alarm systems can be circumvented by a clever professional burglar, and even young children know that a "crook" always wears gloves and a stocking mask to prevent identification.

Laws and the legal processes have grown much more cumbersome so that if a suspected burglar is caught, redress is slow.

Burglary has become the nation's fastest growing felony, with one occurring every 15 seconds. Sheriff's department records compared with last year already show a tremendous increase in activity.

During 1978, the department made 1,600 patrol checks and answered 753 complaints. Already this year, through June, department members made 2,331 patrol checks and answered 1,204 complaints.

As the old saying goes, and as local police authorities agree, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. The sheriff's department and other county police herewith present some helpful advice for homeowners and business owners. Spokesmen for the departments reported that they have often been appalled at finding home and business doors unlocked, keys left in tractors and industrial equipment, and merchandise left unsecured.

Some of the best precautions are the simplest, and are often the most neglected. Doors should be locked, and keys not left in obvious hiding places such as under the door mat or on a window shelf.

Never, never leave keys in a vehicle. If possible, use locking gas caps to prevent fuel theft. Secure all moveable items in your yard, such as picnic tables. Keep all tools, lawn mowers, chain saws, etc., locked inside a building.

Make sure locks are not the simple-to-open kind preferred by burglars. Many types of relatively inexpensive safety locks are now on the market which can help keep burglars at bay, but don't forget that even the best lock in the world is no good unless it is locked.

Windows should also be locked, or if they are of the sliding type, a steel rod or broomstick handle should be placed in the channel to prevent sliding. Plastic glass (polycarbonate — not plexiglass) may be used as replacement glass for windows, since this is extremely difficult to break. Laminated glass is also more burglar-resistant than regular glass.

Don't hide entrances or windows with shrubbery or trees, as these may offer concealment for jailbirds as well as songbirds.

Place all important papers, stamp collections, coin collections, expensive jewelry and other valuables in a safety deposit box. Keep firearms under lock and key where they are not readily visible.

When you go on vacation, use timers to keep lights burning in the house. Add a radio or TV timer as well, to give a lived-in appearance. Be sure to stop mail and newspaper deliveries, and keep vacation plan announcements out of the newspapers until you return. If you will be away attending a funeral or for a vacation, ask neighbors to keep an eye on your property and report suspicious happenings to the police. You can then return the favor for them. In many areas, this has become an effective way to help keep crime rates as low as possible.

The sheriff's department also will check your property if you request such service while you're out of town. Periodic checks of the property are made on a regular basis to deter possible thieves.

One very important part of self-protection is marking all important belongings, such as stereos, televisions, cameras, kitchen applicances, hub caps, mag wheels, sports equipment, typewriters, etc., with an identifying number. The number that is recommended is that on your driver's license, followed by the initials MD (for the state).

The sheriff's department has engraving tools and further information about the program for anyone interested, at no cost. There are also "Operation Identification" stickers which are to be placed in the vehicle or home windows, notifying would-be burglars that all property is marked. This serves as a deterrent to many lawbreakers, who know that marked property is much harder to trade for cash, and is much easier to trace to owners.

It is also advisable to make lists of all valuables, being careful to list all pertinent information such as serial number, make, model, color, identifying marks, etc., and then keep this list in an absolutely safe place.

Then, if the article is stolen, the police can feed the information into the National Computer Information Center (NCIC). The computer retains the information, and if the article is found anywhere in the U.S., police are immediately able to trace the owner.

Businesses are becoming especially vulnerable to larcenies and there are additional common sense precautions devised for these. Some are as simple as making sure the doors, windows and fenced areas are locked. (Police noted that when they have called various business owners to report that a door is unlocked, the owners will ask them to lock up and they'll be there in the morning to see if anything had been taken).

A simple way for clothing stores to keep from being an easy mark is to turn clothes hangers in opposite directions.

In other instances, packing boxes and other debris around loading or entry areas should be removed to eliminate hiding places for "shady characters." All merchandise should be kept locked inside secure areas. Additional lighting can be a deterrent if properly placed. Cash registers should be visible to storefront windows, and interior aisles should be uncluttered.

All local police have indicated a willingness to inspect businesses with their owners, to point out safety precautions which might be taken to help prevent the owners from becoming larceny statistics. Homeowners, too, may request the service if they feel they may have overlooked some precautions they may take.

Look Sharp

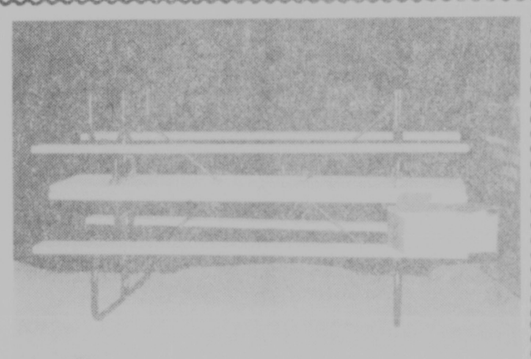
Police also emphasize the importance of prompt reporting of thefts. Call the police as soon as you notice an item is missing, and have ready all necessary information. Here is where the list of serial number, make, and so forth becomes valuable. It is helpful both to the police and the owner if positive information is given. It cannot be helpful if someone says "I think it was a Homelite power saw — no, wait a minute, it was a Stihl. Anyway, it was orange or red." Blade size, color, model become a matter for conjecture and return of the item almost becomes a matter of luck despite the most determined police efforts.

Police also urge that citizens become more observant in their habits. If you notice a suspicious vehicle or person, get a description. Get a vehicle license number. Take notice if you see unusual happenings, whether it is a shadowy figure in a neighbor's house when you know they are away, or a moving van loading goods from a store late at night.

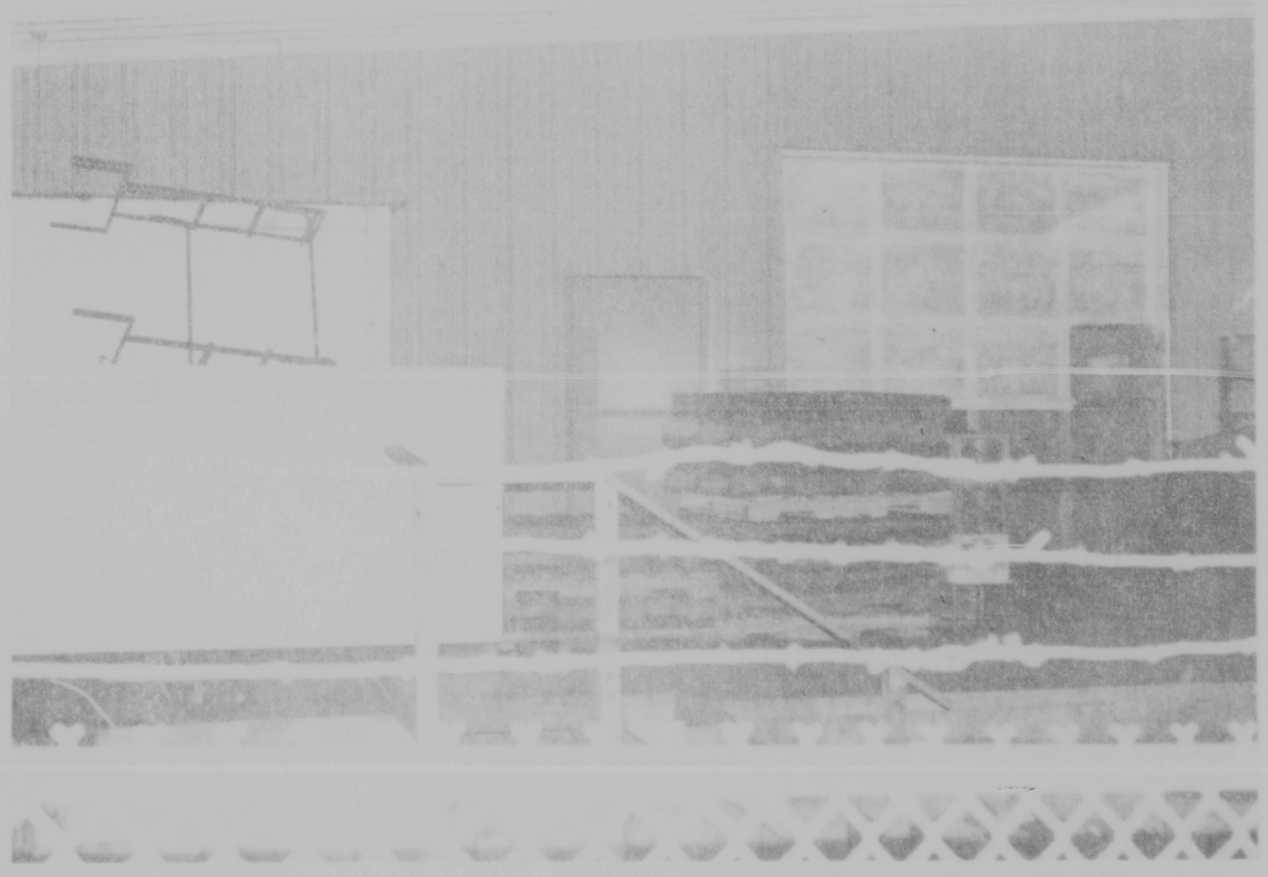
Don't hesitate to call police at once. Police would rather you called than to wish you'd called.

By keeping your eyes open and by following simple precautions, you may keep from becoming another of the army of those who have lost property to thieves. The ounce of prevention could keep away much frustration and financial loss if people would take common sense precautions, and make it as difficult for the thieves as possible.

Items of heavy equipment are not often stolen from area businesses, but they may be next on larceny lists unless keys are removed and other simple precautions observed. This type of vehicle is perfect to assist in achieving crimes, as proved just two weeks ago when a Mt. Lake Park business was hit.



Picnic tables are much in demand, even by thieves, and these left outdoors are a prime temptation for someone with a yen for outdoor eating, without passing a cash register.



A rule area police are asking businessmen to follow: don't leave clutter around loading areas and entrances to buildings.

Hospital Board Names Omitted

Deleted from an article appearing in last week's edition of The Republican announcing new officers and committee chairmen for the Board of Governors of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital were the names of Mrs. Jacquelyn Shirer, who will chair the building committee, and Mrs. Norma Hesen, who will chair the nominating committee. The Republican regrets the ommission.

The attorney for the Board is Jack R. Turney and serving as an ex-officio member of the Board is Mrs. Nancy Helbig, president of the Loar Auxiliary.

Two Injured In Three-Car Crash

A three-car pileup occurred Saturday about 2:15 p.m. on Route 219 near the Glendale Road intersection. Two persons were injured in the collision.

Injured were Phyllis Ann Barlow McQuade, Baltimore, and Mae Bella Turner, Frostburg. The third driver was listed as Guy Corrado, Pittsburgh.

Police reported that all three vehicles were southbound on Route 219 when the Corrado vehicle stopped to make a left turn. The McQuade vehicle also stopped, but was pushed into the first vehicle when the Turner vehicle failed to stop. Charges are pending against Mrs. Turner by Tfc. Larry Rosage, who investigated.

The injured were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by members of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the accident.

Alcohol Taxes Increase, Tobacco Revenues Down

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced last week that an analysis of Fiscal Year 1979 revenue for alcohol and tobacco taxes indicates growth in three of the four major tax sources. Fiscal Year 1979 revenues total $82,030,010, compared with the $81,802,422 collected during Fiscal Year 1978.

For the twelve months ending June 30, distilled spirits taxes generated $16,636,237, up more than one-half of one percent over the amount collected last year. Wine tax revenue of $3,161,368 exceeded Fiscal Year 1978 collections by three percent. Beer tax revenue, which displayed growth in ten of the last twelve months, produced $9,607,831, an increase of 11 percent.

Tobacco tax revenue for Fiscal Year 1979 amounted to $52,859,846, 1.5 percent less than collections for Fiscal Year 1978.

She looks like a seaworthy little craft and soon Tim and his father will put her to the test. They will discover whether she is properly balanced, whether her sails are straight, whether she will take to the water proudly, or flounder and capsize.

A boat has to be right, and she has to be ready. So do we, as individuals. We need good guidelines, a right sense of direction, and the church of our choice can help us toward finding both.

The Church, remember, has been "ready" for a long, long time.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HEALING PROPHET

Background Scripture: Hosea 11; 14.
Devotional Reading: Hosea 6:1-6.

We need prophets to wound us, but we also need prophets who can heal us. Hosea was that kind of prophet.

Like most other prophets, he saw that there was lots in Israel that was wrong and corroding the life of the nation. He did not shrink from "telling it as it was." With other prophets he saw bad times ahead for the people of Israel: "They shall return to the land of Egypt, and Assyria shall be their king, because they have refused to return to me. The sword shall rage against their cities, consume the bars of their gates, and devour them in their fortresses" (11:5,6)

Rev. Althouse

But even behind his gloomy prophecies there was something mightier than gloom and destruction. That "something" was compassion. All of the dark prophecies have but one purpose, not to condemn, but to persuade the people to "Return, O Israel, to the Lord your God..." (14:1). Hosea was certain that what God desired was, not destruction and vengeance, but repentance and reconciliation.

Israel The Child

In Hosea's prophecies we see God the Judge, but we see something even more important: God, the loving father. "When Israel was a child, I loved him, and out of Egypt I called my son" (11:1). Yet Israel did not respond to this compassionate love: "The more I called them, the more they went from me; and kept sacrificing to the Baals, and burning incense to idols" (11:2).

Nevertheless, Israel's childish rebellion against God had not overcome God's love for his people:

"Yet it was I who taught Ephraim to walk, I took him up in my arms; but they did not know that I healed them. I led them with cords of compassion, with the bands of love, and I became to them as one who eases the yoke on their jaws, and bent down to them and fed them" (11:3,4).

Hosea's descriptions of Israel as a little child could easily be applied to the lives of any of us, individually and collectively. Who among us has not failed to respond at some time to God's compassionate love?

I Will Heal Them

Despite their childish rebellion, God is determined to win them back and he promises them: "I will heal their faithlessness, I will love them freely... I shall be as the dew to Israel" (14:4,5).

Judgement is necessary in our lives. We need to be reminded of what goes wrong within our daily living. Often it is only when God wounds us with his judgement that we give him our attention. But the purpose of the wound is always one of healing: "Return, O Israel, to the Lord your God." This was Hosea's message to Israel several thousand years ago. It is also his message to us today.

Finan Center Open For New Admissions

The staff of the Thomas B. Finan Center, Cumberland, announce that the Finan Center will be open for new admissions of adult and aged psychiatric patients from Washington, Allegany and Garrett Counties, effective Monday, July 30, 1979.

Pre-admission screening is required for individuals who need to be admitted to the Finan Center. Pre-admission screening will be done at the Community Mental Health Centers, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. During the evening, on weekends and holidays pre-admission screening will take place through the emergency room at Sacred Heart Hospital for residents of Allegany and Garrett Counties, or at the emergency room at the Washington Hospital for residents of Washington County.

Counties, Cities To Share Unallocated Income Tax Revenue

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said this week that the State distributed $25,816,429 in unallocated State income tax revenues to the 23 counties and Baltimore City and the State's incorporated towns and cities on July 31.

"This one-time distribution is the result of legislation enacted by the 1979 session of the Maryland General Assembly, permitting the State Comptroller's Office to share with the subdivisions revenue which was withheld from some individuals' paychecks and never claimed by them on a tax return during the 1967-1975 period," Mr. Goldstein said.

Construction workers who are in Maryland for a short time, some students and others earning smaller incomes are examples of individuals who may have had taxes withheld but did not bother to file a tax return to claim a refund. The Comptroller noted that the issue of unallocated withholding revenues had been the subject of debate for several years.

"The legislative auditor has expressed the belief that those revenues should be shared with the subdivisions, but the Attorney General's Office had indicated that our office had no authority to distribute these monies without specific legislative authority. While the General Assembly authorized the distribution in its most recent session (Chapter 309, Acts of 1979) the funds are not coming from some accumulated, untouched fund. Rather, all the revenues being distributed are coming from the State's general fund," he said.

Garrett County received $59,564 as its share of the revenue.

An additional $819,364 is being shared with Maryland's incorporated cities and towns. In the future, distribution of unallocated income tax revenue will be made annually, three years after the return due date of the affected tax year. For example, 1976 unallocated withholding will be distributed on June 30, 1980 (1976 tax returns were due April 15, 1977).

Byron Pursues Tax Break For Wood Stove Users

Looking ahead from the heat of the summer to the cold of the winter, Rep. Beverly Byron testified last week before the House Ways & Means Committee in support of tax credits for the residential use of wood stoves.

Earlier this year, the Sixth District Congresswoman sponsored legislation allowing up to a $300 tax credit for individuals who have purchased and installed wood-burning stoves in their homes since April 20, 1977.

"In Central and Western Maryland, wood stoves are one of the most effective, practical and popular energy conservation improvements available," Byron testified.

"I have received letters from citizens who report that they are able to reduce their heating bills by more than 50 percent through the use of wood stoves," she added.

"Rapidly increasing electricity bills have been a major problem for residents of Western Maryland and the expected increases in the cost of heating oil will cause severe hardships this winter. Furthermore, many low income people in the area I represent use kerosene which may no longer be available in Western Maryland in the future," she said.

"The Sixth Congressional District is blessed with an ample supply of wood and if our nation is to become independent of foreign energy supplies, we must begin to use more of our own domestic resources — particularly coal and such renewable resources as solar energy and wood," she noted.

"If the goal of the residential energy conservation tax credit is to encourage families to take the necessary action to save energy and bring our country one step closer to energy independence, then clearly wood stoves should be eligible for the credit."

Byron concluded by noting that "in the first hundred years of our country's history wood supplied the vast majority of our energy needs. By the beginning of the 20th Century coal replaced wood as our major source of energy and continued in that position until 1950, when it was replaced by oil as our number one source of energy.

"This trend clearly must be reversed. With the exception of hydroelectric power, wood energy currently supplies more energy than all other sources of renewable energy combined. I urge this committee to approve the tax credit for wood stoves so the potential of wood energy can be achieved," Byron noted.

Juveniles Must Make Restitution For Truck Damage

Five juvenile males were ordered by Juvenile Court Judge Fred A. Thayer Wednesday to make restitution of $661.58 each for damages to a sanitation truck belonging to Arnold Brothers.

Three 16-year olds and two fourteen year olds were charged with stealing the vehicle May 25 and driving it to a secluded spot. They then broke the windows, and used a shovel and a pick to damage fenders and doors.

Judge Thayer ordered the five committed to the Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene, but suspended the sentences provided the youngsters meet several conditions.

These included making financial restitution, suspension of driver's licenses for one year for those who have their licenses; working ten hours each at the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad hall.

The youths must also abide by all rules and regulations set by Wayne Wilt, juvenile probation officer.

Beer Tax Revenues Shared By Counties

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced last week that the record beer tax revenues during Fiscal Year 1979 translated into a record share of those revenues for Baltimore City and Maryland's 23 counties.

"Beer tax revenues of $9,607,831 for Fiscal Year 1979 were the highest ever collected in Maryland. The subdivisions, which share about one half of that revenue received a record $4,427,506 for Fiscal Year 1979," Mr. Goldstein said.

The 23 counties and Baltimore City received $4,214,399 for Fiscal Year 1977, the previous high year.

The local governments shared $1,209,970 as the fourth quarter distribution covering April, May and June 1979, nearly six percent more than the amount distributed for the same period last year.

For the full Fiscal Year 1979, the largest shares of revenue went to Baltimore City ($930,458), Baltimore County ($744,172), Prince George's County ($706,172) and Anne Arundel County ($428,126). Garrett County received $24,433.22.

The State Comptroller's Office collects the nine cents per gallon beer tax and returns approximately one half of that revenue to the 23 counties and Baltimore City, based on the number of gallons of beer delivered to retailers within the subdivisions.

"Complications have developed; his check bounced."

Problem Resolution Program Successful According To IRS

Internal Revenue Service said this week that nearly 1400 complaints from taxpayers in Maryland and the District of Columbia have been resolved by the IRS Problem Resolution Program (PRP) in the first seven months of 1979.

Problem Resolution was established in March 1977 to cut red tape on problems which have not had proper attention through normal channels. The problems range from long overdue refunds to misunderstood or erroneous tax bills. Usually PRP will begin corrective action on a problem within five work days. If the problem is not remedied by then, the taxpayer will get a status report, a projected completion date, and a person to contact.

Problem Resolution is not a substitute for normal IRS channels that are working or a cure for all types of problems, the IRS said. Decisions made during an audit, Freedom of Information requests, Privacy Act inquiries, and complaints about IRS hiring practices are handled in other offices.

Taxpayers can reach PRP by calling the regular IRS Taxpayer Service number and asking for Problem Resolution. The number to call is toll-free, 1-800-492-0460.

Goldstein Explains Changes In Retail Sales Tax Law

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said recently that changes in the Retail Sales Tax Law concerning exemptions for agricultural uses which were passed by the 1979 session of the Maryland General Assembly and signed by Governor Hughes are causing some confusion.

"Among the changes which seem to be causing confusion is the new exemption for diesel fuel or other liquified fuels used in farm equipment or tractors. In addition all home heating oil sales were exempted from the sales tax by the General Assembly. Prior to July 1, 1979, such fuels were subject to the 5% sales tax," Mr. Goldstein said. "In addition, agricultural equipment or capitalized processing equipment is now exempt from the sales tax. Previously, such equipment had been subject to a 2% sales tax rate."

Comptroller Goldstein also noted that the new law exempts bailer twine or wire used for agricultural purposes from the sales tax.

"The exemption for agricultural equipment is an important one for Maryland's economy. We recommended the legislation to Governor Hughes and the General Assembly last fall, and it is important for all affected individuals to understand the provisions of the law adequately." Mr. Goldstein said.

Seeds, fertilizers, lime, fungicides, herbicides and insecticides used for agricultural purposes remain exempt form the State sales tax. While the exemption for the products also applies to home vegetable gardens, it does not apply to products purchased for flower or other decorative gardens or lawns. In addition, livestock and poultry, together with their feed, bedding and litter remain tax exempt. Containers used by a farmer to transport his products to market are also exempt.

Some general use items were not given the tax exemption, including hand tools used for any purpose, carpentry, cleaning and maintenance supplies, material to be incorporated into real property such as fencing materials, roofing materials and cement, and items such as clothing and appliances.

VIEW FROM THE STARS

Stars' dramatic tales of dropping out and in

By ANNE THAYER

Mid-life dropouts -- people who had it made, and who quit their particular rat races, are currently in the spotlight, as if they were a new phenomenon.

They're not, as a recent Phil Donahue program spelled out. But, though his three "dropout" guests all confessed to new (though less lucrative) goals, the studio-audience for the most part voiced resentment, or censure, against those who unglue their noses from their original grindstones.

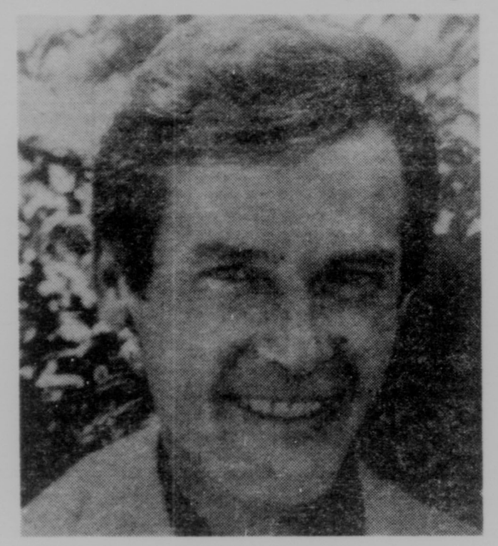
A 22-year-old dentist seemed to shock the greatest number, though he pointed out that he had saved ahead to finance a non-working cycle. With his wife and child, he moved from an upper-income neighborhood to a very modest flat. Some day, he said, he might write. But he wasn't feeling any pressures ... just rejoicing in not having to do what he didn't want to do.

The gist of the hour boiled down to, "dropping out of one segment of society means dropping into something else."

As noted, the phenomenon is not new ... and show business has had its share both of drop-ins and dropouts.

Edgar Buchanan was a practicing dentist who chucked the drills to try movies and television. Just with "Petticoat Junction" alone, he netted himself far greater earnings than his first career would have given ... plus he loved what he was doing.

Another mid-life drop-in to acting was Paul Ford, who from his 40s to his 60s, was in frequent demand on Broadway and television. His greatest role, however, was as the perpetually bewildered colonel who was perpetually outwitted by that cheerful con artist in uniform, Sergeant Bilko (Phil Silvers). Fortunately, the old shows were preserved and are again in syndication around the country.



SWITCHED FOR A YEAR: After a successful run with "The Saint," Roger Moore found he couldn't get an acting job. So he switched professions for a year, then came Bond.

An earlier generation drop-in to acting than even Buchanan or Ford was the late Barry Fitzgerald, whose great movies are now often repeated on television and savored by fans who weren't yet born when the films made their first go-round. Favorites are "Going My Way," with Bing Crosby and "The Quiet Man," with John Wayne.

Those three hit their first fame as character actors. But dropping in, or out, happens to younger actors, too. But unlike Messrs. Fitzgerald, Buchanan and Ford they may not be making their moves for the fun of it.

Handsome Roger Moore, currently riding with a box-office bonanza as Agent 007 in "Moonraker," dropped out a while back. For a year he applied his energies and wits to non-show business.

He explained at the time that after his long-running television series, "The Saint," finally wound up ... nobody was beating down his door with great scripts they wanted him to do.

So he shuttled between England and Hong Kong as a woolens' firm executive. When juicy roles again were offered the flexible Moore, his sense of humor undamaged, rekindled his acting career.

Altman's tragic tale of lovers on the run

A fugitive and a young backwoods girl fall in love in Mississippi during the Depression in "Thieves Like Us," directed by Robert Altman and starring Keith Carradine and Shelley Duvall. The critically acclaimed 1974 film makes its television debut on "The CBS Saturday Night Movies," August 4.

Based on the Edward Anderson novel that also inspired Nicholas Ray's earlier film, "They Live By Night," the movie tells the tragic tale of Bowie (Carradine), who has escaped from a prison work farm, and Keechie (Ms. Duvall), the uneducated young innocent he meets.

Under the influence of the two older criminals (John Schuck, Bert Remsen) with whom Bowie escaped, he and Keechie turn to bank robbery. At first their bumbling attempts are almost comic, but soon they lead to murder, jealousy and treachery.

With the law on their trail, they turn for refuge to the rigid sister-in-law (Louise Fletcher) of one of the convicts.

At The Blue Barn, Everything's Going To Yell —

Including credit for a successful 25 years

By Bart Naylor

An open shirted man scurried up the stairs at the Blue Barn playhouse, holding three cokes. The second act of "Move over Mrs. Markham" was about to begin.

Gene Yell, producer of the playhouse, stood at the entrance. "Hi" Yell said, in his expanded way, and with a flick of his wrist.

"Am I late?"

"I'll wait for you" replied Yell, calmly. With this last member of the audience seated, he signalled his lighting and sound technician across the stage, and turned out the barn's porch lights.

This was Yell's only free time during his busy week. Between the acts he is the usher; during the day, he collects props, helps build the set, organizes publicity, supplies Hemlock Hollow, (his home residence of his company), pays the bills, as well as reads and chooses plays for the next summer season. He has been doing this for 25 years.

Yell was born in 1913. His grandfather, whose name was Raeyel, emmigrated from France in the 1880's to Wisconsin and worked as a lumberman. Trouble with pronunciation led him to change the name to simply Yell.

Gene grew up in Chicago, and in 1932 entered the Art Institute, then part of the University of Chicago. "You took your drama, and voice classes at the Goodman theatre, which was part of the institute, then you took your academic courses at the university," Yell explained. The three-year program had a total of 70 students and six professors, and the professors complained they had too many students." In Yell's class was Karl Malden, who stared with Marlin Brando in "On the Waterfront" and in the TV series "The Streets of San Francisco." Another classmate was Barbara Burruss who became his wife.

After graduating in 1935, Yell went to New York to practice his trade. He got a small role in Camille, which played at the Shubert Theatre, and starred Eva LaGallienne. He played with Glenda Farrell in some Dorothy Parker sketches. At the Center theatre which was attached to the Rockefeller Center, he acted in the "American Way" with Frederick Marsh.

He also worked for radio on some Lorenzo Jones programs. In one, he was the gas station attendant.

During the summers, Yell often acted in small summer-stock theatres, the kind after which he modelled his Blue Barn playhouse. He played in Sagatese, New York and Aginquint Maine. In the summer of 1937, in Suffrin County, New York, he appeared in "What Every Woman Knows," with Helen Hayes, now the dame of American actresses.

The depression was not the best time to be in show businesses, Yell reflected. He supplemented his small income from acting, by working in a public library employees cafeteria. "I got 60 cents an hour, and all I could eat." In addition, Yell explained that often such institutions would receive "freebee" tickets to the flop shows. "I didn't get to see many of the Broadway hits, but I got to see all the flops." From these productions, Yell realized some of his academic training. "I could see on stage what was wrong. I could see if the acting was bad, and why. I could see where the director had messed up. I saw what not to do."

Yell then joined the Mercury company, directed by Orson Welles. They toured the country with "Julius Caesar." Yell played Cinna the poet, and Cinna the conspirator. The star was Tom Powers, who played Brutus.

Despite Yell's exposure to some of the biggest stars of the day, he did not get to know any of them well. "We were the younger kids, and the stars didn't futz around with young people."

Yell said that if he learned one thing from his New York experience, it was that talent and ability didn't matter. "It was who you knew. It was getting breaks. And I think that's true even today."

In 1940, he returned to Chicago and worked as a costumer until 1943. Then 29, he joined the Army, and after a period in Orlando, Florida, he was sent to Europe following the Battle of the Bulge as an ammunitions carrier for an anti-tank unit. He returned once again to Chicago, and worked for a masters degree in Fine Arts at the University of Chicago. From there, he received several teaching position offers and took one at the University of New Mexico. At the time, the school enrolled about 4,800 students, and Albequerque had a population of about 45,000. Now the school has about 22,000 students, and the city, 300,000 residents.

About the same time the Yell's went to New Mexico, they began to vacation at Deep Creek Lake, where Barbara's parents had bought some property at Hemlock hollow. Yell then formulated the idea of extending his classroom, to a summerstock theatre. In 1955, he opened the Blue Barn Playhouse for its first season, with Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit."

In the winters he taught courses at the university, such as scene design, voice and diction, and beginning directing, as well as directing two or three plays. Then, in the summer, Yell would bring a company of student actors to his Blue Barn theatre for a summerstock season. Some students who became successful actors included E. G. Peaker, Leonard Drum, now in Broadway's "Woopee," and Helen Page Camp, now in the TV series, "13 Queens Blvd." Two other students who have become professional, Cather Maccallum and Milburn Melhop, continue to work at the Blue Barn.

Producing plays at the Blue Barn has been one of the most gratifying experiences in Yell's long and rich career. "I really enjoy the warmth of the audience here. When we do a good show, they're appreciative; when we don't do so well, they're kind. We have some people who come again and again. Judge Lewis Jones and wife Mary haven't missed a show in twenty five years. And Robert and Berryldine Stanton have only missed one. And, oh my gosh, the city is so kind, lending us things. It's really very nice."

The Blue Barn is run on a shoe string budget. Last year it lost money, and to pay bills to open this year, had a benefit dinner. With this money, and ticket sales, Yell pays his actors and other bills. In 24 years, however, he has paid himself salary for a total of three weeks. "I can't afford myself."

"I hope we can keep it going. I was kind of worried about this year, with the gas problem and all. I was afraid we were going to have to close the doors before the season ended." But attendance has been surprisingly good this season. Already, he is running 600 people ahead of last year at this time."

Yell hopes to continue the Blue Barn theatre. In the winters, he will live in Albequerque, though he has retired

TV Tattle

By PEPPER O'BRIEN

Lauren Bacall's set to guest on a two-hour episode of "The Rockford Files" during the upcoming season. "We hit on the idea while doing the Bob Altman movie, 'Health,' in Florida this spring," Garner explained. "Betty (Bacall) expressed interest in our show and so I invited her to be my guest." Miss Bacall appeared last season on TV in "The Perfect Gentleman."

Now that "Starsky & Hutch" have manhandled their last suspect, David Soul has time for a little extra-curricula activity. He'll star with James Mason, Lance Kerwin and Bonnie Bedelia in the four-hour scare show, "Salem's Lot." Based on Stephen King's best-selling novel, the story is one of vampirism running rampant in modern-day New England. Guest-starring are Lew Ayres, Julie Cobb, Elisha Cook, George Dzundza, Ed Flanders, Clarissa Kaye, Geoffrey Lewis and Fred Willard.

Three more performers have been added to the cast of "The Last Convertible."

Sharon Gless, last seen regularly on "Switch," Michael Nouri, last seen as the very suave Dracula on "Cliffhangers," and Caroline Smith are the new additions.

Willie Aames, who plays Tommy on "Eight Is Enough," wound up a cross-country tour with his musical group, Paradise, at Disneyland. He's back in production with the show now.

Another ABC star, John Bennet Perry of the fall series "240-ROBERT," was once the lead singer for the folksinging group, The Serendipity Singers. While appearing with the group on "The Ed Sullivan Show," he was spotted by a talent agent who signed him and began his acting career.

Production had begun on NBC's new sci-fi epic, "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century," starring Gil Gerard. Guest-starring in the initial episode is Cesar Romero, who plays a businessman involved in moonbase contruction -- as well as extortion, smuggling illegal weapons and slave trafficking.

Patty Duke Astin, Barbara Feldon and Kenneth Mars have been signed for ABC's "Before and After," a movie look into the American obsession with weight loss. Betty White will be seen in a cameo role.

Robin Williams and Pam Dawber will be joined by three new regulars next season on "Mork & Mindy." Jay Thomas, a well-known New York disc jockey, will play Remo DaVinci, operator of The New York Delicatessen in Boulder, Colo., the locale of the series. Gina Hecht, who began acting in Houston, Texas, and recently played a series role in "Hizzoner," plays Remo's sister. And Jim Staahl is cast as Mindy's cousin, an uptight young social climber with grandiose political ambitions.

She's already been raped (and reaped in the ratings) on TV, now Elizabeth Montgomery, who used to do nothing more dangerous than wiggling her nose, will be attacked in CBS's "The Victim: An Anatomy of a Mugging." Also starring in the movie are James Sloyan, Sean Frye, Roy Poole, Michael Goodwin and Dolph Sweet.

Ann-Margret has signed with ABC for her next special, a 90-minute show to be called "Hollywood Movie Girls."

TV People

Charlotte Rae, who plays Mrs. Garrett on NBC's "Diff'rent Strokes," was nominated for three awards for her performances on the New York stage.

A native of Milwaukee, Wis., she began her show business career shortly after she earned her degree from Northwestern University and moved to New York City. There her comedy delivery earned her appearances at such top clubs as the Village Vanguard and The Blue Angel.

Her talent took her to the top on Broadway, where her roles ranged from the nurse in Joe Papp's production of "Romeo and Juliet," to the creation of Mammy Yokum in the musical "Li'l Abner." She received two Tony nominations -- for "Pickwick" and "Morning, Noon and Night" -- and an Obie nomination for "Whiskey."

In addition to dozens of plays, she has starred on television in such shows as "Sesame Street," "Car 54, Where Are You?" and "Hot L Baltimore."

Miss Rae is currently in the film version of "Hair."

Two-star family spells sibling rivalry

Russia will feature every event that will be held in the 1980 Olympic competitors next year and will feature world class competitors from around the world.

11:30 PM - (Ch. 4, 12): POLICE WOMAN A woman undercover is shot in a bus business where she is employed. Sibling rivalry. It happens worse in the best of families. Is it any circumstances — and any circumstances — and compensation is tough to come by? Ask Linda Lavin and Valerie Harper, who play sisters in the CBS comedy series "Two of Us," premiering Aug. 15 at 8:30 p.m. (EDT).

Ms. Lavin, who starred in the Broadway and movie versions of "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" and won an Emmy for her performance in the CBS series "Alice," plays Maggie Cooper, a divorced mother of two who has moved to New York City from Chicago to be near her sister, Brenda Morgenstern, played by Ms. Harper. Brenda is a successful author of romance novels who lives in a posh Manhattan apartment with her husband, Joel, and their baby daughter.

Maggie, on the other hand, is a struggling actress who is forced to take a job as a waitress in a coffee shop to support herself and her daughter, Jessica, after her husband walks out on the family.

Ms. Harper, who starred in the CBS series "Valentine Magic on Love Island" and appeared in the movie "Freaky Friday," is no stranger to sibling rivalry herself. She's the younger sister of actress Jennifer Harper, who starred in the CBS series "Apple Pie" and appeared in the movie "Rich Kids."

Ms. Harper says she and her sister have always been very close, but that hasn't prevented them from competing with each other. "I've been competing with her since I was born," she says. "I'm the younger sister, so I've been competing with her for everything."

Ms. Harper says she and her sister have been competing for roles in the new series, but that hasn't prevented them from helping each other. "We've been very supportive of each other," she says. "I've been helping her with her lines, and she's been helping me with mine."

Employers Offered Tax Credits To Hire Unemployed

Employers in Maryland who hire certain eligible unemployed persons may claim tax credits for a portion of the initial wages paid, according to Kalman R. Hettleman, Secretary of Human Resources.

Target groups for this employment tax credit, as outlined in the Revenue Act of 1978, are: handicapped persons served by vocational rehabilitation programs; public assistance recipients; aged and infirm persons who receive Supplemental Security Income (SSI); young persons in cooperative education programs; and members of economically disadvantaged families who are between 18 and 25 years of age, who are ex-offenders or who are Vietnam-era veterans under the age of 35.

Employers hiring unemployed persons in these categories may claim as a tax credit 50 percent of the first $6,000 in wages for the first year of employment and 25 percent of the first $6,000 in wages for the second year.

In addition, employers hiring participants in the Work Incentive Program (WIN) — a program requiring certain recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) to register for available work — may continue to receive a similar tax credit.

This program is a cooperative program of several different agencies including the Maryland Employment Security Administration, all CETA prime sponsors, the State Departments of Education, Public Safety and Corrections, and Health and Mental Hygiene and the National Alliance of Business. Employers wishing additional information should contact the local office of the Maryland State Employment Service or the Targeted Jobs Tax Credit Unit, (301) 383-7500.

Laws To Benefit The Handicapped Now In Effect

Effective July 1, the State of Maryland enacted laws which are intended to benefit the disabled driver, according to the American Lung Association of Maryland. These more stringent parking regulations benefit individuals with visable and invisable handicaps such as emphysema, chronic bronchitis and asthma, the Association said.

In order to provide convenience and safety for handicapped persons, the State of Maryland now issues a transferable permit that should be displayed in a conspicuous place in any vehicle.

Police now have the authority to issue tickets to individuals who park in spaces reserved for the handicapped. Parking provisions apply to vehicles on highways and on any private property that is used by the public in general. Violating provisions of these laws constitute a misdemeanor and can result in a fine of up to $500 although a parking ticket is normally issued, according to the Association.

THE BEST ADVERTISING

Selling your home? Then your first thought will, no doubt, be advertising it. You may start by planting a "For Sale By Owner" sign in your front lawn. But will this be seen by enough - or any — prospective buyers?

Then — newspaper advertising. This can become more costly and less effective than you think if done improperly. It could even lead to over-exposure of the house to the point where, if you should decide later to consult a Realtor, good prospects already will have seen the property and, having failed to buy, will be harder to interest a second time.

The basic reason for advertising is to attract interested prospects who are ready, willing, and financially able to buy. There's a more effective and faster way. List with a Realtor! He has prospects already in the market for homes realistically priced. One of them may be looking for just such a home as yours.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

'79 Distilled Spirits Tax Revenue Shared

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported recently that $1,331,348 has been distributed to the State's 23 counties and Baltimore City as their share of distilled spirits tax collections for the fourth quarter of Fiscal Year 1979.

"This brings the total amount of distilled spirits tax revenue shared with the subdivisions during the fiscal year to $5,493,685, compared with $5,484,560 returned to the subdivisions during Fiscal Year 1978," Mr. Goldstein said.

Baltimore City received the largest amount of distilled spirits tax revenue for Fiscal Year 1979 — $1,205,743. Prince George's County received $900,418 and Baltimore County, $846,430. Garrett County's share totaled $20,377.00, the smallest check.

Approximately 50 cents of each $1.50 per gallon distilled spirits tax collected by the State Comptroller's Office is returned to the subdivisions, based on sales to licensed retailers within the subdivisions.

AARP Group Tours Canada

They set off from Garrett County Monday, July 9, and upon their return, sixteen days later, the forty-one members of the Oakland Chapter #779 of the American Association of Retired Persons had traveled a total of 4000 miles. Their trip was part of a tour of Canada and the New England states arranged by Ernest Spoerlein, chapter president.

After passing through the New England states to Maine, the group toured Bar Harbor and Cadillac Mountain. The tour group then crossed the Bay of Fundy into Nova Scotia and had a tour of Peggy's Cove. They traveled into the metropolis of Halifax and toured the Citadel and homes and gardens in that area.

Leaving Nova Scotia, the group went to Cape Breton Island and followed the Cabot Trail by the coastline of the Gulf of St. Lawrence on the west and the Atlantic Ocean on the east. At Baddeck the group visited the National Historic Park and home of Alexander Graham Bell, called Beinn Bhergh.

The group crossed the ferry to Prince Edward Island and traveled to Charlottetown, the capital of Canada's smallest province. From there they traveled by another ferry to Cambellton in New Brunswick.

The following day they crossed the bridge to the province of Quebec. The group stopped at the town of Perce and took a boat tour to Bonaventure Island, a waterfowl sanctuary.

They took a drive along Gaspe Peninsula with its rugged shorelines edged by gigantic cliffs along the Gulf of St. Lawrence on the east and the St. Lawrence River on the west. After this tour they had a driving tour of the walled city of Quebec.

Upon leaving Quebec the tour followed the St. Lawrence River to Montreal where they took a Motor Tour. From Montreal the group traveled into the province of Ontario and stopped at Thousand Islands and Skytown.

Leaving Canada the group proceeded into New York state where they toured the Great Western Winery and the Corning Glass Factory.

Since they were unable to attend Sunday services at their respective churches, the members of the tour participated in a "Church on Wheels." Those conducting the services were Robert Lee, Ernest Spoerlein, Alvin Yoder, Hugh Dennison and Joseph Welch.

Entertainment was provided daily by Robert Lee, songleader and newscaster; Ernest Spoerlein, comedian; Hugh Dennison, comical imitator; and Joseph Welch, who played his harmonica for the group.

Those taking the tour were: Ray Perry, bus driver; Linda Miller, tour guide; Shirley Miller; Ernest and Alice Spoerlein; Robert and Lillian Lee; Joseph and Hazel Welch; Hugh and Freda Dennison; Glenn and Betty Randol; Alvin and Ruth Yoder; Clyde and Alice Harvey; Ralph and Ethel Buckel; Gibson and Marie Poland; Paul and Neva Schultz; Alvy and Evelyn Clark; Elizabeth Watkins; Jean Sollars; Selma Hunydale; Mary Pollack; Dora Sweene; Fern Beachy; Clema Mattingly; Nina Schmidt; Jo Fisher; Mabel Yutzy; Rosella Baker; Lura Folk; Elizabeth McComas; Grayce Quinet; Mabel Teets and Minnie Wolf.

Pipeline Fuel Shipments Higher

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said recently that shipments of both gasoline and distillate fuels through the Colonial Pipeline into Maryland were higher during the month of June 1979 than June of the previous year.

"This is the first time this year that both categories have shown increases during the same month," Mr. Goldstein said.

Gasoline shipments on the Colonial Pipeline totaled 113,533,434 gallons during June 1979, 8.5 percent greater than shipments during the previous June. Shipments of diesel fuel, heating oil and kerosene in June 1979 totaled 57,451,548 gallons, up 3.3 percent.

"Shipments of both gasoline and distillates for the first six months of 1979 continue to run ahead of last year," Mr. Goldstein said. Gasoline shipments amount to 650,375,586 gallons, up nearly three-quarters of one percent over the same period of 1978. Shipments of kerosene, heating oil and diesel fuel total 398,102,460 gallons, up 1.7 percent.

Approximately 60 percent of the gasoline used in Maryland arrives on the Colonial Pipelines.

Wheeling Couple Hospitalized After Route 48 Crash

A Wheeling couple was taken by members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland following a one-vehicle mishap about 2:40 July 28 on Route 48.

Injured was the operator of the car, Myrtle L. Salyers, and her husband, Samuel Salyers. According to the state police report, Mrs. Salyers said she attempted to change lanes to pass another vehicle when she lost control. Her car crossed the median strip and the westbound lanes, went over an embankment and came to rest on a concrete culvert.

Tfc. Gary Resh made no charges due to wet road conditions and statements from two witnesses who said that the operator was not speeding when she lost control.

Mrs. Salyers was released from the hospital on Sunday.

Hagan William Thomas, Accident, told police the animals darted in front of his car, causing him to slam on the brakes. His vehicle skidded on the wet road, struck an embankment and overturned.

No charges were filed by Tfc. R. C. Georg.

Camp Hickory To Host Western Region Session Of College Days II

The 1979 western region session of College Days II is set for August 19-22 at Camp Hickory near Accident, according to the Cooperative Extension Service at the University of Maryland.

This educational event is the last in a series of four regional sessions sponsored this summer by the home economics department of the Extension Service and the Maryland Extension Homemakers Council. It is open to both men and women from throughout the state.

Cultural education events on the program will include a "Star-Gazing" astronomy night on August 20, led by James Hart, planetarium resource teacher for the Garrett County Board of Education. "Creative Stitchery" will be taught by Dorothy Stone, LaVale; "Creative Writing" will be taught by Joan B. Crawford, chairman of the humanities division at Garrett Community College; "Yeast Breads You Knead" will be led by Mrs. Janet C. Cover, Washington County Extension home economics agent at Hagerstown; and "Outdoor Cookery" will be taught by Mrs. Kathryn K. Jenkins, Extension chairman and home economics agent at Frederick. There will also be an afternoon tour on August 21 to visit "Falling Waters," a famous private home built in the U. S. during the twentieth century.

Designed by the late Frank Lloyd Wright, it was built in 1936-37 across Bear Run Creek, a tributary of the Youghiogheny river, at Ohippyle, Pa., southeast of Connellsville, Pa., "Falling Waters" is located approximately 12 miles due north of the point where the Maryland-West Virginia state line intersects with the Mason-Dixon line.

Opportunities to learn or enhance personal skills will be offered through a choice among six morning mini-courses, running Monday through Wednesday, and a selection among six afternoon classes on Monday, August 20.

Tuesday afternoon will be devoted to the "Falling Waters" excursion, and the final session on Wednesday afternoon (August 22) will have a two-part focus.

Dr. John S. Toll, president of the University of Maryland, will be the featured speaker during a general assembly at 1 p.m. on Wednesday. The day will conclude with a "Mrs. Fix-it" session on home repairs, led by Dr. Lee P. Grant, Extension home maintenance specialist in the agricultural engineering department at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Further information on the College Days II program, including class descriptions and registration forms, is contained in a brochure titled, "Take An Educational Break." The free booklet is available from offices of the Cooperative Extension Service in each Maryland county and in Baltimore city.

Garrett County Mental Health and Addictions Services

Recognizing that times of stress are going to occur throughout everyone's life, what can a person do about handling it? The U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare — Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration has come up with a few suggestions from a magazine entitled "Current Health" on how to live with stress:

1. Work off stress — if you are angry or upset, try to blow off steam physically by activities such as running, playing tennis, or gardening.

2. Talk out your worries — it helps to share worries with someone you trust and respect. This may be a friend, family member, clergyman, teacher, or counselor. Sometimes another person can help you see a new side to your problem and, thus, a new solution. If you find yourself becoming preoccupied with emotional problems, it might be wise to seek a professional listener, like a guidance counselor or psychologist.

3. Learn to accept what you cannot change — if the problem is beyond your control at this time, try your best to accept it until you can change it.

4. Avoid self-medication — although there are many chemicals, including alcohol, that can mask stress symptoms, they do not help you adjust to the stress itself. Many are habit forming, so the decision to use them should belong to your physician. Self-medication is a form of escape that can cause more stress than it solves.

5. Get enough sleep and rest — lack of sleep can lessen your ability to deal with stress by making you more irritable. Most people need at least seven to eight hours of sleep out of every 24.

6. Balance work and recreation — "all work and no play can make Jack a nervous wreck." Schedule time for recreation to relax your mind. Although inactivity can cause boredom, a little loafing can ease stress.

7. Do something for others — sometimes when you are distressed you concentrate too much on yourself and your situation. When this happens, it is often wise to do something for someone else, and get your mind off yourself.

8. Take one thing at a time — it is defeating to tackle all your tasks at once. Instead, set some aside and work on the most urgent.

9. Give in once in awhile — if you find the source of your stress is other people, try giving in instead of fighting and insisting you are always right.

10. Make yourself available — when you are bored and feel left out, go where the action is. Sitting alone will just make you more frustrated. Instead of withdrawing and feeling sorry for yourself, get involved.

Masonry block has far better M & U factors than poured concrete. That's a fact. So, used naturally, without any insulation, masonry block will always be warmer. Yet, the builder can still add additional insulation in the cores of a masonry block for an exceptionally energy-efficient wall. Masonry block foundation walls can even allow the builder to insulate his floors more quickly since he need not wait to strip the concrete forms.

We also have attractive pre-cast materials, patio stones, steps, splash blocks, parking curbs, concrete pipe, flower boxes, etc. So stop in and see us for all your masonry needs.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

Many pet foods are advertised as complete foods or balanced diets for cats or dogs, and they probably fill the nutritional needs of most household pets. However, some pets have special dietary needs; young animals, those recovering from an illness, pregnant pets and some others have nutritional requirements that differ from the healthy adult.

Your veterinarian is the best person to consult about your pet's diet. He or she can determine whether the food you feed your pet provides balanced nutrition, or requires additional supplementation.

A properly balanced pet diet should provide about a dozen basic vitamins. If one or more of these essential vitamins is missing, the pet could be in poor condition, and may lack energy. Certain medical problems may also develop, depending upon the specific vitamin deficiency.

Eye infections and reproductive problems occur when pets are fed foods low in vitamin A. Cats may also show a serious weight loss, with some weakness in the hind legs. Pet foods that are improperly stored or rancid can quickly lose their vitamin A content.

Vitamin D, in combination with calcium and phosphorus, is necessary for proper bone development. It may be lacking in kittens and puppies born during the winter who are kept in dimly lit quarters. Vitamin D-deficient pets will develop bowed legs and weak bones.

The term "vitamin B" describes a group or complex of related compunds, rather than a single chemical. The primary signs of vitamin B deficiency include lack of appetite, anemia and various nervous disorders. Most vitamin B supplements generally contain a blend of the major vitamin B factors.

Cats are more susceptible to vitamin E deficiencies than dogs. Felines develop a condition called steatitis or "yellow fat disease" in which the fatty areas of the cat's body become inflamed. The cat then loses its appetite and becomes sensitive to touch or pressure. Much of the vitamin E in a normal feline diet can be destroyed by the unsaturated fatty acids contained in fish oil. If your cat prefers a diet with high levels of fish, it might need a vitamin E supplement.

Scientists have discovered other indications of vitamin and mineral deficiencies in pets. Convulsions, prolonged bleeding, stomach disorders, even temporary paralysis can result from a poor diet.

Although there are quite a number of pet vitamins available, you need to be selective in choosing one for your pet. Cats have somewhat different needs than dogs and should receive dietary supplement designed especially for feline use.

The National Research Council, a private, non-profit organization of scientists, has established recommended levels of vitamins for good canine and feline nutrition. This information is readily available to your veterinarian. He or she can evaluate your pet's current diet against the model recommended for proper pet health. If your pet's diet meets or slightly exceeds the standards established by the NRC, you can be assured it is receiving the nutrients necessary for a healthy life. Generally, dog and cat food manufacturers produce quality products that prevent most dietary deficiencies. Veterinarians see dietary deficiencies that are usually caused by nutritional excesses and imbalances.

What is the Youth Conservation Corps?

The YCC provides gainful summer employment for 15 to 18-year-olds at various parks and recreation areas administered by the Department of Interior and the U. S. Forest Service. This year nearly 12,000 young people are participating in the vigorous eight-week program of conservation work and environmental awareness training at 430 project areas nationwide. Their work projects include the development and maintenance of recreational facilities, wildlife habitat improvement, trial maintenance, timber stand improvement and reforestation, and other related activities. If you know someone who would be interested in the YCC program for the summer of 1980, have them contact: Department of Interior, Office of Youth Programs, Suite 600, 2nd & Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia, PA 19106.

What kinds of energy bills is Congress developing?

There are many energy bills pending in Congress. Here is a sampling: S.1030 — Passed by the Senate, this bill gives the president authority to impose conservation measures on states that do not meet federal goals; S.1038 — A comprehensive energy supply bill that includes programs to boost synthetic fuels, gasohol and solar energy and to cut red tape for energy projects; H.R.4573 — A bill that puts various energy projects a year on a "fast track" to avoid delays because of government red tape; H.R.3919 — The "windfall profits tax" on oil companies passed by the House; H.R.3930 — Passed by the House, this bill calls for the production of 500,000 barrels a day of synthetic fuels by 1985.

I read somewhere that American Homeowners are using energy up to 10 percent more efficiently than five years ago? Is this true?

According the Department of Energy, new residences will use over their lifetimes, 10 percent less energy than those built five years ago. The annual growth rate in home electrical use has been cut in half — from six to three percent. And, half of all U. S. homeowners have added insulation on other energy-saving features to their homes. For your information, the U. S. has more than 75 million homes that account for about 19 percent of all end-use energy consumed in the country.

Did you support a cut of $500 million in Labor-HEW Appropriations? If so, why?

Two weeks ago I voted for an amendment to reduce the appropriation for HEW by $500 million, with the reduction to be taken from programs identified by the HEW Inspector General as containing waste, fraud and abuse. The measure was adopted by the House 263-152.

Does the government publish any free booklets on energy conservation?

For a free copy of the 30-page booklet, "Tips for Energy Savers," write: Energy, Box 62, Oak Ridge, TN 37830.

What percent of oil does the U.S. now import?

We import about 8.6 million barrels of oil a day, or about 43 percent of consumption. As a result of the recent OPEC price hikes the U.S. bill for oil imports in 1979 could total more than $60 billion.

Congress recently approved legislation to create substitutes for oil and gas from coal, garbage and other materials. What is the ultimate goal of the program?

The bill, an amendment to the Defense Production Act, calls on the government to encourage production of the equivalent of 500,000 barrels a day in synthetic fuels by 1985, with the additional goal of two million barrels a day by 1980.

Do you support additional food stamps for the elderly?

Last month I voted in favor of legislation increasing food stamp allotments for senior citizens.

Is the government going to try to ban saccharin again?

As a result of pressures from constituents and doctors, a House Committee has voted to bar the Food and Drug Administration from taking any action against the no-calorie sweetner for at least two more years.

How did you vote on the bill to lift sanctions against Rhodesia?

Two weeks ago the House passed a bill (350-37) to terminate sanctions against Zimbabwe Rhodesia by October 1, 1979, unless the President determined that it would not be in the national interest to do so. I supported this bill.

What can be done about our current income tax structure which seems to penalize married couples?

I share your concern over this inequitable tax problem and have introduced a bill to remove the marriage penalty by providing that married individuals who file separate returns will be taxed at the same rate as unmarried individuals.

What percent of our nation's energy needs are now provided by renewable sources?

Only six percent of our country's energy comes from renewable energy sources such as the sun, wind, wood and water.

Does the government publish any information to let the public know what consumer items will be soon be going up or down in price?

The White House Consumer Office publishes the "National Consumer Buying Alert" which suggests how you can save on food, what to do to cut energy costs, and what to watch out for when you are shopping for health care. Seasonal price fluctuations are discussed. For a free copy, write the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 681G, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Driver Slightly Hurt In Mayhew Inn Road Mishap

An Oakland man was slightly injured in a one-vehicle mishap July 25 about 10:30 p.m. on Mayhew Inn Road.

Adorable Adoptables

from the Garrett County Animal Shelter

"TAKE ME HOME," may be Cher's latest hit song, but it's also the plea of this striking mixed Collie female, available from the Garrett County Animal Shelter, 334-3553. She is available with all innoculations and would make a lovely pet for a child. Collies are considered the most faithful of breeds.

And now on a more serious note. Last week's Adorable Adoptable was a tiny calico female kitten. She had the dubious honor this week of being the first Adorable Adoptable NOT to be adopted. Now neither the shelter or this newspaper can believe that anyone could ignore the plight of this homeless cutie, so the shelter has been kind enough to hold her a little longer than usual. You wouldn't want this kitten to feel unwanted would you?

Energy Tip — Reduce energy consumption in cooking by using flat botton pans that cover the burner heating element. More heat enters the pot and less is lost to the surrounding air.

Lemons — Lemons are in short supply this season because of freezing weather followed by a heat wave. These conditions teamed to cut the current summer and early fall supplies of California — Arizona grown lemons that reach consumer. The lemon crop has been reduced approximately 30%. Fresh lemons are and will be available this summer although they will be short in supply and high in price.

Fresh lemons are used in many menus, especially in the summer. They add flavor and appetite appeal to many beverages, desserts, salads, barbeque cookery, and fish cookery. Here are some tips on how to stretch fresh lemons:

—A lemon yields more juice when left at room temperature and rolled on the counter before squeezing.

—Lemons keep in the refrigerator in a plastic bag for as long as 6 weeks, or at room temperature for about a week.

—Fresh grated lemon peel adds aromatic pleasure to all kinds of baked goods, fruit compotes, dessert and sauces. Be sure to grate the peel of a lemon before cutting in half and juicing. Grated peel can be kept in a small plastic bag in the freezer — ready to add aroma and flavor.

—Ice cubes frozen with a twist of lemon peel add flavor to diet beverages and sparkling mineral water.

—Hollowed out lemon shells make attractive serving containers for sherbert, ice cream, tartar sauce, relishes or salad dressings. Citrus shells may be made ahead and frozen until ready to use.

—When a recipe calls for the juice of ½ lemon, store the remaining half, wrapped in plastic, in the refrigerator to keep fresh for later use.

—Lemon juice freezes well. Keep handy by freezing measured amounts, 1 or 2 tablespoons into individual ice cubes. Store frozen cubes in plastic bag, thaw and use as needed.

—Keep your garbage disposal smelling fresh by grinding up the lemon shells when you've finished squeezing the juice.

SOUTHERN PIE

1 small container of frozen whipped topping
1 can of sweetened condensed milk
½ cup lemon juice
1 graham cracker pie crust shell

Combine whipped topping, sweetened condensed milk, and lemon juice together with a spoon. Pour the mixture into the pie crust and chill until it is firm. For a variation try adding fresh canned or frozen fruit to the mixture before putting it into the pie crust.

Dairy Program Comments Due By August 20

Dairy farmers and other interested persons have until August 20 to comment on the milk price support level for the 1979-80 marketing year which begins October 1. They are also invited to comment on the price and terms of butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk purchases by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC).

Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said milk prices are supported between 75 and 90 percent of parity. "This price will be adjusted in the middle of the marketing year to reflect any changes in the index of prices paid by farmers, interest, taxes, and farm wage rates during the previous six months," he explained.

Other milk support program decisions to be made include the yields of cheese, butter and nonfat dry milk per hundredweight of milk, the manufacturing margins used in calculating the purchases of cheese, butter and nonfat dry milk, the allocation of any change in the support price for milk affecting the purchase prices set for butter and nonfat dry milk, whether to change the purchase price differential between fortified and nonfortified nonfat dry milk, and the level of sales prices of CCC-owned dairy products.

Written comments should be mailed to the Director, Procurement and Sales Division, U. S. Department of Agriculture, ASCS, Room 5741, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D. C. 20013.

NOTICE

MOUNTAIN LAKE WATER COMPANY, INC.
P.O. Box 185
Mountain Lake Park,

On February 22, 1979, one of three routine water sample analyses performed by the Maryland Environmental Health Administration indicated that the bacteria level exceeded the permissible level prescribed by the Maryland Safe Drinking Water Act in COMAR 10.03.33, Section 10.

Two other samples taken that day at other locations in the system indicated bacteria to be well within acceptable limits. All samples since then have been within acceptable limits.

The matter has been reviewed with local health officials. The joint conclusion is that this one sample on February 22, 1979, either became contaminated from some source other than this public water system or that an accident in the State's laboratory caused the high bacteria count.

The Maryland Environmental Health Administration apparently concurs in this conclusion because of the lack of any sanction imposed during the long lapse of the time involved.

Thus, customers are advised that no action is necessary on their part.

Planning Board Discusses Revised Youghiogheny Plan

Members of the Army Corps of Engineers and the Garrett County Planning Commission discussed seven proposed projects involving towns and other land bordering the county portion of Youghiogheny River Lake during the commission's August meeting held last Thursday afternoon in the commission's office.

The projects are part of a draft of the revised master plan for the lake directed, as stated in the plan, "toward providing an optimum balance of recreation opportunities and conservation of the project's natural resources."

County planning director, Tim Dugan, in a memorandum to the commission, summarized the Garrett County portion of the project by stating, "the report calls for up-grading the two existing sites (Mill Run and Selbysport), and also proposes varying levels of new facility development at five other locations."

He then described the seven proposals which, besides further development of the Mill Run and Selbysport recreation areas, included the establishment of an eleven-acre wildlife area on the west shore opposite Selbysport; of a 60-acre buffer strip between Selbysport and Friendsville to offer camping, hiking and biking; of a 20-acre town park in Friendsville; of a four-acre primitive camping area at the mouth of Church Run; and of a 40-acre wildlife management area at the mouth of Buffalo Run. Ronald Wazenegger, Charles Moeslein, and Les Hickson represented the Corps to answer questions of commission members. The plan also included the development of an extension of the Potomac Heritage Trail, a hiking trail which is part of a national trail system, which would tie in with trails in the rest of Maryland and in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Financing the project was the major obstacle discussed. The Federal Water Project Recreation Act of 1965 requires the 50/50 cost-sharing to be on a federal/non-federal basis leaving the county the responsibility of funding half of the project. In his memo, Dugan named the Maryland Wildlife Administration, the American Youth Hostels, Inc., Program Open Space (P.O.S.), as possible sources of aid for parts of the project. Al Bourgeois, Regional Wildlife Administrator, confirmed the interest of the wildlife administration in the proposed West Selbysport and Buffalo Run areas.

The commission voted to approve the concept of Dugan's memo which included recommendations to endorse the project and to direct the county's P.O.S. Liaison Officer to explore the possibility of using some of the county's P.O.S. allocation for the project.

Tim Dugan announced representatives from the Corps of Engineers and Department of Natural Resources would meet with citizens living near the lake and other interested persons Thursday, August 9 at 8:00 p.m. in the Friendsville Municipal building.

In other business, Ernie

Arson Suspected In Deer Park Fire August 1

Arson has been listed as the cause of a fire in Deer Park last Wednesday afternoon which caused minor damage to a home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leroy Armstrong and their family.

According to a report filed by Deer Park fire chief Robert Thrasher, it appears that gasoline was poured on the cement basement steps and ignited.

Fire fighters from Deer Park and Oakland were called at 12:45, and were on the scene a short time. Damage was confined to the stairway area, and one lawn chair was destroyed.

A storage can of gasoline had been on the porch, and was found on the stairway. Dale Hill, investigator for the state fire marshal's office, is conducting the investigation.

Dr. Buser Still Uncertain About Budget Cut Effects

Dr. William H. Buser, superintendent of schools, issued a statement this week indicating that he is still uncertain of the effects on the school board budget following Judge Fred A. Thayer's ruling to drop the county tax rate to the constant yield amount.

Dr. Buser said he "still hoped the Commissioners could find some way to fund the school board budget at its current level," and noted that the budget currently in the computer was based on the previous budget's approval by a majority of commissioners.

He noted that personnel hiring, material and equipment purchases, and all action in preparation for the opening of schools were based on the income level of $3,978,063 for the local appropriation.

Dr. Buser also stated that, in order to have as much flexibility as possible, he had placed a freeze on purchases and hiring of personnel, and had indicated to some employees that the Board of Education may not be able to meet salary agreements made with them.

In conclusion, he said that in over 25 years of service in Maryland schools, he was not aware of a school system that was required to make adjustments in the school budget after June 30 of the year in which a new budget went into effect.

Hospital Receives Certificate Of Need For Building Project

It was announced last week by the Board of Governors for the Garrett County Memorial Hospital that a Certificate of Need has been issued to the hospital by the Maryland Health Planning and Development Agency for a $6.4 million renovation and expansion project. Such a certificate must be obtained before any hospital in the state of Maryland may proceed with a building project.

This was the second time Garrett Memorial made application for the certificate. The first application, made in February of this year, was rejected after the Agency deemed the project debt service of the program as too great, and recommended other alternatives be explored to reduce the anticipated project cost.

The original application, which was rejected, called for a required borrowing by the hospital of $7,190,000. The revised and approved application calls for a required borrowing of $4,775,000, for the same project. This $2,415,000 reduction in borrowed funds was made possible through the acquisition of an additional $1.2 million from the Appalachian Regional Commission, $108,000 from the transfer of 25,000 square feet of space to the Health Department and a $150,000 community fund raising program.

The project will involve vacating 25,000 gross square feet (GSF) in the oldest portions of the existing hospital. Of the remaining 33,000 GSF, 15,000 will be renovated. In addition, 41,000 GSF of new space will be constructed on the south side of the present structure, facing Memorial Drive. The 25,000 GSF of vacated space will be occupied by the Health Department upon completion of the project. The hospital will maintain its present total of 76 beds.

Two major concerns of the Agency which were also addressed by the Board of Governors were the projected increase in the cost per inpatient day (EIPD) to pay for the project and the accuracy of the growth projections at Garrett Memorial.

The increase in the cost per EIPD in the original proposal was $26.25. The EIPD figure, even with the addition of radiographic equipment, was reduced to $17.43 in the revised proposal.

The projected utilization figures for the hospital showed that, by 1983, Garrett Memorial would be handling a total of 21,400 patient days. However, fiscal year 1979 ended with an actual total of 21,457 patient days, already exceeding the projected figure for four years from now.

The need for the project was made apparent after surveys conducted by state and federal agencies indicated that Garrett Memorial's existing physical plant is in non-compliance with the State Building Code, the HEW Minimum Requirements for Hospitals, the National Fire Protection Association Codes and the Life Safety Code. Since the hospital has been actively

Oakland Amtrak Service Is Safe

Oakland, Cumberland, and Keyser will continue to be served by Amtrak passenger train service thanks to a U. S. Senate vote of 89-11 last Wednesday to approve guidelines for Amtrak operations. A similar set of criteria was approved earlier by the House of Representatives.

The vote will prompt a 20 percent cut in Amtrak service, but is more lenient than the 43 percent trimming urged by President Carter. The bill will now go before a House-Senate conference in an attempt to iron out differences.

The Senate passed a two-year $1.8 billion bill; the House a three-year $2.7 billion bill. Several bones of contention such as formulas for state-federal matching funds if states want to support service, will be discussed by the joint conference.

Amtrak retains the right to final decision on train curtailment. However, the Department of Transportation and experts in Congress have already earmarked several passenger train routes to be cut.

The "Shenadoah," serving the Cumberland, Keyser and Oakland areas, and running between Washington, D. C., and Cincinnati, will remain intact.

On its westbound daily trip it leaves Washington at 7:40 p.m., Cumberland at 11:02, Keyser at 11:40 p.m., Oakland, 12:33 a.m., and arrives at Cincinnati at 10:20 a.m.

On the eastbound trip it departs from Cincinnati at 7:20 p.m., Oakland at 5:07 a.m., Keyser at 6 a.m., Cumberland at 6:40 a.m., and arrives in Washington at 10:20 a.m.

Treasurer To Collect Taxes At $2.37 Rate Following Circuit Court Ruling

The Garrett County Commissioners issued a formal directive to County Treasurer Arzella Parsons Tuesday morning, authorizing her to collect taxes at the constant yield rate for the coming fiscal year.

The Commissioners were obeying an injunction issued by Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer last Thursday, mandating that the county tax rate be $2.37 per $100 of valuation for the taxable year.

Judge Thayer's order was issued in answer to a suit filed by Delegate DeCorsey Bolden, which alleged that the commissioners had violated technicalities in the new laws regarding the increase of tax rates above the constant yield rate.

The Commissioners had voted June 19 to set the rate at $2.66 per $100, but the judge ruled this amount could not be collected since the commissioners failed to observe all procedure rules. Commissioner Ernie Gregg, Jr., had refused to sign the tax rate proposal and had filed a separate answer to Bolden's suit through his personal attorney.

The $2.37 rate includes a five-cent levy for county volunteer fire departments, which means the county will have an actual rate of $2.32 per $100. This rate will produce some $707,000 less revenue than the $9,700,000 which had been budgeted for the county departments.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg, Jr., recommended that the Board now review all budget proposals from the various departments, and go over these "line by line" to see where reductions could be made.

Commissioner Chairman Truman Paugh and Commissioner H. Lester Hunter agreed to hold several meetings in the next few days to review budgets, and said they would then meet again with all department officials to go over proposed cuts.

The Commissioners did not rule out the possibility that an appeal of Judge Thayer's decision would be made. The Board has until the end of this month to file an appeal, and Commissioner Hunter acted as spokesman for the two commissioners who had approved the $2.66 rate when he said, "We are not in a position to say we won't appeal, not at this time."

There had been some confusion regarding the actual constant yield rate, as the Commissioners were not sure whether the $2.37 amount mandated by the Court included the five-cent fire department levy. A check with the state office of Assessments and Taxation in Baltimore, which figured the constant yield rate for the counties based on gross collections last year, proved that the $2.37 does, include the five cents.

When the Commissioners began discussing the nitty-gritty matter of where more than $709,000 could be cut, Commissioner Gregg gave his opinion that a nearly $600,000 windfall from the state which had been designated for completion of the courthouse could possibly be used to help make up the deficit.

County administrator W. Marshall Rickert said that the amount had been earmarked for the courthouse because the money would be available soon, and was needed to pay off final contracts which come due this October. Rickert also reminded Commissioner Gregg that this amount had already been included in the budget.

In discussing other ways to trim the budget, Commissioner Gregg stated that he realizes there are gross deficiencies in the roads department which must be addressed, "but not by pouring more money into the department."

When pressed for an example, Gregg cited inefficient scheduling, excessive use of chemicals during the winter, and lack of ditching to drain surface water from roadways.

He was unable to give exact amounts of money which could be saved by correcting such deficiencies, and at this time the county administrator pointed out that the county roads budget was already cut more than $200,000 from the budgeted amount last year.

Mr. Richert also reminded the Board that for such divisions as the roads department, Garrett Community College, and the health department, each $1 cut from their budgets means a corresponding, or larger, loss from state and federal matching funds.

Layoffs may save some money, Rickert said, but the county, as a self-insured agency, must make unemployment payments for these workers. This would average approximately $100 a week per person laid off, or approximately one-half their usual salaries.

The idea of creating a bond issue was mentioned only briefly, as Commissioner Hunter explained that this just amounts to borrowing money which must be paid back in the future, so the county really would not be able to solve the problems this way.

County Treasurer Mrs. Parsons has begun formulating office policy concerning refunds, which she said would be issued as soon as possible to the more than 3,266 taxpayers who have already paid their taxes at the $2.66 rate set by the Commissioners.

Mrs. Parsons indicated yesterday that as taxpayers bring in their bills for payment, staff members would calculate their bills at the new rate to be paid. For those who sent payment by mail, refunds will be mailed as soon as possible.

A total of 17,465 tax bills were mailed early in July to county landowners, at the $2.66 rate.

Two Take Surprise Actions

As a result of the morning meeting, Commissioners Hunter and Paugh delivered a letter to Commissioner Gregg, requesting him to prepare a list of his recommendations on how the $707,000 can be cut from the budget on or before September 4. Saying "It is time to abandon rhetoric," the commissioners also requested their co-worker to specify the dollar amount which might be saved for each recommended cut.

Accident Tax Schedule Altered

Property owners in the town of Accident may have been a little disgruntled when they received a tax bill for fiscal year 1980 this past week, especially since little over a month ago they received their bill for fiscal year 1979.

According to a press release issued on behalf of the Accident Town Council, residents have not been billed twice for the same taxes due.

In an effort to comply with the town charter, to advance efficiency of town government, and to operate on a fiscal year basis as do most local, state and federal governments, the Accident Town Council recently shifted the timetable for the billing of the property tax from the end of the fiscal year to the beginning of the fiscal year.

According to the Accident Town Charter, the town clerk is to prepare and deliver tax bills to all persons owning property within the town at the start of each fiscal year. In addition, the charter states that if any tax is not paid by the following October 1 an interest charge of .05 percent per month is to be charged until the delinquent tax is paid.

In Accident, as in most Maryland governments, the fiscal year does not start on January 1 as does the calendar year but rather starts each year on July 1 and ends the following June 30. All financial resources for the town government, including the budget and tax collections, are maintained on the basis of this fiscal year. Most governments mail their tax bills and receive the payments from those bills as early in the fiscal year as possible.

Reasons for this type of schedule are the efficiency of government is increased; elected officials are better able to plan the activities of the government for the upcoming year based on collected revenues; by collecting taxes early in the fiscal year the town is able to finance needed services from existing revenues – if taxes were not collected until the end of the fiscal year, government would possibly have to borrow money to finance its services until the taxes for that year were paid; the overall cost of operating the government may be lowered; and the number of delinquent accounts would be reduced.

Accident's new billing timetable corresponds closely with all of the other towns in Garrett County and will allow the town to collect taxes in the year they are due. The main difference of the altered property tax collection timetable is the date the tax is due: the change has neither increased nor decreased the amount of taxes due from individual properties.

Once the new timetable is in place, property owners will be billed once a year as in the past. For this first, transitional year the Council recognizes that the closeness of the fiscal 1979 and fiscal 1980 billings creates an inconvenience for town taxpayers. The Council believes, however, that the action must be taken to improve the operation of the town government and to advance the long term welfare of the community.

Teenager Slams Into Vehicle Side Sunday Afternoon

A New Jersey teenager was injured Sunday afternoon when he ran into a car on Route 219 near Rock Lodge Road.

According to Maryland State Police, Robert James Devine, 15, of Parling, N.J., sustained serious injuries when he ran into the side of a vehicle operated by Sandra Kay Bowman, McHenry, about 5:45 p.m.

Miss Bowman was southbound on Route 219 when the Devine youth ran into the roadway and struck her car in the side, on the fender.

She told police she had slowed down when she saw the boy, but was resuming her speed when she saw that he had stopped and looked both ways. He then darted onto the roadway.

Investigating officer Tfc. E. J. Upole of the state police made no charges, as there was nothing to indicate that the car was operating at excessive speed.

The Devine family had been renting one of the vacation cottages west of Route 219. Robert was transported to the hospital by members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Bloomington Man Jailed After Tavern Incidents August 4

A Bloomington resident has been lodged in the Allegany County jail in lieu of $2,000 bond following incidents at a tavern near Oakland August 4.

Elmer Roy Lee, Jr., was charged with battery by an Oakland woman after a fight in the parking lot at Joe's Place August 4. When deputies arrived to arrest Lee on the battery charge, he refused to accompany them to the sheriff's office, and had to be forcibly removed from the tavern. He was then charged with resisting arrest and was taken to jail to await trial.

Lee is also implicated in the breaking of a windshield in a Ford pickup belonging to Douglas Bircher, Elk Garden. Deputies found pieces of a broken glass on the hood of the vehicle, apparently the result of the fight with the woman earlier in the evening.

Cystic Fibrosis Foundation Names County Chairman

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation has appointed Doris Goldsborough as Garrett County Chairman of the 1979 Breath of Life Campaign.

Mrs. Goldsborough, a resident of Mt. Lake Park has participated in activities on behalf of children with lung-damaging diseases in Garrett County for the past several years and has received various Volunteer Service Awards. She also served as a Cub Scout Den Mother. Presently she is serving as Secretary of the Southern Garrett Athletic Association. She is married to William M. Goldsborough, State Highway Engineer, and the mother of three children.

The Breath of Life Campaign in Garrett County supports research to find a cure for cystic fibrosis, a leading genetic killer of American children, and specialized medcal care for children with all lung-damaging diseases in 121 cystic fibrosis centers in the United States. Local children affected by cystic fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis and recurrent pneumonia are treated at the cystic fibrosis center at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

"The campaign this year," Goldsborough said, "will be handled a little differently. Instead of door-to-door solicitation, various fund raisers will be held, mainly a Baby Smile-a-Thon sponsored by Crabtree Photography, and a dance at the National Guard Armory sponsored by Mettiki Coal Compnay, on September 15 featuring the group, "Survivor". Letters, however, will be mailed to businesses and organizations urging their financial support."

"We hope everyone in Garrett County will support us September," said Goldsborough, "either by supporting our fund raisers or sending their contributions to me, as Cystic Fibrosis Chairman for Garrett County, to P. O. Box 309, Oakland, Maryland with checks made payable to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation."

Victory Or Setback? . . .

Circuit Court Judge Fred Thayer's decision on Delegate DeCorsey Bolden's law suit against the county commissioners was hardly a matter of choice. There was in fact a technical violation of the law in the budget procedure by the commissioners. This particular law is worded quite clearly and there is no legal way of bending it even a little bit. Judge Thayer simply did his job by upholding that law.

Some are considering this decision a victory for all county taxpayers. Others see it as a real setback and crisis for the county. It seems that the latter may be a more accurate observation.

Since last year there has been a 13% average increase in inflation. Some specific items, such as asphalt, have increased in cost at an alarming rate, far beyond 13%. Yet, the county is now faced with operating on exactly the same number of dollars provided in last year's budget.

The $707,000 which now must be cut out of the budget is a misleading figure when taken only at face value. This cut represents the loss of many more dollars in matching funds from the state. For example, Garrett Community College receives approximately $1.30 from the state for each dollar from the county. So, if the county cuts $100,000 of the GCC budget, the college will actually lose approximately $230,000. The same situation exists with many other county agencies and departments.

Let's examine the cut from another angle. The combined salaries of Marshall Rickert, county administrator; Jack Turney, county attorney; Tim Dugan, planning director; Tom Jones, development director; and Gary Mullich, courthouse coordinator, amounts to only 12% of the budget cut. The combined salaries of all 11 county deputies equals only 15% of the proposed cut. The $707,000 cut represents the combined salaries of 70 school teachers, over one-fourth of the total of 260 teachers.

There is a certain amount of fat in every budget. This is true of the Board of Education budget, the largest budget of all county entities. However, the amount of fat in the education budget is probably in the neighborhood of no more than $100,000. Nearly 80% of the education budget is for employee salaries. Much-deserved salary increases for teachers, still the lowest paid in the state, have already been negotiated and agreed upon.

The big question still remains — Where can the county budget be cut? Ernie Gregg is the only one of the three commissioners who has called this budget cut a victory. The time is now for him, perhaps with some coaching from Delegate Bolden, to make specific recommendations as to where the budget can be pared down.

It appears to us that a lot of the lean is going to have to be removed with some fat.

Our letters to the editor column may thrive within the next year with people inquiring as to why their road is full of potholes, or why their road is not being plowed regularly, or why police protection is not what it should be, or why the quality of our education system seems to be going down hill, or why the community college is struggling to survive, or why . . .

Letters to the Editor

Gentlemen:

I have just read your front-page article regarding the rape of an elderly Grantsville woman last week.

It is fascinating to note that, although the name of the victim was withheld, along with names of relatives of the alleged rapist, you blatantly printed the "fact" that the man "had been in the Blue Moon Saloon since 5 p.m. . . . leaving . . . at the 2 a.m. closing time."

In fact, the man was in and out of the Blue Moon Saloon between the hours mentioned, although you did not seem to find it necessary to relate either this information or his whereabouts at those times to your readers. Naming the Saloon was evidently sufficient sensationalism.

I wonder exactly why you have chosen to single out the name of our establishment for publication in this negative context and why you obviously mean to disparage us in the community by naming us and, in some indisious way, perhaps, holding us liable.

Why not print the names of the family who reared such an individual if you wish to slander someone or cast aspersions? Why us?

My anger at this action is intensified by the fact that, until now I have been both a reader of and advertiser in your newspaper, although of course, in the circumstances, both of those relationships are most definitely past tense.

Very truly yours,
Judith Miller, President
National Hotel/
Blue Moon Saloon

Dear Ms. Miller,

If you look at the story one more time you will find that the words "Maryland State Police reported that" precede the portion of the sentence cited in your letter ("had been in the Blue Moon Saloon . . . "). We obtained our information directly from the authorities and simply reported it, as objectively as possible.

It is interesting that you claim we used sensationalism, when in fact, we purposely declined to use some rather unpleasant details in order to avoid sensationalism.

We did not "obviously mean to disparage" you, we do not hold you "liable" for anything, we have not slandered you, and we have not "cast aspersions." What we did do was report the news, as accurately as we could, based on the information supplied by the Maryland State Police and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

We are indeed sorry to lose you as a reader and advertiser.

Editor

Dear Mr. Sincell:

An organization dealing in the human services and struggling to expand usually generates support to a degree. But the efforts of the employees of King's Department Store and Ott's Music House and Christian's Center exceeds all the expectations and hopes of our efforts at Long Stretch Youth Homes.

Long Stretch is struggling to expand its services to meet the increasing demand for a facility that helps young men. Many of our students come from homes here in Western Maryland. The demand generated by referrals from private individuals, courts, government agencies and boards of education has repeatedly exceeded capacity by over 50%.

To meet this demand Long Stretch is moving towards an important expansion project. No banks have been willing to loan to such a "risky venture" as child care. In the past this facility has repeatedly turned to the community and its resources to build a program that has proven to be an asset to this area.

Long Stretch is presently attempting to expand its services from 36 boys to 70. The employees of King's Department Store have donated items by the truck load to help meet our many needs. The efforts of Andrew Mandura and Fred Shetter have been outstanding. Mr. George Ott of Ott's Music House and Christian Center had repeatedly donated items of need to our facility. People are willing to sacrifice if the cause is worthy of the effort. But the people which help us to help others without reaping the day to day benefits of seeing the children are to us the people that make character of Western Maryland what it is — durable and dependable. Long Stretch can rely on people like those at King's and Ott's. The future of our young depends so much on just such kindness.

Sincerely,
Allen Poland,
Development Director

Editor:

Judge Thayer's ruling, that the county Budget as adopted by Commissioners Paugh and Hunter is not valid, is gratifying indeed. It is a victory for the tax payers, and a rebuke for the spenders.

Those persons who have been sniping at Commissioner Gregg because he refused to sign the budget with its big increases will now find that their so called tight budget can be cut, and must be cut. Judge Thayer's decision will help restore public confidence in our Courts and in our County Government.

But even after the mandated reductions amounting to upwards of $800,000., there will still be plenty of fat remaining in the budget.

Now, if Commissioners Paugh and Hunter will turn around and help Gregg, our County can still enjoy over three years of constructive government. Big government spending never did anything but waste the people's resources and rob them of their freedom. It encourages incompentency, graft, favoritism, and kills private incentives.

We at least can hope now, that our elected officials will get down to the vital business of running a small county government. First, they need to dispense with the services of Marshall Rickert, Jack Turney, Tim Dugan, Tom Jones, and several others. They need to stop the crazy practice of financing foolish feasibility studies to find out if a coal washing plant is needed at Hutton, and they need to stop wasting tax money to buy lands for so called industrial parks. Also they need to stop employing so called Grantsmen to solicit loans and gifts from the federal government for unneeded and unwanted projects that will later have to be taken over and supported by our tax monies. It is this type of activity that has doubled our taxes. If it is permitted to continue our taxes will be doubled again within the next three of four years.

Clifford Friend,
Accident, Md.

To Garrett County Drivers:

If you are honking your horn to warn the jogger you are driving by, you needn't bother! We heard you coming before you were ever in sight. Because of these valleys and hills, sound really carries.

All you succeed in doing when you honk your horn is devastating and alarming the jogger out of a peaceful and tranquil state of mind. It always scares the hell out of me!

Some of us like to jog at night. Let me ask you this — if you are driving at night and you come upon opposing traffic, do you put your bright lights on or do you dim them? That is an easy enough question. Now, why is it that when a motorist sees a jogger coming down the road the first thing they do is put their bright lights on? We can't jog any better than we can drive with bright lights blinding us. It's a very dangerous thing to do to a jogger.

I just wanted to make motorists aware of who joggers are and why we are jogging.

We are mothers, fathers, pregnant women, teachers, carpenters, doctors and most of all, we are human beings made up of flesh and blood and sensitive feelings like your own.

We jog because we want to be physically and mentally healthy people. We jog because it makes us feel good about ourselves. We are not polluting the air; the only energy we expel is our own. We are not harming anybody by running down the road.

Please, think about the joggers' safety the next time you drive by one and be aware of the possible consequences when you go to "lay on your horn!"

Continuing to jog,
Fran Otero

Hospital Project

developing the proposed construction program, no penalties for non-conformance have been incurred to date. However should the construction program be postponed, the hospital would inevitably be assessed substantial penalties for non-compliance and a loss of accreditation, according to the Board.

Based upon conformance with the mandated minimum requirements, approximately 74,400 gross square feet are required for a 76-bed facility. The support departments at Garrett Memorial (labs, radiology, emergency, etc.) were designed to accommodate a 35-bed hospital. The hospital now has 76 beds, but is being supported by the same support departments, the Board said.

The new construction will also allow for the future addition of beds, if necessary, at a minimum cost and in a short period of time.

Studies have also shown that the present hospital departments of emergency, radiology, labor and delivery, and surgery are undersized. A majority of the inpatient bed areas violate six specific minimum standards. The mechanical, electrical and environmental systems of the hospital are inefficient, generally inadequate and below minimum standards in seven major areas. There are poor circulation patterns and insufficient traffic segregation. Over 30 specific inefficiencies exist in the labor and delivery and in surgery departments. Eighteen specific areas of inadequacy were cited in the existing nursing units. All of these inadequacies are related directly to physical problems with the present building, and not to staff, the Board said.

Daniel Babish, staff planner for the State of Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, toured the hospital in February of this year along with some other state officials. Mr. Babish stated yesterday, "There was absolutely no question that the need for this project was real. We felt that the original proposal needed more planning and was too costly. However, the second proposal was much improved and showed that the Board of Governors at Garrett Memorial had addressed the concerns."

Robert Lentz, Director of Health Care Planning and Analysis for Blue Cross of Maryland, stated that the Board of Governors of Garrett Memorial "should be complimented on their extra efforts to improve the project by creating better financing arrangements, by scaling down the project and by working out a more specific arrangement with the Health Department. The project is in the best interest of the people of Garrett County."

Joyce Bishoff, a member of the Board, stated that the project has created a "progressive attitude" among hospital personnel. "The project has caused enthusiasm among not only prospective doctors, but also among other medical specialists, such as dieticians, x-ray technicians, nurses, etc., who have indicated a desire to come to Garrett County," Ms. Bishoff said.

On that same note, Charlotte Bock, Director of Nursing, stated that one reason so many nurses are excited about coming to work in Garrett County is because of the building project. She said, "We are growing, and this fact is challenging and exciting, especially for young nurses seeking a place to pursue their career."

Tom Earley, Assistant Administrator for Garrett Memorial, stated that prospective industry also favors a progressive hospital. "They want the best possible care at a competitive cost," he stated.

Jacquelyn Shirer, also a Board member, stated, "Everyone, even the opponents of this particular project, realized we have a great need for some kind of building and renovation program. We have addressed the concerns of the state about financing and it is a viable project."

The Board also feels that the end result of the project being rejected the first time was good for everyone concerned. "It made us re-evaluate the project and secure more federal funding. We were able to submit more complete volume figures and we have had more time to make sure that we were making the correct move. We feel more secure than ever about the project," one Board member stated.

The remaining hurdles to be overcome before breaking ground include the acquisition of a Letter of Comfort from the State Cost Review Commission, which will allow the hospital to charge the rates necessary to pay for the project. Architects are tentatively scheduled to begin designing the building within the next two months, receiving input from every department of the hospital. Financial arrangements, which will probably include floating a bond issue, must be worked out, the Board said. The hospital will call for bids the early part of 1980 and ground breaking should occur in April or May.

Construction time for the project will be approximately two years, making a total of seven years' work on the project.

$2.37 Tax Rate

Their letter also indicated that "time is of the essence," since the county is already one month into the budget year and within three weeks schools will be opening.

Later Tuesday, the two commissioners who voted for the tax increase lashed out at Ernie Gregg in a six-page joint statement, saying, "Events of the past several months including the recent law suit have left us no choice and we can no longer remain silent. This statement is in response to the recent law suit, why it happened and its ultimate effects on our county."

They reported the fact that Commissioner Gregg had more than a dozen opportunities during the three-month process of budget preparation to exercise his leadership by offering input into the budget. "He chose not to do so. In fact, rather than cutting items out of the budget, he restored nearly $100,000 of what can only be termed pet projects."

Saying that they honestly believe that citizens had had ample opportunity to participate in the budgetary process and that they complied with the law, they reported that Commissioner Gregg denied the Board his knowledge of any violation of the public notification procedure.

They allege that Gregg's inaction caused the Commissioners to violate the law, "giving himself and Delegate Bolden the opportunity to overturn three months of painstaking budget preparation."

The statement also said that although Gregg has been asked time and again for his plan to save the county the $707,000 removed from the budget, he has been unable to list more than one "savings," and is unable to give a monetary figure for his plan to "streamline" the government.

In fact, the commissioners said, Commissioner Gregg's streamlining "would seem to consist only of firing key members of the present staff and replacing them with his own."

Their statement declared, "According to the Baltimore Sun, Commissioner Gregg's choice is Bob Watson, a longtime friend, political advisor, former Howard County attorney now practicing in Garrett County and unsuccessful political candidate for Howard County Executive."

The Commissioners also pointed an accusing finger at Delegate Bolden, saying that a simple peek at the budget would have made him aware that cuts cannot be easily or painlessly accomplished.

Saying that there are some very difficult decisions ahead, the two Commissioners declared that "The tactics displayed by Delegate Bolden and Commissioner Gregg are simply the tactics of irresponsible, obstructionist politicians. Their actions were politically opportunistic, but financially irresponsible."

They concluded by offering a challenge to these two, now that they have won the law suit: tell the citizens where you will find $707,000 or where you will cut $707,000 from the existing budget. "But give us your remedies in dollars and cents, not in the vague generalities of 'streamlining.'"

Youghiogheny Plan

Gregg, who serves in the county commissioner's seat on the planning commission, requested comments from commission members concerning an appeal to the county commissioners to change a lake zoning ordinance treating mobile homes as a special exception rather than placing no restrictions on their use. Bruce Sweitzer, Deep Creek Lake, approached the commissioners asking for permission to sell his subdivision plots for unrestricted residential use. If this were allowed, those who bought the two-third acre lots would be able to install mobile homes alongside conventional residences.

Tim Dugan explained that Sweitzer had three options: 1) he could file to the appeals board as a landowner or property developer of the land; 2) he could file a petition to the county commissioners requesting them to amend the terms of the zoning ordinance; or 3) he could file a petition to the county commissioners requesting them to amend the classification of property. The commission members concurred to uphold their original intention of treating mobile homes as special exceptions in the lake zoning ordinance and recommended to Commissioner Gregg to instruct Sweitzer of his three options.

Before adjourning the meeting, the commission members continued their work to update the county plan and set the next meeting for Wednesday, September 5 at 2:00 p.m. in the Commission's meeting room, 323 East Oak Street in Oakland.

Six Local Students Attend State Program For Gifted And Talented

by Jim Willis

Six local students recently participated in the Maryland Centers for the Gifted and Talented sponsored by the Maryland State Department of Education.

Approximately 2,300 students were involved in the specialized program statewide. The program is state subsidized with $421,000 earmarked for the program this year which is conducted in 11 centers.

Locally, those selected for the program included Camille Wolfe, Southern Middle School; Kristi Bowling, Southern Middle School; William Beard, Southern Middle School; Derrick Latin, Southern Middle School; Jeffrey Cooley, Northern Middle School; Dana S. Bittinger, Southern High School, and David Corbell, Southern Middle School was chosen as an alternate.

In this second year of state funding the program is literally deluged with applicants, hence a stringent screening and selection system. Students are required to complete an application with sections to be filled in by parents and teacher.

Upon being chosen for the program the students may usually choose between several two-week summer sessions. Parents will then be asked to provide tuition up to $125 to offset the cost of room and board.

The 11 centers are: Maryland Center for the Arts/Junior-Senior High, Goucher College, Towson; Maryland Center for the Arts/Middle School, Fairview Outdoor Center, Clear Springs; Center for Intellectually Gifted/Senior High, Maryland School for the Deaf, Frederick; Center for Intellectually Gifted/Junior High, St. Mary's College, St. Mary's City; Center for Environmental Studies and Studio Arts/Senior High, Frostburg State College, Frostburg; Center for Marine Science Studies/Junior-Senior High; Internship Program/Senior High, housed at Maryland School for the Deaf; Internship Program/Senior High, Johns Hopkins University; Center for Environmental Technology/Senior High; Center for Studies in Science/Junior High-Middle School, Maryland Academy of Science, Baltimore; Center for Port-related Careers, Senior High, Community College of Baltimore Harbor Campus, Baltimore.

Four local students, Jeffrey Cooley, Dana S. Bittinger, Derrick Latin, and alternate David Corbell, were chosen for the Maryland Center for the Arts/Junior-Senior High, Goucher College. The program provides intensive professional instruction in the visual arts, photography, drama, modern dance, creative writing, chorus, madrigal ensemble, chamber music, jazz ensemble, concert band and orchestra. Students have the opportunity to develop an awareness and appreciation for the interrelationships of the various arts through field trips, elective offerings, and recreational activities.

Camille Wolfe was chosen for the Center for Marine Science Studies/Junior-Senior High, conducted at the Chesapeake Bay Foundation. This center focuses on a study of the Chesapeake Estuarine Ecosystem. The field experience includes activities on workboats and sailboats out of Meredity Creek, the exploration of the Patuxent River by canoe, and a stay at the Chesapeake Bay Foundation lodge on Fox Island. The students have the opportunity to study the realtionship of the small streams, large brackish rivers, and tidal creeks to the islands, the plants and the animal life of the Chesapeake Bay Systems.

Two students, Kristi Bowling and William Beard participated in the Center for Intellectually Gifted/Junior High held at St. Mary's College. The College Center provides a program for intellectually gifted students entering grades 7, 8, and 9. Students participate in a variety of learning experiences designed to develop high level thought processes. Students select two of four content areas in which they wish to concentrate, spending one week in each area. The areas include Artistic and Creative Expression, Problem Solving, Historical and Cultural Explorations, and Environmental Studies. In addition, the program includes guest speakers, seminars, mini-course, field trips, and recreation periods.

Robert F. Rodeheaver, Supervisor of High School, Garrett County Board of Education, explains that students are required to send tape recordings, samples of their creative writing, or even audition, depending on which center they are making application to.

Eligibility is determined on the basis of: students who have demonstrated high performance ability in the areas of indicated interest; students who meet the criteria for specific centers as indicated in the program description; and students who are residents of Maryland and who are enrolled in appropriate grades.

The program has its roots in Garrett County, for the concept was used by the Montgomery County school system which conducted a Fine Arts Camp for its students annually at Deep Creek Lake.

The state supported the venture and first became involved in 1970. In 1976 the Maryland State Department of Education opened its own program with three centers and 879 participants.

Persons interested in the Maryland Centers for the Gifted and Talented should contact their school principal regarding application procedures and application forms.

Blue Barn Review

by Bart Naylor

"I'll Get My Man," opening tonight, is the fifth play of the already successful 25th season of the Blue Barn Playhouse. A British farce, this comedy of manners results when a country vicar advertises for a wife in the newspaper, at the same time his nephew, a much sought-after television rock star, decides to take refuge from his obsequious fans in the vicar's once secluded residence.

Accident and innocent impropriety result in an avalanche of publicity for the duo. The vicar delights meekly in the attention he gets, and the nephew is equally satisfied that someone else must face the labors of stardom.

Surrounding these two relatively collected characters, is a hurricane of unbalanced personalities. The sister is frazzled at the stack of letters from candidate wives; the housekeeper is love struck to have her TV lover with her in the flesh; the nosey neighbor has more than she can digest in gossip material.

The production, under the direction of Cather MacCallum, is mannered; the personalities are exaggerated, and the entrances, as well as the blocking, appear choreographed. In the cast, MacCallum has used 15-year veteran Milburn Mehlhop as the timid vicar; though his character is unassuming, his performance is exceptional. As the nephew, the cosmopolitan complement of the vicar, is Gerry McLaughlin. Adept with a nasal Liverpool accent, he delights in reading his uncle's obscene mail, and gayly cavorts with the housekeeper.

Joan Stakus plays the domineering maid, marching through the living room like a drill sergeant, though wilting like a mimosa in the rock star's presence. Local talent, Lisa Thayer, is perfect as the nosey neighbor, perfunctorially indignant at the delicious scandals she tries to uncover. Betty Snyder is equally effective as the fawning applicant spouse.

The Blue Barn company does best with farces, and their production of "I'll Get My Man" is no exception.

Oakland Council Rejects Proposals For Snow Removal, Sanitary Survey

The Oakland Mayor and Town Council rejected proposals from two county organizations Monday night during their regular monthly meeting held in the town hall.

The town voted to reject an offer from the county commissioners to take over the responsibility of plowing snow on the section of Fourth Street behind the courthouse, and Alder Street between Third and Fourth Streets. The offer was part of a chain of correspondence between the two governments concerning an "obstruction" extending from the courthouse into Fourth Street meant to aid handicapped persons. The town also moved to send a letter to the commissioners to have the island removed within a week.

The second rejection was of a request from the Garrett County Sanitary Commission asking to employ an independent arbitrator to compare plans of the commission for the performance of a sewer system evaluation survey with the group selected by the town, Franklin Associates, and to make an unbiased decision.

Because no arbitrator was available for the comparison, the Town Council decided to proceed independently of the Sanitary Commission and to send a letter to Ed Perry, of the State Health Department, informing him of this intention, of the town's willingness to cooperate with the state, and of their desire to prevent further delays in progress towards installing a sewer treatment facility.

Council members also received two resignations during the Monday meeting. One came from town policeman Ron Beeghly and the other from town clerk Mark Hampton. The council members agreed to take immediate action toward filling the clerk position which would be vacant as of August 17. They defined the person to fill the position as one from Garrett County trained in bookkeeping and secretarial skills. Action on the vacancy in the police department was tabled until a later meeting.

James "Smokey" Stanton, council president, read the letter and accompanying cover letter sent to Mark Friedman of the Department of Economic Development detailing Oakland's interest in the downtown revitalization project offered by his department. The letter was sent by the Downtown Development Commission and the cover letter by the town council.

Also during the meeting, the council was informed that the town's income tax share totaled $2424.27.

A letter was read which was written to the town street department commending it for the resurfacing of Memorial Drive and the Winter's Hill road.

The announcement was made that the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions' Club would reset the poles of the pavilion at Broad Ford Recreation Area in cement. The structure had shown signs of leaning.

Other business discussion included:

—The announcement of four CETA terminations beginning September 30, 1979.

—The report of the replacement of a water pump in the town water system to eliminate the problems with impure water.

—Discussion of the extension of the town garage to house machinery during inclement weather. The project would be completely funded with existent funds in the town treasury.

—The request of the Community Action Committee for free parking at the Oak Street School. The council granted one free parking space for loading and unloading school children.

—The report of the continuation of negotiations for renovation of town water tanks.

Rebecca L. Fike To Be Missionary In Puerto Rico

On August 16, Rebecca Lynn Fike of Crellin will be leaving for Puerto Rico, but not for a vacation. This second daughter of Darwin and Ruth Fike is leaving home to be a missionary on the Caribbean island.

Becky graduated from the Washington Bible College in May 1979, with a B.A. degree in Bible Education and an emphasis in music.

In Puerto Rico she will be teaching at an English speaking missions school on the elementary level. Her students will include children of missionaries, U.S. military personnel, and some nationals. She is also signed up to direct the choir in a local church there, and work with the young people.

Becky's home church, the Deep Creek Baptist Church, where she has been employed for the summer working with the youth and the music programs is sending her.

Friday evening, August 3, the church held a surprise shower for Becky. According to pastor David C. Long, "It was a complete surprise to her. We had publicly announced that a Christian film would be shown, and then handed out letters to all the members telling the real nature of the program. Becky came expecting a film, and in fact she viewed one, only it was a slide presentation about her entitled, "This is Your Life," put together by her sister Debbie. We also invited some of her close friends to make surprise appearances. It was wholly a success."

Social Attracts Largest Crowd In Three Years

The third annual Ice Cream Social sponsored by the Deer Park Civic Association August 4 drew the largest crowd ever, according to Association president Sharon King.

Entertainment was furnished by the Stoner Family, from near Gorman, and magician Ben Sincell. Winner of the 50-50 drawing was James Knotts, Oakland.

Grantsville Driver Hits Parked Car

A two-vehicle accident was investigated by Maryland State Police along Route 40 Saturday about 10:25 a.m.

According to the reports, a vehicle owned by Christian Miller, Grantsville, was parked along the north shoulder of Route 40. Lewis William Boone, also of Grantsville, apparently failed to see the vehicle and pulled off to park, striking the Miller car.

No one was injured, and both vehicles were removed by owners. No charges were made by Tfc. C. D. Skidmore, who investigated.

To Stand Trial In Circuit Court

A Mt. Lake Park couple will stand trial in the Garrett County Circuit Court for charges of unlawful possession and manufacture of a controlled dangerous substance.

Judge Lewis R. Jones of the Garrett County District Court presided over preliminary hearings for David P. Shaffer and Crystal A. Shaffer, Tuesday, August 7. The charges were three counts each of controlled dangerous substance-unlawful possession and one each of controlled dangerous substance-unlawful manufacture, filed by Deputy Steve A. Beeman, Garrett County Sheriff's Department. The cases will be transferred to the Circuit Court before dates are set for the trial.

Judge Jones Finds Probable Cause In Forgery Cases

In preliminary hearings of a Deer Park man and woman, held in the Garrett County District Court Monday, Judge Lewis R. Jones found probable cause to believe the defendants had committed offenses as charged.

Georgia Luverna Weimer faced 26 charges of forgery-private document and three of utter-private document. Oliver E. Weimer faced three charges for utter-private document. Both cases will be transferred to the Garrett County Circuit Court for trial.

In other court cases Monday, Regina M. Kaseluris appeared before the court for charges filed by four separate complainants. For the charge of malicious destruction-property of another filed by Ivan O. Humberson, Friendsville, Kaseluris was not prosecuted because she had made restitution. Kathleen D. Fauber, Friendsville, brought three charges against Kaseluris who was found guilty of all. For the charge of disturbing the peace Kaseluris was fined $25, for battery, a $100 fine, and for malicious destruction-property of another, a suspended $100 fine.

Kaseluris was also found guilty for the charge of malicious destruction-property of another, filed by Deputy Steve A. Beeman of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, and was fined $115. She was given a suspended $40 fine for the charge of trespass-wanton filed by Albert M. Fauber, Friendsville.

Betty L. Corby and Craig A. Corby, Oakland, both faced separate charges, filed by Cpl. Larry E. Gnegy of the Oakland Police Department, for controlled dangerous substance-unlawful manufacture and controlled dangerous substance-unlawful possession. The charge was nolle prossed for each because the quantity possessed was insufficient to warrant proceeding on the charge. For the second charge Betty Corby received the decision of probation before judgment, the fine of $15 and an 18-month supervised probation period. Craig Corby received a verdict of guilty, a $15 fine, a 30-day suspended jail sentence, and an 18-month supervised probation period.

Mark Watkins, Grantsville, was placed on probation before judgment for the charge of battery filed by Reginald A. Messenger, Oakland.

Kisselovich Gets Reduced Sentence

Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer reduced the sentence of a former Oakland resident following appeals from District Court last Wednesday.

Judge Thayer reduced the sentence for Joe Kisselovich, charged with two counts of assault, malicious destruction of property, battery, wanton trespassing and assault.

Kisselovich was sentenced by Judge Thayer to 60 days for assault, six months for destruction, three years for battery, and one year for trespassing and assault. The sentences are to run concurrently and to run consecutively with a sentence he is now serving in Washington county for breaking and entering.

The charges were placed against Kisselovich following incidents at Das Gasthaus June 17, 1978. Dann Fox, McKeesport, charged that he was assaulted with a motor vehicle and a handgun; William Welch, former owner, charged him with causing property damage; Paul Douglas Thayer charged him with battery, and Stuart F. Hamill III, manager, charged him with trespassing and assault.

Mechanical And Human Counters Tabulate Traffic

Human and mechanical traffic counters were stationed at points in the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park-Deer Park areas last Tuesday as a part of a survey for the Garrett County Economic Planning Study.

The results will be tabulated by computer, and should be available in approximately a month. Results will be made public at an informational meeting in the near future.

The economic planning study is an outgrowth of the concept of the proposed Meadow Mountain scenic highway. The concept has now been broadened to study Garrett County's entire transportation system in order to coordinate with economic development opportunities and activities.

Last week's study was to help determine improvements needed for the traffic flow to the towns mentioned above. Counters were on Route 219 north of Oakland, Oak and Eighth Streets, Route 135 at the tennis courts, Route 219 south at the railroad overpass, and Route 39 near the Tableland milk station.

Thieves Bake, Eat Two Pizzas During B&E

Various larcenies and incidents of property destruction are under investigation by members of the Garrett County Sheriff's department.

Louis B. Guerra, Pittsburgh, reported August 1 that someone had entered his cottage on Beckman's Peninsula by prying open a bathroom window. The unknown subjects baked and ate two pizzas, drank two cases of beer and a fifth of liquor. Total loss was estimated at $25.

Clifford M. Frantz, Friendsville, reported that during the night of July 31, someone removed five gallons of gasoline from his vehicle. That same night, someone removed between five and seven gallons of gasoline from a vehicle owned by Chalmers Detrick, also of Friendsville.

Two bicycles disappeared recently. First to report a stolen bike was Daniel Holler, Underwood Road. His red 10-speed Schwinn was removed from his open garage between August 1 and 3. Value was set at $150.

Dwane Lewis, Mt. Lake Park, reported that between August 3 and 4, someone removed a red All-Pro 10-speed bicycle from his front yard. Loss was estimated at $140.

Two purses disappeared from a local tavern in recent days. Debra Diane Beckman, Deer Park, reported that her purse and contents valued at $35 were removed from her Scout while it was in the parking lot at Joe's Place near Oakland August 3.

Donna Jenkins, Swanton, told police her purse disappeared from the bar at Joe's Place July 28. Total loss was estimated at $70.

A Grantsville man reported August 4 that someone had removed his mailbox from in front of his residence on Foster Inn Road. The mailbox was later located in a wooded area across from his home.

Michael Bucklew, Mt. Lake Park, reported two incidents involving destruction of his property. He first told police that someone had bent the lid and flag on his mailbox, causing a loss value of $10. He then told police that sometime during January, a hole the size of a BB pellet appeared in a large plate glass window of his home. Damage estimated here was $285.

Solar Grain Drying Loans Available

To help farmers conserve energy, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will finance solar grain drying systems. Funds for the energy-saving systems are available under the farm facility loan program, according to Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland ASC Committee.

Although solar energy is a relatively new technology as applied to agriculture, farmers are being encouraged to develop and use solar systems because of steadily rising fossil fuel costs.

Crowl said: "ASCS will finance commercially constructed or homemade solar systems. Producers eligible for farm facility loans under current procedures will be eligible for financing solar grain drying systems."

Grain drying using conventional fuels — liquid petroleum gas and natural gas — is a high energy operation. Solar grain drying is an alternate technology that uses less energy but still preserves the crop for the feed use intended, the ASCS official said.

Loans for solar systems were first made available last fall in 10 States and 27 Counties as part of a pilot project. Shortages of various farm fuels and higher costs prompted the agency to open the program nationwide.

For more program details or additional information, contact the local ASCS office.

Oakland Trounced 17-0 But Rallies To Defeat Tri-Towns 2-1

by Terry Helbig

The Oakland Pen-Mar Baseball Team hosted first place Tri-Towns Sunday at Garrett Community College as both teams battled to a split win.

In the first game, Tri-Towns trounced Oakland, 17-0. Oakland pitcher, Mark McCarty was hit in the leg with a line drive hit by Greg Welker in the first inning. He stayed in the game but was forced to leave after the third inning.

Tri-Towns scored four runs in the third on singles by Greg Welker and Rick O'Reilly which were then accompanied by two Oakland errors. Later in the fifth, Tri-Towns picked up seven runs on a triple by Welker, and singles by Rick O'Reilly, Rick Wilkinson, and J. McDonnell.

Six more runs followed in the sixth as Rick Wilkinson, Arnie Coleman, Mark O'Reilly, J. McDonnell, Rusty Metcalfe, and Rick O'Reilly all singled.

Mark Malec went the distance for Tri-Towns allowing only one hit, two walks, and fanning four. This is the second time Malec has shut out Oakland this year.

During the second game, Oakland won 2-1 with John Chaney going the distance on the mound, allowing only three hits, striking out six and walking three. Chaney is now 4-3.

Oakland scored in the bottom of the second inning when Randy Cirillo reached on a fielder's choice, Craig Bosley walked, and Lawrence Nesselrodt cracked a run scoring single.

Tri-Towns scored in the fifth, thanks to Mark O'Reilly who walked and went on to score on a wild pitch.

In the bottom of the seventh, Lawrence Nesselrodt doubled and was sacrificed to third by Dave Barr. Then Pete Brosnihan and Dave Bender were intentionally walked. Ed

Temperature Of Buildings Now Under Control

The federal emergency building temperature regulations, effective July 16, place temporary restrictions on temperatures for heating, cooling and domestic hot water in commercial, industrial, government and other non-residential buildings. Information regarding compliance with this regulation should be available at all United States post offices in the very near future. The information booklet entitled "How to Comply with the Emergency Building Temperature Restrictions" has already been mailed to many building owners and managers. In addition to instructions, this booklet also contains a compliance certificate which must be posted in a conspicuous location.

This federal regulation supersedes Governor Hughes' executive order mandating 80 degrees summer thermostat settings in government buildings. Under the federal law thermostats must be no lower than 78° during the cooling season and no higher than 65° during the heating season and water temperatures may be no higher than 105°F. Exceptions may be made for elementary schools, patient care areas of health care institutions, and doctors' and dentists' offices. Application for exemption must be made in writing setting forth the relevant facts and identifying the building or area in question.

A decision regarding implementation and inspection procedures will be made soon.

Beverly Byron Cites Illegal Alien Problem

Rep. Beverly Byron has joined with Rep. Clair Burgener (R-Calif) in introducing legislation to stem the tide of illegal aliens entering the United States.

"Congress must come to grips with the negative impact of illegal immigration on American unemployment," Rep. Byron said in co-sponsoring the measure. "Especially since we are entering a recession where many more Americans will be out of work."

"It is estimated that two million persons enter our country illegally every year and many secure jobs that could be going to unemployed Americans," she said.

The legislation would substantially boost the strength of the border patrol and create employer sanctions against hiring illegals, to include a mandatory mechanism for employers to verify a job applicant's citizenship status through the Social Security System. It would, however, allow the temporary entry of foreign workers if the Secretary of Labor certifies that sufficient domestic workers are not available in a given area to accept or perform necessary work.

"Not enforcing our immigration laws has bred contempt for the law, and we must either credibly enforce the present law — which we are not — or revise it to make it more enforceable," Byron said.

"The problem will not go away with continued inaction and the longer we wait, the worse it will become," she concluded.

GCC Initiates Veteran Outreach

In conjunction with the Veterans Administration Outreach Program, Garrett Community College is offering a free advisory service to all eligible veterans. This service is provided by student veterans currently enrolled at G.C.C. under various veterans' programs, who are cognizant of the many educational benefits offered to qualified veterans, and within existing VA regulations.

The college urges veterans to take advantage of this service. If any organization desires, appointments can be made for a representative to be available at any times and locations convenient for the organization by writing: Director of Admissions, Garrett Community College, McHenry, Maryland; or calling (301) 387-6666, extension 21.

Homemakers Plan Pittsburgh Trip

The Garrett County Homemakers are planning a trip to Pittsburgh for a ride on the Gateway Clipper Ship on September 20. The bus will leave Funland at McHenry at 9:30 a.m. and will return at approximately 8:30 p.m. The cost for the trip is $13.20 per person. All interested persons are invited.

Reservations and a $3.00 deposit are due at the Extension Office by August 13. Nita Northcraft, county tour chairman, is making arrangements for the trip.

Garrett Signs Two All-Stars

Dick Legge

Brian Turley

by Jim Willis

Garrett Community College Coach Phil Caruso announced this week the signings of two out-of-county recruits to the Laker baseball program. Dick Legge and blue chipper Brian Turley will round out a roster that already includes six local recruits.

Dick Legge is a graduate of Bruce High School, Westernport. He will come into the Laker program as a utility infielder, having played four years of Little League, two years of Pony League, four years of varsity baseball, and one year of American Legion ball. He has been an All-Star for two years in Pony, four years in Little League, and was named the Most Outstanding Player during his senior year at Bruce.

Dick finished his senior year with a .362 baseball average, — the second highest at Bruce. He currently hit a .320 for the Westernport Post 155 Legion team.

Coach Caruso stated, "Dick is a very versatile player who is going to give the Lakers the one player every program needs, — the player who can fill in anywhere. He will see lots of action in our program and is a candidate for the second base position.

Dick will be majoring in Coal Mining Technology. He is the son of Charles and Bonnie Legge, Westernport.

Brian Turley is Garrett's first blue chip player, hailing from Walter Johnson High School, Montgomery County.

Coach Caruso said of Turley, "At this point in our recruiting, Brian has the most outstanding credentials of any player we have recruited. He is coming to the Laker program as a catcher/first baseman/outfielder, and will also be doing some pitching."

During his three years at Walter Johnson, he was named the team's MVP as a sophomore, junior, and senior. He collected a total of 14 home runs in high school, and hit .340, .396, and .500 respectively. In addition, he was named to the All-Suburban Maryland team, which includes Montgomery, Howard, and Prince George's counties.

Brian has also played three years of American Legion baseball and played for 11 years in the prestigious Montgomery County Baseball Association where he has been an All-Star and MVP for the last five years. He currently plays seven days a week between the Montgomery League and Legion ball. He has been hitting .542 and .490, respectively.

Brian's Legion team will play in the Maryland State play-offs representing the District from Montgomery and Prince George's counties.

Brian was recruited by the University of Maryland, Catholic University, American University, George Washington University of Delaware, Duke, Clemson, and Frostburg State. He is considered a pro prospect, and according to Frostburg State baseball coach, Bob Wells, Brian may be considered one of the top ten players coming out of high school in the state of Maryland.

Coach Caruso commented, "to say we are very fortunate to have a player of Brian's caliber, is an understatement. He is a very competitive player who is a natural team leader. He has a burning desire to play pro ball and works at it every day."

"The signing of Turley," Caruso continued, "gives our program a tremendous boost, and we are now only three players away from being an authentic Maryland JUCO, Region 20, contender."

Brian will major in business at GCC. He is the son of Dena and Gary Turley, formerly of Frostburg.

Carpenter Takes Second Overall In Regional Meet

The Eastern Regional Barefoot Tournament at Youghiogheny Lake July 28 and 29 sent skier Dale Carpenter, Deep Creek Lake, home with a second place overall in the Men's Division.

On Saturday, Dale placed first in wake crossing, first in tricks and second in starts.

Sunday's main attraction was barefoot jumping. Dale finished fourth in this event, opened for the first time in the tournament, which cost him the over-all first place won by John Cornish, Addison, PA.

Appearing during the tournament was the British Barefoot Team, currently on tour in the United States.

The next local tournament to be sponsored by the Deep Creek Business Association will be held August 18 and 19 at McHenry. Saturday of that weekend will feature the Maryland State Slalom Championship and Sunday the Maryland State Barefoot Championships.

Oakland Rallies

Wildesen then popped out to the first baseman with a safety squeeze on — and the first baseman threw the ball into center field, trying to double up Brosnihan. This error allowed Nesselrodt to score the winning run.

Oakland remains in third place with a 9-9 record.

This Saturday, Oakland will play Cumberland in a make-up game, and on Sunday they will host Hyndman, PA. Both doubleheaders will be played at Garrett Community College beginning at 2 p.m.

Heating Oil Prices To Double

BALTIMORE (UPI) — There will be enough heating oil next winter for Maryland residents who can afford to pay twice as much as last year and if the weather is not colder than normal, energy officials, oil companies and home heating oil dealers said.

The officials met with Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., Tuesday to discuss the energy situation for the winter.

"If everything goes 'on schedule' (in terms of weather), there will be enough for adequate, careful home heating," Mathias said.

However, the representatives at the meeting, except the federal energy officials, said they are concerned that supplies may be inadequate if the winter is especially severe. They also said people relying on kerosene to heat then homes may have trouble getting the fuel.

Mathias also said people must realize that their home heating "budget is going to about double."

He has sponsored a bill to provide "fuel stamps" to give government aid to needy families to heat their homes.

Richard R. Kline, of the Phoenix Co., of Frederick, the major home heaing oil supplier in Western Maryland, said oil companies are now requiring dealers to pay for their supplies in 10 days instead of 30 days and are not begin given the traditional 1 percent discount for quicker payment.

Therefore, customers probably will have to pay their bills faster, he said.

The meeting sponsored by Mathias included representatives of the Maryland Energy Policy Office, the state Attorney General's Office, the U.S. Energy Department, trade associations representing major oil companies, home heating oil dealers, Shell Oil Co., and the Phoenix Co.

Democratic Race In Mississippi Led By Gandy

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Evelyn Gandy, a veteran of more than three decades in state government, outpolled five male opponents in her bid to become Mississippi's first woman governor, but faces an Aug. 28 runoff for the Democratic nomination.

Miss Gandy, 58, now serving as lieutenant governor, told a cheering crowd of supporters Tuesday night she was "so appreciative" of the impressive vote.

"My heart is overflowing with gratitude," she said.

Former Lt. Gov. William Winter, another veteran campaigner making his third race for the state's top office, was running a strong second as the slow vote counting continued into morning.

Although Winter appeared to have nailed down a spot in the runoff, lawyers Jim Herring of Canton and John Arthur Eaves of Jackson hoped votes from rural counties would put one of them into the second primary against Miss Gandy.

The winner of the Democratic runoff will face a stiff challenge in November from Republican nominee Gil Carmichael, who nosed out wealthy Clarksdale planter Leon Bramlett in the state's first GOP gubernatorial primary of modern times. Mississippi's last GOP chief executive was Adelbert Ames, a Reconstruction-era governor who occupied the office from 1868 to 1870.

Winning the Democratic nomination has been equivalent to election in Mississippi in past gubernatorial races. However, the GOP posted a major triumph last year by electing Thad Cochran to the U.S. Senate and is gearing for a major effort to capture the governorship this fall.

Carmichael, a silver-haired Meridian car dealer with a low-key, staccato-voiced delivery, almost upset present Gov. Cliff Finch in the 1975 gubernatorial race. Finch is prohibited by state law from seeking re-election.

"The two-party system in Mississippi is alive and very well," said Carmichael, 52, who stressed his experience as a successful businessman in the primary race.

With 989 of the state's 2,168 precincts — 45.6 percent — reporting in the Democratic primary, Gandy had 103,379 votes or 30.7 percent, Winter 88,690 votes or 26.3 percent, Herring 59,826 votes or 17.8 percent and Eaves 58,960 or 17.5 percent.

Two other candidates, State Rep. Charles Deaton and Jackson lawyer Richard Barrett, trailed with 18,401 and 6,778 respectively.

Turnout in the election was brisk, with an estimated 700,000 voters casting ballots in Mississippi's 82 counties.

Three Mile Island Worker Receives Dose Of Radiation

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Metropolitan Edison Co. spokesman David Klucsik said a worker, identified as John Fulton, who has been cleaning up waste from the March 28 nuclear accident at the Three Mile Island power plant, received 25 millirems of radiation to his left hand and forearm when the outside of his protective clothing came into contact with his body. He is an employee of the Catalytic Corp., of Philadelphia, which is doing the work.

Fulton was overcome with heat exhaustion while working on the decontamination of the Unit No. 2 auxiliary building. An ambulance driver, Melvin Hershey, who came into contact with Fulton, received 2 millirems of radiation on one hand. Metropolitan Edison Co. also disclosed the first batch of radioactive waste materials from the accident is making a 2,500-mile highway journey to a disposal site in Hanford, Wash.

Paraguay Responds To 17-Year-Old West German Extradition Request

ASUNCION, Paraguay (UPI) — The Paraguayan government, responding for the first time to a 17-year-old West German extradition request, has asked the Supreme Court to annul the citizenship of Nazi war criminal Dr. Josef Mengele.

Mengele, blamed for the slaughter of thousands of people at Auschwitz concentration camp, where he was known as the "Angel of Death," fled to South America at the end of World War II and became a citizen of Paraguay in 1959.

A West German court requested his extradition to stand trial for war crimes in 1962. There was no response from Paraguayan authorities until Tuesday.

It was unlikely the Paraguayan move meant Mengele would be quickly extradited. His exact whereabouts remain a mystery.

President Alfredo Stroessner, the son of a German immigrant, has ruled the central South American nation with dictatorial powers for 25 years and has been accused of harboring several Nazi war criminals in the country.

Eduard Roschmann, known as the "Butcher of Riga" and wanted for the murder of 40,000 Jews in Latvia, died in an Asuncion hospital in 1977. Roschmann was identified only after his death.

Mengele, a concentration camp doctor who is accused of sending thousands of people to their deaths at Auschwitz in Nazi-occupied Poland, came to Paraguay during the 1950s from neighboring Argentina.

He was employed as a representative of a West German firm selling farm machinery and also was alleged to have been supported by money from a family business and relatives in West Germany.

Paraguayan authorities deny Mengele has been in the country since 1960.

Attorney General Clotildo Jimenez Tuesday asked Paraguay's Supreme Court to annul Mengele's citizenship because he had forfeited the right to Paraguayan nationality by being absent from the country for more than two years.

"Mengele left Paraguay in 1960 so it has been impossible to fulfill the extradition request sent in 1962 by a court in the city of Freiberg, West Germany," Jimenez said.

Jimenez requested the Supreme Court inform the West German court, via the nation's Foreign Ministry, that Mengele's citizenship had been revoked.

Mexico Celebrates 100th Birthday Of General Zapata

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexico today celebrates the 100th birthday of Emiliano Zapata, its legendary revolutionary general, but Zapata's son won't let his father's body be moved to a Mexico City monument because he says the peasants Zapata rallied with the cry "land and liberty" are still oppressed.

Authorities had planned to move Zapata's remains from Cuatla, 45 miles south of Mexico City, to the Revolutionary Monument, a massive arch where nearly all of the heros of Mexico's 1910 revolution are buried, in time for commemorative ceremonies today led by President Jose Lopez Portillo.

But Mateo Emiliano Zapata said he won't allow the move until all political prisoners and campesinos (peasants) imprisoned over land disputes in the family's home state of Morelos are freed.

Zapata, a poor sharecropper and horse trainer, became the invincible "caudillo del sur," joining forces with Pancho Villa to win the 1910 revolution.

To the cry of "land and liberty," the fiercely moustachioed general led masses of landless peasants against large land owners and told his followers it was "better for a man to die on his feet than to live on his knees."

Zapata was killed in an ambush plotted by political enemies in 1919.

Like their father, Zapata's children for years have fought for more land reform, pressuring the government to do more to help small farmers.

Not only Zapata's son is unhappy. The survivors of Zapata's Front, now in their 80s and 90s, complained they haven't been invited to speak at ceremonies commemorating the event.

"There are some politicians who try to capitalize on the memory of Zapata," said Front Secretary General Porfirio Palacios. "Not one of the Front members will even be seated with government officials and we're the ones who have been promoting this celebration for the last 45 years."

Lopez Portillo will lay a wreath at the foot of Zapata's monument in Cuernavaca, 50 miles south of Mexico City, then pay a visit to Zapata's birthplace, now a mass of crumbling adobe walls protected by an open structure and surrounded by an amphitheater.

The government also will issue a postal stamp bearing the revolutionary's likeness to commemorate the occasion.

Famed Mexican writer Octavio Paz suggests Zapata would scorn the ceremonies if he were alive.

"If he could have, Zapata would have burned the presidential chair," he said. "He wasn't a nationalist. The reality he knew and defended was the people, not the abstractions of the nation and state."

Soviet Media Hints Swiss CIA Involved In Death Of Diplomat

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet newspaper Izvestia charged today that a Soviet diplomat found with his wrists slashed in a bathtub in Switzerland in April had been killed and hinted that Swiss counter intelligence agents may have been involved.

The newspaper suggested that the diplomat, Leonid Panchenko, may have been killed by agents from the West who botched an attempt to weaken his mind with LSD.

It said Soviet agents were not allowed to attend an autopsy on the body and that Soviet medical authorities who later examined the corpse believe that some of the internal organs may have been switched with those from another body.

"We demand that the Swiss authorities establish the truth and call those guilty to account," Izvestia said in a long article.

Panchenko was a 32-year-old Soviet diplomat and employee of the secretariat of the International Cocoa Organization.

Izvestia said his body was found April 7 in the bathroom of the Hotel Aarauerhoff in the Swiss town of Aarau.

Tar Balls Cover Texas Beaches

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (UPI) — Sticky tar balls, too sparse to permit aerial detection, washed across Texas beaches overnight and coated the sands with wide bands of oily pollution.

Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby Jr. said the situation threatened to turn into a disaster that would linger for months.

The Coast Guard said it presumed but still was unable to prove the tar balls came from Mexico's runaway Ixtoc I well that blew out June 3 in the Bay of Campeche 500 miles south across the Gulf of Mexico.

Roger Meacham of the Environmental Protection Agency described the tar balls as a product of a natural refining process, saying they were the "ultimate breakdown" of oil buffeted by weather, currents and other deteriorating factors.

And the local tourism industry, conceding a problem but hoping for a miracle, today faced potential financial tragedy because of them.

"It's going to be at least next month before Pemex (Petroleos Mexicanos) can drill a relief well (at the Ixtoc I site)," Hobby said Tuesday after touring the Padre Island National Seashore and Mexican coast by air and boat. "We're going to have another five or six weeks of oil pouring into the Gulf at the rate of 20,000 barrels a day.

"We're going to have this (pollution) problem for another year.... What we have now is a very threatening situation that may turn into a disaster."

The tar balls began settling on the light brown sands Sunday but by Tuesday still formed only a thin, broken line at the high-tide mark 100 yards from high-rise hotels and condominiums. Under a full moon the waves deposited countless thousands of the gummy discs, leaving treacherous footing to greet morning beachcombers and swimmers.

"We've had some cancellations, I can't deny that," said Ralph Thompson, vice president of the tourist bureau, who nevertheless urged vacationers to come to the resort. "People are out there enjoying that surf and we hope they continue to do so."

As unsightly as they were, the tar balls constituted more of a footing and fashion menace than an obstacle to swimmers. It was impossible to walk along the beach without coating feet or shoe soles with patches of black. But the tar balls did not appear to be linked to the slicks or sheens further off the coast.

The Coast Guard said a 12-square-mile sheen 160 miles north of the Rio Grande near Corpus Christi, began breaking into smaller sheens Tuesday and said mild winds had virtually stalled the northward migration of the detectable oil.

Meacham said it was impossible to predict how far the pollution might travel in the currents that swing around the Gulf and up the Atlantic Seaboard.

He said the Coast Guard had assembled sophisticated equipment and the nation's top scientists to battle the oily intrusion.

"We're doing everything humanly and technologically possible," he said.

Maryland Ballet Seeks Help After Devastating Fire

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Federal and state funds to supplement private donations are being sought by the Maryland Ballet to help pay for costumes and equipment lost during last weekend's fire at the ballet headquarters.

Dr. Jose Martinez, the Ballet's president, said Tuesday that fire damage totaled more than $1 million, but only $100,000 will be covered by insurance.

The ballet will need at least $150,000 in emergency funds if it is to continue operating, Martinez said.

The Sunday fire destroyed the building's first floor, where the company has its offices, rehearsal studios and wardrobe room. Fire department officials said the fire was called suspicious and is being investigated as a possible case of arson.

Motorists See Rate Of Increase Slow Down For Premium Gasoline

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Maryland motorists continued to pay more than a dollar for a gallon of premium gasoline last week while the average price of regular and unleaded fuel increased by almost a penny a gallon.

The Automobile Club of Maryland said Tuesday that premium gasoline average $1.00.4 per gallon, down .4 cents from the previous week.

The AAA's survey of 30 stations indicated that regular gasoline increased .8 cents and unleaded gasoline increased .9 cents a gallon.

But the slight decline in the price of premium gasoline was offset by a .8 cent increase in regular gasoline and a .9 cent increase in the price of unleaded gasoline, said Kathleen Godzik, club spokeswoman.

Ms. Godzik attributed the decrease in premium gas prices to normal fluctuations of the market.

"It's just an example of the free marketplace and how things fluctuate. It doesn't mean prices are going down," she said. The average price of premium gasoline is not expected to go below the one-dollar mark, she said.

Premium Gasoline averaged $1.00.4 while regular gasoline cost 94.9 cents a gallon. Unleaded gasoline cost 99.3 cents a gallon last week.

Ms. Godzik said many dealers are hesitant to break the one-dollar barrier, particularly because they do not want to convert their pumps to accommodate four-digit prices.

Seven of the 30 stations surveyed around the state charged more than a dollar for premium gasoline. Eight stations charged more than a dollar for unleaded gasoline, she said.

The price of premium gas ranged from 93.9 cents a gallon at an Annapolis station to $1.05.9 in Lutherville. The cheapest unleaded and regular gasoline was available at a station in Oakland in Western Maryland. Regular cost 89.9 cents a gallon while unleaded cost 93.9 cents at the station.

The most unleaded gasoline cost $1.05.9 at an Easton Station.

The survey also indicated that gasoline availibility will remain good. All 30 stations said they would stay open until 8 p.m. during the week and 45 percent said they would stay open until 6 p.m. Saturday, Ms. Godzik said.

Fire Devours Midwest Forestland

By United Press International.

Raging fires have devoured more than 138,000 acres of grass and trees in Idaho, Montana and New Mexico. The bulk of the damage was in Idaho, where about 125,000 acres have been destroyed.

Although desperately needed rain was forecast for today, fire officials feared storms also could bring lightning and spark new blazes in tinder-dry areas.

In Montana, 10,000 acres were blackened in four fires in remote areas of Yellowstone National Park but none threatened tourist areas. All but a 550-acre blaze was allowed to burn in accordance with the park's natural fire policy.

Forest Service spokesman Lee Singer said 4,500 firefighters from across the country have been enlisted to battle the flames in Idaho, including fresh fire crews from Maine, New York, Kentucky, and New Mexico. They were flown into Boise Tuesday then transported to various locations in the state, said spokeswoman Sandra Brown.

"The firefighters are getting tired, real tired," she said. "They need a rest and we've about exhausted our supplies of people and equipment."

Fire boss Gordon Stevens said many of the men have had only one day of rest since the fire started.

"One of our main problems is that the crews are getting very tired," he said. "Fatigue is starting to become a general factor due to the steep terrain and hard working conditions."

"Some firefighters must walk six hours to get to the fire," one grimy young man said. "Firefighters are complaining of sore feet and minor bruises from loose rocks tumbling down on them."

But weariness is not the only worry for the firefighters.

"You come out and see all the trees burned to a crisp, you will realize you could get cooked," said Mike Mullan of New Mexico.

"If it came right down to it, when you are going to get burned and you have to hop into tin foil (protective aluminum tents) it doesn't make you feel too comfortable."

Many of the crews are being shipped to the smaller fires that have just ignited in the northern part of the state.

"We are sending men where the chance of containment is the best," said spokesman Jim Gumert. "If we get them in there now, maybe we can get the fires out."

State Prisons To Be Renovated In The 1980's

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The Maryland Penitentiary in Baltimore and the State House of Correction in Jessup will be renovated or replaced in the 1980s, State Public Safety and Corrections Secretary Gordon Kamka said.

Kamka acknowledged Tuesday that past administrations have also pledged to renovate or replace the two prisons, but said, "we will take what action we must to see that this is accomplished under this administration."

He submitted plans to the House Appropriations Committee calling for work to begin at the penitentiary in 1982 and the House of Correction in 1983. The plans have to be approved by the General Assembly.

Under the proposal, each prison would have no more than 500 inmates. The House Correction has 1,554 inmates and the penitentiary has 1,323 prisoners.

Corrections Commissioner Edwin R. Goodlander said national prison standards recommend housing no more than 500 inmates at one facility.

Larger prisons would be "professionaly illogical and probably would only further complicate the problems we already have," he said.

The state prison system already is under a federal court order to reduce overcrowding and officials have begun an early parole program to satisfy the court.

Goodlander said a new 400-inmate prison in Baltimore and a 500-inmate annex at the House of Correction, which are intended to alleviate the overcrowding, will not be open until 1981 — at least seven months after they were supposed to be ready to help meet the federal court order.

Kamka said architectural studies will be needed to determine whether it will be less costly to renovate or replace the Penitentiary and the House of Correction.

The House of Correction was built about 1881 and parts of the penitentiary date to 1811.

Fire Threatens Spanish Town

LLORET DE MAR, Spain (UPI) — Hundreds of firemen, civil guards, forest rangers, soldiers and volunteers, aided by three planes, were fighting to keep flames from a forest fire near the resort town of Blanes, just south of Lloret de Mar, from crossing the Vidreras-Toas highway to another developed area. The fires broke out at about 9 a.m. Tuesday, and, fanned by strong winds, consumed some 2,500 acres of pine woodland by Tuesday night. Twenty-two vacationers unable to outrun the blaze were killed.

Forestry officials said they suspected arson because fires started simultaneous at three points within a two-mile area near Blanes. The bodies of the victims were so badly burned their names and nationalities could not immediately be determined.

Public Enlisted To Help Design 1980 Guidelines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration has asked the American public to help design next year's wage-price guidelines. But it has given the public some tough choices.

That was evident from a 52-page summary of issues the Council on Wage and Price Stability released Tuesday for comment by business, labor and the public in general. The answers will help shape the program in its second year, which starts in October.

Take wages. Present voluntary guidelines ask workers to hold wage increases to 7 percent. With inflation rising at an annual rate of 13 percent, unions say the real wages of their members have been declining.

But the council contends any new guidelines that attempt to give labor a big catch-up will only add to inflation.

"American workers can do arithmetic just as well as I," Alfred Kahn, the president's chief inflation adviser, told reporters, "and the arithmetic is that getting pay increases at the double-digit level will merely accelerate inflation."

Cost-of-living wage increases for workers are another example. Workers covered by cost-of-living escalators, or COLAs, are better off under the present guidelines than those without such clauses. The government could change the way it calculates inflation to allow non-COLA workers to catch up, the council said, but the bigger the catch-up the higher will be inflation.

The issues are similar for prices.

One possibility suggested by the council is to adopt a two-year cumulative standard for both wages and prices. Under it, companies and workers who kept prices or wages below the standard this year could have larger increases next year.

That would be fair, Kahn said, and in the case of prices it would have the additional benefit of taking away an incentive companies now have to put into effect all of their allowable price increases by Oct. 1.

Kahn said the administration decided to ask for public comment rather than announce firm proposals because public acceptance of new guidelines will be critical.

"If the final standards are not generally acceptable," he said, "they're going to be of little use to us.

"We're calling on all the American people for an act of faith and good citizenship."

While many wage settlements actually have been within the existing guidelines, organzied labor has denounced them as unfair. Kahn said the administration hopes this time to persuade labor leaders it is sensitive to their concerns.

If labor refuses to follow new guidelines once they are implemented, Kahn said, the administration will "go to the public and explain to the public what is happening" and seek to bring public opinion to bear.

Mars will be the most easily seen planet during the week. It rises about four hours before the sun rises. The stars of Gemini form the background for this planet.

DAYLIGHT DECREASES

By next Tuesday there will be 13 minutes less daylight. Sunrise was at 6:22 this morning. Sunset will be 14 hours 1 minute later at 8:23 p.m. At week's end the sun will rise at 6:28 a.m. and set at 8:16 p.m.

A Trip Through Yesteryear — The Garrett County Historical Society Museum

The Garrett County Historical Society Museum is observing its 10th anniversary this year. Founded in November, 1969, the building is located on Center Street, Oakland and is a popular attraction for county visitors and residents alike.

Coordinated by curator, Mrs. Lewis R. Jones, the museum is in the process of readying additional displays in the lower level. At present the main gallery is devoted to memorabilia, antique furniture, table service, crystal, curios, etc. usually attributed to the county's founding families.

Future displays will concentrate on household implements and everyday utilitarian items.

Old records, deeds, and maps, contained in the museum trace the origin of Garrett County. This area, once known as the Glades, was successively a part of Prince George's, Frederick, Washington, and finally Allegany counties. In 1872 it became autonomous and was named for John W. Garrett.

The Historical Society and its museum are a valuable part of the county's heritage. Those interested in society membership or in the museum's work, may phone 334-3226 for additional information.

ENERGY TIP — When using your oven, avoid peeking! Each time you open the oven door you can lose up to 20 percent of the heat. Don't leave the oven door open any longer than absolutely necessary.

Ceramic Tile: Easy to keep clean.

The ceramic tile in your bath or shower area, like porcelain enamel or fine China, can be a snap to keep bright and shiny. The secret lies in knowing just what the dirt-causing culprits are and how to attack them.

Tile is susceptible to three distinctly different types of soil and unfortunately, none responds particularly well to conventional scouring powders.

The first, and perhaps the most common soil you have to deal with is the brownish stain that builds up along grout lines and in corners. This isn't dirt at all, but mildew which thrives on dampness. Scouring is only a temporary solution to this problem, because it will just grow back. The best way to solve this problem is to spray a household disinfectant on the dry tile and let it sit overnight. In the morning whisk the mess away with a damp sponge. A light brushing will finish off any stains that remain.

The next problem is the rough, white build-up on the tile and glass shower doors. This is actually hard water salts left behind when water evaporates, simular to what happens on the inside of a tea-kettle. A commercial tile cleaner will dissolve this soil, making it easy to wipe clean.

The last problem is the dark, varnish-like coating that sometimes builds up in the center of the shower. Scouring powders and commercial tile cleaners won't touch it, but heavy-duty liquid detergent works like magic. Apply it full strength to the dirty area and let it stay for an hour or two. Sponge it off with plenty of water. For really tough cases, the detergent may have to be left on overnight and the area scrubbed lightly with a brush.

These solutions to these three problems will help keep your ceramic tile bright and sparkling.

FOOD NOTES

Would you believe that a deliciously good peach contains only 35 calories? Peaches are also a good source of viatamins A and C. When buying peaches, look for a fresh creamy yellow or golden undercolor. Avoid peaches with wrinkles, brownish spots or traces of green on their skin. They are ready to eat when they give to gentle palm pressure.

Keep fresh ripe peaches by refrigerating them, and they will stay fresh for several days. Fresh peaches that are not fully ripened will do so when kept at room temperature for a day or two.

Here's a peach recipe I know you'll enjoy!

Fresh Peach Cobbler

3 cups sliced fresh peaches
1 cup sugar
¼ tsp. almond extract
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
1½ cups all-purpose flour
1 well beaten egg
1 Tblsp. lemon juice
½ tsp. salt
3 tsp. baking powder
1 Tblsp. sugar
⅓ cup shortening
½ cup milk

Arrange peaches in greased, 8-inch square baking pan. Sprinkle with mixture of 1 cup sugar, almond extract, lemon juice and lemon peel. Heat in oven while preparing shortcake. Sift together flour, salt, baking powder and 1 Tblsp. sugar; cut in shortening until mixture is like coarse crumbs. Add milk and egg at once; stir just until flour is moistened. Spread dough over hot peaches. Sprinkle with 2 Tblsp. sugar. Bake in hot oven (400°F) 35 to 40 minutes. Makes about 8 servings.

Fresh fruits and vegetables are quickly becoming ready to preserve for the long winter months. If you have a food preservation question or if you want some printed information on any aspect of food preservation, stop by the Extension Office in the Courthouse Annex or call 334-2145.

Remember it is important to preserve food properly in order to keep it safe and the Extension Service wants to help make you aware of safe food preservation methods.

Board Member Attends Seminar

Newly elected Garrett County school board member, Mary I. Earley, recently attended a special seminar to learn more about her new job and the problems the county's school system is facing.

The "Orientation Seminar for New School Board Members" was held at the University of Maryland, College Park. It offered participants from throughout the state an opportunity to sharpen their skills in working with the group decision-making process.

Additionally, she is studying the art of negotiation, school law, construction programs, transportation, and other subjects directly related to running a county school system.

Census Bureau To Conduct Survey

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the work week of August 20-24, 1979, Porter S. Rickley, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Philadelphia, announced today.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 76,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation.

For example, in June the survey indicated that of the 102.5 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 96.8 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 5.6 percent; it has been in the 5.7 to 5.9 percent range for most of the past year.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Eye Protection Still Required For Motorcyclists

The Motor Vehicle Administration has notified all law enforcement officers that the Maryland vehicle laws still require motorcyclists to wear protective eye devices approved by the Administrator.

"Even though the helmet requirement was repealed by the legislature with regard to adult cyclists, the eye protective device is still required unless the motorcycle is equipped with a windscreen," Motor Vehicle Administrator William T. S. Bricker said.

"I have personally noticed an increasing number of motorcyclists that are not only unhelmeted, but not wearing eye protective devices. In the past, most helmets had approved face shields attached and approved goggles were not as readily apparent. Now it seems helmetless cyclists are wearing ordinary sun glasses or no safety goggles at all," he said.

The MVA has adopted the Z.87.1 shatter-proof goggles approved by the American Standards Institute and inquiries regarding approved eye protective devices should be directed to the MVA's safety engineering office at 768-7278, the Administrator added.

At Governor Harry Hughes direction, the MVA in cooperation with the Department of Transportation's Safety Division and the Motorcycle Safety Foundation are contacting 86,000 motorcycle owners encouraging the wearing of helmets.

Mr. Bricker reminded law enforcement officers that minors who operate or ride on motorcycles must still wear helmets. Since the new law went into effect July 1, ten motorcyclists have died as a result of accidents; seven without helmets.

WATCH THOSE STATISTICS

You see the headlines in the newspaper quite often . . . "Home prices up 6%" . . . "Home prices up 10%." The situation looks discouraging for potential home buyers. But before you shake your head and say you can't afford those prices, dig a little deeper and see what's behing those statistics.

The prices that are quoted in the papers are usually MEDIAN prices. The median price is the middle price. Remember this when you read the real estate news. If the headline says Median Price of Homes in West Northville Reaches $52,500" it simply means that half the homes sold went for more than that figure, and half went for less. Bear in mind that the median price figure only gives a rough idea of home prices. The only real way to know what's available and at what price is to find out. Remember that statistics view the whole picture, surveying a group of homes and arriving at a median figure. YOU are only interested in one home! There might be one out there just for you at the price you want to pay. Come in and talk to us about it. You might be able to laugh at those statistics as you move into your own home!

Sang Run Church Celebrates Fiftieth Anniversary

The Sang Run United Pentecostal Church, McHenry, will hold a Homecoming Service in celebration of its 50th Anniversary, August 11, beginning at 10 a.m. The morning service will consist of sermonettes by former and visiting pastors and a musical program, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Mickle, church organist. A basket lunch will be served at noon on the church grounds. Featured speaker for the 2 p.m. afternoon service will be the Rev. William Feathers of Clarksburg, WV.

The Sang Run United Pentecostal Church had its beginning in Cottage Prayer Meetings and Home Bible Studies conducted in Mt. Lake Park homes fifty years ago. From there, the "church" was moved to private homes in the Sang Run area.

After three years a converted and redecorated building became the first Church building. This was later enlarged and served the congregation until 1957 when the present building was constructed under the supervision of the Rev. Ralph Jacks. A parsonage was added to the church building in 1961 during the tenure of the Rev. William Feathers.

The present pastor, the Rev. Lloyd C. Garlitz and his wife came to Sang Run in March, 1975.

The public is cordially invited to visit the Sang Run United Pentecostal Church and to attend the special worship services.

The Gorman Planning Area includes most of the land between the Potomac River and the top of Backbone Mountain, which lies between Shields Run and the Oak Grove Cemetary, in addition to area around Steyer.

This Sewerage Facility Plan proposes Sewerage Facilities only for Steyer and the vicinity of Gorman in Maryland. Concerned residents of these West Virginia communities are also invited to attend this hearing.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Haivng received a petition from certain residents and/or property owners of the Gorman Sanitary District, the Garrett County Sanitary Commission held a public hearing on July 16, 1979. 2) The proposed Gorman Water System Project will be continued because of the demonstrated public need for the facility.

3) Some objections concerning primarily administrative and rate structure questions are considered reasonable.

4) Specific administrative details and the rate structure will be the subject of a future public hearing when and if the Project proceeds into the construction stage.

ORDER

Based on the foresaid findings of fact, it is there upon ORDERED this 23 day of July 1979, by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission that the said "Gorman Water System Project" be continued, subject to future public hearing for the purpose of determining the reasonable rate structure.

NOTICE

MOUNTAIN LAKE WATER COMPANY, INC.
P.O. Box 185
Mountain Lake Park, Maryland, 21550

On February 22, 1979, one of three routine water sample analyses performed by the Maryland Environmental Health Administration indicated that the bacteria level exceeded the permissible level prescribed by the Maryland Safe Drinking Water Act in COMAR 10.03.33, Section 10.

Two other samples taken that day at other locations in the system indicated bacteria to be well within acceptable limits. All samples since then have been within acceptable limits.

The matter has been reviewed with local health officials. The joint conclusion is that this one sample on February 22, 1979, either became contaminated from some source other than this public water system or that an accident in the State's laboratory caused the high bacteria count.

The Maryland Environmental Health Administration apparently concurs in this conclusion because of the lack of any sanction imposed during the long lapse of the time involved.

Thus, customers are advised that no action is necessary on their part.

5—All covenants and agreements above expressed shall run with the land conveyed hereby and be binding on all subsequent owners and occupants thereof.

Bike Rider Injured When He Pedals Into Truck Path

An eight-year-old child from near McHenry was injured August 3 about 2:20 p.m., when he pulled into the path of a car while riding his bicycle.

Larry Allen Everett, Route 5, was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Milton Samuel DeWitt, McHenry, operator of the vehicle involved. Larry was treated and released from the hospital.

Maryland State Police reports indicate that Mr. DeWitt was southbound on Sang Run Road when the child attempted to pedal across the road from a private drive, and pulled directly into the path of the DeWitt truck.

No charges were placed against the operator of the vehicle by Tfc. L. R. Rosage, investigating officer.

A passenger in the car, 86-year-old David DeWitt, McHenry, was uninjured.

Local Citizens Will Discuss Safety Measures

Garrett County citizens will discuss the county's highway safety priorities and citizen-action programs at a meeting in McHenry on Wednesday, August 15. The meeting is part of the Maryland Association of Highway Safety Leaders' "Cavalcade for Safety" Program and will begin at 7 P.M. at Garrett County Community College, Learning Center Building, Room LC-155.

County Commissioner Truman E. Paugh is expected to attend, and Sheriff John Evans, Jr., Garrett County Sheriff's Department will present traffic accident statistics for Garrett County.

The Maryland Association of Highway Safety Leaders is the only statewide organization of volunteers whose interests and activities are devoted exclusively to highway safety and the prevention of accidents and fatalities. A butterfly is a fragile thing, so light that it doesn't even ruffle the petals of a flower when it alights. Its life span is short, but its beauty is total. And, butterflies have memories or, at least, such strong instincts that, for example, thousands of Monarchs make an annual pilgrimage back to a single bush on the Monterey Peninsula in California.

What makes these insects continue their strange safaris year after year, through generation after generation of their kind? Scientists discover the answers to some of the endless questions life poses, but we can never know it all. We were never meant to know it all. That's where faith comes in; faith in God, His works, His creatures.

If you've been wondering just what life is all about, why not turn to the Church? It's the first step toward finding out.

THE BEST OF TIMES

Lesson for August 12, 1979

Devotional Reading: Psalms 26

"It was the worst of times; it was the best of times." So Charles Dickens began his great novel, A Tale Of Two Cities. If you read the book or saw one of its motion picture versions, you know that whether it was the "worst" or "best of times" depended entirely upon one's point of view. One person's "golden age" is likely to be someone else's "dark age." Even today we might just as easily agree with Dickens: "It is the worst of times; it is the best of times."

Rev. Althouse

And so it was for young Isaiah, who one day, in what seemed the darkest of times, had a life-changing experience while worshipping in the temple at Jerusalem. It was in "the year that King Uzziah died," a time of great gloom and anxiety. Uzziah had reigned in Jerusalem for 52 years, having taken the throne at the age of 16 when Amaziah, his father, died. It was a reign that had begun with high hopes for as the writer tell us, "he did what was right in the eyes of the Lord.... He set himself to seek God in the days of Zechariah, who instructed him in the fear of God; and as long as he sought the Lord, God made him prosper" (2 Chronicles 26:4,5).

When Uzziah Died

So Uzziah had become a strong and popular king, but with his success, "he grew proud, to his destruction" (26:16). At last the king's growing arrogance caught up with him and he became afflicted with leprosy, a blight that remained upon him for the rest of his life. So, when he died, the nation was in turmoil and many were certain that it was "the worst of times."

High And Lifted Up

Yet, it was in the midst of such fear and apprehension that Isaiah found himself caught up in an experience of God's presence so mighty and divine that mere words could never define or convey it. "I saw the Lord, sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up" (Isaiah 6:1), cried Isaiah, and in that hour of national tragedy, Isaiah caught a vision of God in all of his power and majesty. And the sadness and anxiety of those times were obliterated with the awesome light that filled his soul.

Isaiah could never be the same man again, for here, in these "worst of times," he heard God calling for someone to be his prophet, to speak to the nation of Judah as God's spokesman and the glory of that experience caused his heart to overflow with a desire to give his life to God. To God's, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" Isaiah found himself crying, "Here I am! Send me" (6:8).

So it is that, often in what seem to be the "worst of times," God reveals to those who will listen that, by his power, these same dark days may be, in fact, "the best of times."

MDOT Grants $40,000 To Monitor Speed

A $40,000 grant of federal funds from the Maryland Department of Transportation's Safety Division will enable the State Highway Administration (SHA) to buy advanced equipment for monitoring speeds on state highways. The money will be used to purchase automatic detectors that record vehicle speeds on an around-the-clock basis.

Since 1975, the U.S. Department of Transportation (USDOT) has required states to collect vehicle speed data to determine if motorists are obeying the federal 55 miles per hour speed limit.

Unitl now, SHA used only manually-operated radar units to collect speed data over short time periods, but a recent change in federal regulations specifies that data must be collected over 24-hour time periods.

Automatic speed detectors are needed because it would be impossible to use the radar units on a 24-hour basis, according to SHA traffic engineeer Manu Shah.

"We don't have the manpower to do manual data collection around the clock," he said.

The automatic detectors will be imbedded in the roadway approximately six feet apart. They will record the time it takes a vehicle to pass between them, and SHA engineers can then calculate the vehicle's speed.

According to Shah, automatic detectors will give more accurate data because they cannot be detected by motorists. Now, drivers sometimes become aware of the radar and slow down.

Shah stressed that SHA does not enforce the speed limit, but merely records speed data.

Should data collected by a state show that too many motorists are exceeding the speed limit, USDOT may cut that state's federal highway construction funds. In 1979, the percentage of motorists complying with the 55 m.p.h. limit must be at least 30 percent; by 1983, compliance must rise to 70 percent.

"Right now, the state has 50 percent compliance," said Shah. "Since that's above the mandatory level for this year, we should get a bonus in federal funds."

Shah said that the high percentage of compliance statewide is due to effective speed enforcement by the Maryland State Police. Special enforcement programs funded by the Transportation Department's Safety Division — such as Operation Yellowjacket and the BAT (Bus and Truck) Patrol — have kept Maryland's average highway speed close to 55 m.p.h.

Operation Yellowjacket is a program to catch drunk drivers and speeders at selected high-accident locations throughout the state.

The BAT Patrol uses plainclothes police driving leased cars to detect speeding or tailgating trucks and buses. When the officer sees a violation, he radios to a counterpart in a marked car who stops the offending vehicle.

Shah expects SHA to install the automatic detectors in at least two locations by October. Other locations will still be monitored manually, although not on a 24-hour basis.

Under the grant program, the Division of Transportation Safety will commit over $3 million in federal funds for transportation safety projects state-wide during 1979.

Farm Bureau Tops Membership Goal

"It may be a new record for Maryland Farm Bureau . . . the earliest we have ever achieved membership goal."

This announcement was made by Farm Bureau's field services director, J. Hansen Hoffman, Jr.

The 1979 goal of 12,418 members, established by the American Farm Bureau Federation, was surpassed on July 16. The deadline is November 30.

According to Hoffman, fourteen Maryland counties have made membership gains with Allegany leading the way at 111%. The others include Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Carroll, Cecil, Charles, Garrett, Harford, Howard, Montgomery, Prince George's, Queen Anne's, Somerset and Washington.

Each county Farm Bureau unit is assigned a membership goal by the state membership committee. Of the twenty-three counties in the state, nineteen have attained goal.

Maryland Farm Bureau president, F. Grove Miller, has extended congratulations to all leaders who helped achieve this success.

"It is imperative that farmers join together in an organization that can provide services to assist the individual farmer accomplish things he cannot do alone", Miller stated.

Maryland Farm Bureau is the largest farm organization in Maryland and is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau.

Academy Award-winning actress Vanessa Redgrave will make her American television debut in "Playing for Time," a three-hour dramatic special written by Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Arthur Miller about the experiences of an all-woman orchestra in a Nazi concentration camp. The true-life drama, to be directed by Tony Richardson, is scheduled to go into production this fall for broadcast on CBS later in the season.

Miss Redgrave will star as Fania Fenelon, whose memoir, "Playing for Time," was the basis for Miller's screenplay. The special tells the story of Miss Fenelon, who was a member of a unique orchestra comprised of inmates in the Auschwitz complex during World War II. One of the few survivors of the orchestra, Miss Fenelon went on to describe her experiences with unnerving clarity and an astonishing ability to find humor where only despair should prevail.

Emmy Award-winner Blanche Baker ("Holocaust") and Jeff East, best remembered as Huck Finn, have been cast in the title roles of "Mary and Joseph: A Story of Love," a three hour drama being produced for NBC.

The drama, which culminates in the birth of Jesus Christ in Bethlehem, will be presented during the winter holiday. It is being filmed on location in Israel.

Miss Baker has appeared in two upcoming films, "The Senator" and "French Postcards." East made his professional acting debut in the musical verson of "Huckleberry Finn," in 1974.

Rosanna Arquette, granddaughter of Cliff Arquette, TV's Charley Weaver, will co-star in NBC's "Shirley" this fall. Arquette, an NBC contractee, will play a 16-year-old who joins her mother, kid brother, sister and half brother as they make a new home from New York to Lake Tahoe.

One of her biggest roles was as the writer's daughter opposite Bette Davis in "The Dark Secret of Harvest Home." Arquette grew up in the milieu of the Second City improvisational theater complex in Chicago, where her parents worked.

It was typecasting for James Gregory, who stars as Nick Hannigan in the limited-run comedy series, "Detective School — One Flight Up," on ABC.

In "Barney Miller," Gregory portrays Inspector Luger, and as Hannigan, he is the proprietor of a detective school who is a private investigator and who teaches an odd assortment of student sleuths the tricks of the trade.

Donna Pescow, the title star of ABC's "Angie," states that there's one big difference between her and the delightful character she portrays.

"You never see me waiting tables in the show," says Donna, "because I can't do it. When I got this part, I used to hang around the coffee shops near my home, watching the waitresses and how they worked. But, when I try to do what they do, I drop plates all over the place."

One of Charlie's three Angels, Cheryl Ladd, whose second Capitol records album was recently released, attributes much of her musical interest and abilities to the encouragement of her father, a railroad engineer for the Chicago Northwestern line.

She says, "We had some terrific jams with the old railroaders. Real country stuff, steel guitar, fiddle, harp. It was incredible!"

James Stephens, who has made clean cut law student James T. Hart a favorite of "Paper Chase" viewers, is not one to be typecast. For his next assignment he'll play a deranged sniper terrorizing New York City in "The Demon," a special three-hour opening episode of "Eischied," NBC's new cop show starring Joe Don Baker.

Logical Deduction.

Are bills turning your life story into "The Case of the Disappearing Paycheck"? Does all your hard-earned money seem to vanish without a trace left to save?

Then perhaps you should investigate United States Savings Bonds.

Because saving with Bonds is so simple, it's elementary. Especially if you join the Payroll Savings Plan.

Once you sign up, you see, a small part of each paycheck is automatically set aside to buy Bonds.

Which means as soon as you're paid, you save. Before you're left trying to deduce where it all went.

Gerry McLaughlin:

Garrett County's Prodigal Son

"An actor is always looking for new roles, and I get one each week."

By Bart Naylor

"I love it," exclaimed Gerry McLaughlin, actor at the Blue Barn playhouse, when asked about his impression of Garrett County. He sat during his lunch break on the lawn of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, talking about his summer.

The sidewalk sale had brought many to the streets. A lady came up to him. "Are you one of them actors?"

McLaughlin's small mouth broke into a smile. "Yes, ma'am."

"I been meanin' to come out and see a play. I haven't been since the ol' barn burned down."

"You should come," McLaughlin encouraged with his handsome eyes. He remained silent, playing the shy part as she gave excuses for recent inattendance—taking care of the kids, problems with the lawn, etc.

"I'll come next week, I think. One of the Thayer kids is in it, and I want to see her. Well, good-bye now." She walked on to find some pants for her boy. "He grows out of 'em faster than I can wash 'em," she had explained.

McLaughlin sat down on the picnic bench, and began to decorate his hamburger with onion rings and catsup. "It's really a nice day." The sun was shining on this clear warm day. "It's a vacation for me."

This summer McLaughlin has held leading roles in all the productions. Rehearsals and performances consume most of his time. He has Sunday and Monday nights off if he has his lines well memorized. This would leave an ordinary person exhausted after a week, but for the youthful actor, this is a vacation. "I'm a quick study, and learning lines isn't that bad. I am just thrilled at the chance of doing stock theatre. An actor is always looking for new roles, and I get one each week."

Gerry McLaughlin

He finished his first hamburger, and stuffed the napkin in an empty Coke cup.

This past winter McLaughlin had quite different performing employment. He toured with fellow Blue Barn actress Joan Statkus throughout the midwest, playing mostly at schools. "It was twenty weeks of sheer hell. We did three or four shows a day. Sometimes we would be in five towns. We would wake up in one town, drive to another, do a show, drive to another town, do another show, then again, then drive to a town where we would do a show the next day." In addition to the grueling schedule, McLaughlin said they also had problems with the weather. "At times, it seemed we chased snow blizzards. We must have been in every one that hit the midwest."

The production involved scenes from the "Taming of the Shrew." "'Hello, good Kate, for that's your name, I hear.'" He began to rifle off his first major speech. "'Thou canst not frown, thou canst not look askance, nor bite the lip as angry wenches do . . .' It's good to do a show for a long time. You have time to develop a character. And once you are confident of a role, you can enjoy the audience more. Each show is different, because each audience is different. The audience is everything. And it is really an honor. They have come to see you; they pay money to see you."

The tall, lanky actor returned for another hamburger and devoured this one with the same clandestine quickness he had the first. Another lady approached him. "I enjoyed you in the play last night."

"Thank you," he smiled.

McLaughlin, who graduated from the University of New Mexico this winter with a bachelor's in psychology, only recently decided to become a professional actor. He began acting as a freshman. Mostly out of whim, he auditioned for "Dracula," a student production at school. He was cast as Seward. Success with that and contact with Gene Yell, director of the Blue Barn, resulted in an invitation to come to the Blue Barn the next summer.

"When Gene asked me if I wanted to come, I leaped at the chance. He said I had a few days to decide, but I told him right then, I was coming." He was hired as stage manager, but ended up acting in every production.

He has been coming now for five years. "I come to do the theatre, but I love the area." This spring, he was driving from Chicago, to New Jersey—he was born nearby in Brooklyn. "It was quite a bit out of my way, but I came down to Garrett County for a few days. It's beautiful here. And of course, the people are so nice. I think they're nicer than most places."

Soon after the summer season ends, he will attend auditions in Atlanta. Then he plans to go to New York to look for more work. If he can, he wants to spend his summers doing theatre in Garrett County.

The Garrett County Playhouse is located in the Blue Barn, Beckman's Peninsula, Deep Creek Lake, and is located by taking the Glendale Bridge Road (at Alpine Village, Route 219) to the Beckman's Peninsula Road, one mile beyond the bridge. All performances are at 8:30, Wednesday through Saturday. Box office is open from 7:30 on performance nights. For reservations persons should call Englander's, Gregg's or Proudfoot's Oakland Pharmacy in Oakland. Reservations are advisable even with season subscriptions.

New star on scene: the actor-writer

By Anne Thayer

Employment uncertainty in the performing arts being what it is, actors who can create a saleable script, obviously have a built-in aide to financial security.

But oddly, while actors have shown knowledging that those excuses alone is rarely the motivation. The reasons for writing vary as widely as the individuals.

Most who toil in television and movies develop their materials for tape or film. An outstanding exception, however, is Ernest Thompson. Two years ago he co-starred as a steely-eyed young resident in the short-lived ABC series, "West Side Medical." Before that, he co-starred in the also-brief "Sierra."

But if one series didn't work, chances were good that another would come along soon for such a goodlooking actor. So it was easy for an interviewer to overlook the fact that Thompson's statement, "I'm considering devoting full time to writing," Easy does it.

Thompson's debut as a playwright, "The Indian Wants the Bronx," was a one-act piece that was produced off-Broadway. Tony Award in the Best Play of the Year category.

(Chevy Chase, until the movies lured him to co-star on the big screen with Goldie Hawn, considered himself, "a writer.

Reiner was also one of the show's co-stars. Brooks pulled out of "Saturday Night Live" when he didn't never believed that he pulled out of "Saturday Night Live" just because he wanted more money. He was one of the show's original writers and he did the on-camera stuff himself. Thompson. Two years ago he co-starred as a nal writers and he did the first time just because he had a low budget and of course, he caught on with the public. I think he was still uncomfortable as a performer when he quit the show."

Interestingly, comedy shows have spawned the largest number of scriptors who are also performers.

Steve Allen, the original author of half-a-dozen books and more recently has created an entertaining and educational) PBS "Tonight Show" host is the ady movie, "Yoe to Toe."

Mitch, an entertaining mix of sound history and wild anachronisms.

Steve's eventual success-sor, Johnny Carson, always aspired to the spotlight, but was toiling behind the scenes as a writer for Red Skelton when fate kicked him upstairs. Later he was the secret voice behind the voice during a live television broadcast and says that Skelton lost his voice during a live television broadcast and Johnny sprinted from the wings with enough fast patter to save the show.

Mel Brooks and Carl Reiner – close chums today – met back when they were both struggling performers.

Farm Bureau Has Campaign Meeting

The Garrett County Farm Bureau held its campaign dinner meeting in the Bittinger community building August 1, with president Clark Kolb in charge.

Eric Seifarth, organizational director, explained the 1980 membership campaign, and the $5 increase in the state and national portion of the membership dues.

Ira Yaste informed members about farm supplies, especially tractor tires and batteries.

Mathias Proposes Funding To Study Amtrak Service

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md) recently proposed an amendment to the Amtrak authorization bill to provide a method of determining the value of Amtrak's service to various regions of the county and local communities.

He said the amendment will lay the groundwork for a system of uniform cost allocation through which Congress and Amtrak can evaluate the performance of each passenger route in the United States.

"It would also lead to the establishment of a much-needed 'contractual' relationship between Amtrak management and Congress," Mathias added.

The amendment is based on legislation Mathias introduced in March which places a price tag on the public value of the nation's rail passenger system, and aims at decreasing Amtrak's chronic operating losses. The Amtrak Cost Allocation Act of 1979 (S.800), as the legislation is known, consist of two components:

1. payment by the Federal government of one-half of the costs of operating each of Amtrak's passenger routes.

2. a ticket subsidy to encourage and promote ridership on Amtrak's more cost-effective routes.

The amendment directs Amtrak to explore the merits of establishing an accounting system based on the total number of passengers carried per route, Mathias said. Under current accounting procedures, the Federal operating subsidy requested annually by Amtrak is based on a projected yearly operating loss throughout the system.

"Under the new accounting procedure and the public service value formula," he said, "at least half of all Amtrak's routes would show a public service profit annually. Amtrak could then direct its management decisions, such as fare restructuring, schedule changes and equipment improvements, to those individual routes not producing a public service profit with the aim of improving their accountability within the entire system."

Mathias said, had such a mechanism been in place before the Carter Administration's proposal for Amtrak's route restructuring, "we might have been able to avoid this long, agonizing process and at the same time provide more continuity to this country's passenger rail program."

Mountain Found Guilty Of Five Charges Last Week

Judge Miller Bowen of Allegany County ordered a pre-sentence investigation last week after finding a Mt. Lake Park man guilty of one criminal count and four motor vehicle violations in District Court.

David Aaron Mountain, 26, was found guilty of resisting arrest, failure to obey a police officer, reckless driving, exceeding the posted speed limit by 30 mph or more, and fleeing or attempting to elude a police officer.

Mountain was released on his own recognizance pending the results of the pre-sentence investigation. Judge Bowen also ordered the defendant's $900 bond be returned.

The charges stemmed from a June 30 incident at Westernport. Cpl. John Duckworth of the town police there testified that all traffic at the intersection of Routes 135 and 36 was stopped that day because of a parade in the city. He stated Mountain drove into the intersection, ignored his request to pull over, and then quickly accelerated the vehicle, causing the officer to be knocked backwards and to lose his balance.

Duckworth said he and Allegany County Deputy Sheriff Louis Nies chased Mountain through the city of Luke at a high rate of speed before the defendant was finally forced off the road near the Garrett County line. The officer said Mountain refused to leave the car after being advised that he was under arrest and as a result had to be forcibly removed from his vehicle.

Mountain was found not guilty of additional charges of common law assault, not having the car's registration card in possession, and driving the wrong way in one-way traffic. An assault and battery charge was dismissed and a resisting arrest charge was merged with the other resisting arrest charge.

Correction Noted

It was incorrectly reported in last week's edition of The Republican that David Zimmerman had been injured in a car accident.

Mr. Zimmerman reports that his brother-in-law, James Luke Bowman, Swallow Falls, was driving the car when the collision occurred July 25 on Mayhew Inn Road. Zimmerman is the owner of the vehicle.

Mary Lynne Sebold Wins Awards At State Contest

Mary Lynne Sebold, Area I Dairy Princess, won the first place award in the skit presentation at the Maryland Dairy Princess contest and was awarded the Miss Congeniality honor last week.

The contest was held at the Sheraton Inn, Frederick, August 1 and 2.

Miss Sebold's skit was prepared for the kindergarten through third grade age group, and depicted the theme, "Little Miss Muffett." Mrs. Dorothy Leuba and Mrs. Betty Guard, coordinator for Area I (Allegany and Garrett counties), assisted Miss Sebold in preparing the skit.

Miss Sebold will be presenting her award-winning skit at various functions and schools throughout the year.

This is the second year an Area I contestant has placed first in the state contest. The Miss Congeniality award is voted by the seven contestants in the Dairy Princess contest.

Mrs. Earnest L. Ganoe, Area I chairman, and Mrs. Edna Sebold accompanied Mary Lynne to the state contest.

Attending the contest Thursday night were Miss Nancy Collier, dairy maid for Area I; Mrs. Betty Guard, Mrs. Joyce Bishoff and Mrs. Dorothy Leuba, Area I committee members.

Miss Karen Markline, Area V, will represent the state as daity princess this year, and Miss Deborah Smith, Area III, was first runner up.

Smile-A-Thon To Be Fundraiser For Cystic Fibrosis

A "Baby Smile-A-Thon" will be among the fundraising activities to be part of the 1979 Breath of Life Campaign in Garrett County.

Organizers stated the event was based on the idea that "if people see the picture of a happy, healthy child, they may be inspired to donate money so that all children would have a chance for a happy, healthy life."

Pictures of babies up to age three will be displayed throughout the county along with a coin box for donations to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Doris Goldsborough, campaign chairman, noted that this as well as other fundraising activities will replace the usual door-to-door solicitation.

Display of the pictures will depend upon the number received. At the end of the drive, a drawing will be held and prizes awarded to the entrants.

Parents interested in entering their baby in the Smile-A-Thon should send a snapshot, preferably action, along with $1.00 entry fee to Mrs. William Goldsborough, Garrett County Chairman for C/F, P.O. KNOW CARPET TEXTURES

Why do you choose one carpeting over another? Price range? Fiber content? Color? All of these important factors should be taken into consideration and so should textures. Texture refers to the appearance or look of the carpet surface. The carpet texture you select will play a major role in your room's decorating scheme and will affect how well your carpet will wear. Let's talk about texture.

Everyone is familiar with the tossled texture of High-Low SHAG carpeting. High-Low Shag was designed mainly for a casual effect and is often used in a Contemporary setting. It's perfect in light and average traffic areas.

TWIST has a low pile surface and curled yarns. It wears well in almost any area of the home but is especially recommended for medium and heavy traffic areas.

LEVEL LOOP is often used for kitchen carpeting. The low, tightly woven tufts offer little yarn exposure so wear and pile distortion are kept to a minimum. You may choose the level loop texture in a number of price ranges.

There are many other textures which we'll be discussing in a later column. If you'd like to see and compare carpet textures come in and examine our fabulous selection.

Each week we will tell you more about carpeting for your home. Watch for these columns.

Commissioners To Discuss Budget Cuts At Next Tuesday's Meeting

The Garrett County Commissioners have agreed to set aside next Tuesday afternoon for budget discussions in efforts to delete $707,000 from county departments.

That is the amount the county will not be receiving since Judge Fred A. Thayer III's ruling that the county must operate this fiscal year on a budget based on the $2.37 constant yield amount. The commissioners had earlier based the fiscal budget on a rate of $2.66 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg, Jr. had responded to a letter from his fellow board members by saying that he had made as many budget cuts as possible without further consultation with various department heads.

The commissioners will spend Monday talking with the roads department, Board of Education, and sheriff's department in efforts to trim their budgets.

In other items Tuesday, the commissioners agreed to set up a meeting with the Department of Natural Resources and all other interested parties, including landowners, concerning packs of dogs which have been decimating sheep herds. The matter was brought to their attention by Lee Shillingburg, Steyer, who has had 77 sheep killed, including the grand champion ewe lamb at the county fair last year, and another 72 wounded.

Mr. Shillingburg pointed out that "People will not buy dog tags and won't until you put teeth into the law," referring to the fact that the county dog warden has no authority at present to arrest violators of the dog license law.

Date and time of the meeting will be announced as plans are finalized.

The commissioners unanimously agreed with a request by county treasurer Mrs. Arzella Parsons to continue the Circuit Breaker credit of five percent through September.

Three school bus drivers, representing their association, met with the commissioners to remind them that the county should be receiving a check earmarked for the bus drivers. The commissioners advised those present, Kyle Bennett, Lawrence Sines and Wilmer Margroff, that they would track down the funds to see how much was due the association, and when the money would be coming.

The commissioners also signed a stipulation and agreement in regard to an appeal made by Adrian Martin con-

Oakland Selected To Participate In DECD Revitalization Program

Oakland has been selected as one of four towns in the state of Maryland to participate in the Downtown Commercial Revitalization program offered by the Department of Economic and Community Development, announced James R. "Smokey" Stanton, president of the Oakland Town Council, early this week.

"I was impressed with the enthusiasm and interest shown by Oakland business and government leaders," stated Mark A. Friedman, revitalization coordinator, in a letter to Stanton, confirming Oakland's selection. He had received letters from the Council, the Downtown Development Corporation and the Greater Oakland Merchants' Association indicating the town's interest in the project.

Friedman will meet with the town council, members of the Oakland Downtown Development Corporation and Greater Oakland Merchants' Association, as well as other state and county officials to discuss the project in more detail sometime in early September.

In his letter, Friedman reaffirmed the scope of the project by mentioning, "we plan to assist Oakland in two important areas. First is Economic/Market Feasibility Analysis that would be performed by the Institute of Small Business at Frostburg State College. The second service will be a Design/Architectural Study performed by the School of Architecture at the University of Maryland."

The one year state program will be a free service to Oakland and the other three towns and will provide technical assistance aimed to revitalize the downtown business districts. In a meeting with the Oakland Town Council and businessmen, July 19., Friedman explained one of the objectives of the project will be to emphasize local choice. This meant, he had explained, that once the studies have been completed and the recommendations made, the decision whether or not to implement the suggestions will belong solely to the town's government and businessmen.

He had also stated that besides the economic/market feasibility analysis and the design/architectural study, the program will also involve assistance in promotion activities for the town designed to bring people to the area.

Since the program will last no longer than a year, Friedman and his staff will act in an advisory capacity only. Recommendations will be

Fire Destroys Mobile Home In Loch Lynn

Fire totally destroyed a house trailer on Roanoke Avenue, Loch Lynn, early Sunday morning. The only possessions saved by occupants of the dwelling were a television and a stereo.

Oakland and Deer Park fire departments were called about 3:13 a.m. but found the structure fully involved in flames upon their arrival.

The trailer, owned by Mrs. Beth Friend, was rented by Gary Tinsley. Also at the residence at the time of the fire were Tammy Fitzgerald, Steve Fitzzerald, Andy Fitzgerald and Rusty Fitzgerald.

Tinsley told firefighters he spotted fire around the kitchen stove shortly after 3 a.m., a few hours after they had returned from the Garrett County fair.

He reportedly had a difficult time waking up neighbors in order to call in the alarm.

The Oakland firefighters brought three pieces of equipment, and the Deer Park company responded with two. Fire companies were on the scene one and a half hours.

The 12 foot by 60 foot trailer was termed a total loss by Robert H. Shimer, fire investigator for Allegany and Garrett counties. Mr. Shimer sustained a thumb injury while conducting his investigations.

Police Seek Man Charged In Rape

Police are seeking a middle-aged local man in connection with the alleged rape of a teenage girl early Sunday.

The 16-year-old girl reported the incident to the county sheriff's department, identifying a suspect, and the investigation is continuing.

Further details of the reported rape were not released by police.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will make its regular Oakland visit this Friday at the National Guard Armory in Oakland, according to Mrs. Norma Hesen, local chairman. Donors will be accepted from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. The quota is 135 pints.

Mrs. Hesen said that blood types O positive, O negative and B negative are especially in demand, but all types are welcome.

Trailer, Contents Destroyed By Fire Wednesday Night

A trailer and all its contents, located on the Green Glade Road, was destroyed by fire last Wednesday evening after leaking gas came in contact with the pilot of a hot water heater.

The residence was owned by Robert A. Miske, Pittsburgh, and was used as a summer residence by Mr. Miske and his family.

Firefighters from Bittinger and Deer Park were called to the scene at 9:53 p.m. by Garrett Central Alarm and found the structure totally involved upon arrival. The Oakland Fire Department was called to stand by at the Deer Park Firehall.

Mr. and Mrs. Miske, their two children and Mr. Miske's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Miske, were in the living room of the trailer when they heard a bang, and then discovered the fire. Robert Shimer, fire investigator for the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, determined that the fire was caused when gas leaked from the LPG system and came in contact with the pilot of the hot water heater.

The Miskes have owned the trailer for about seven years. Mr. Miske said the loss was covered by insurance.

Firefighters remained at the scene for about one and a half hours. There were no injuries.

One Killed, Four Injured In Two-Car Collision August 9

Services were conducted Monday at the John O. Durst Funeral Home in Oakland by the Rev. James F. Remley for John Edgar Lilley, victim of a two-car crash on Route 219 last Thursday afternoon.

Interment was in Lafayette Cemetery, Brier Hill, Pa., following graveside services at 1 p.m.

Mr. Lilley, 54 of Swan Road, Newaygo, Mich., a former Oakland resident, died of injuries from a two-car collision on Route 219 at 5:56 p.m. three miles north of Oakland, near King's Run Road. Four other persons were injured.

According to state police, Lilley was operating one of the two vehicles involved when he apparently failed to drive to the right side of the road and struck a vehicle operated by Wilbert W. Benkart, 55, Pittsburgh, who was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital and was listed in satisfactory condition.

Three passengers in the Benkart car were also transported to the local hospital. Alice Benkart, 73, of Pittsburgh, was treated at the local hospital and then transferred to Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh. Hilda M. Benkart, 51, and Barbara J. Sutton, 31, Coraopolis, Pa., were treated and released on Thursday.

Both cars were destroyed on impact, according to the police report filed by Tfc. L.N. Smith.

Mr. Lilley was a native of Chestnut Ridge, Pa., and was a son of the late John W. and Sadie (Colley) Lilley.

He was a former resident of Oakland, where he had been owner of the former Oakland Lumber Company. He was a member of VFW Post 4249, Newaygo, and an army veteran of World War II.

Surviving are his widow, Mary (Bowman) Lilley; one son, Rev. Arlei G. ## Two Horses Killed By Tractor Trailer

Two full-grown horses were killed and thrown 100 feet on each side of U. S. Route 219 Monday night after running into the path of an on-coming tractor-trailer driven by James Russell Sowers, Swanton.

The truck driver told police he first thought he had a tire blowout when the animals struck the tractor. The windshield, radiator and front end of the vehicle were damaged.

The driver was not injured in the accident and no charges were lodged against Sowers by Tfc. John Foley, who arrived at the scene just minutes after the accident occurred.

Claude Swartzentruber owned the mare which was struck, and was boarding the gelding owned by Harry Glotfelty. He had been trying to round up the pair to return them to the pasture of his farm on Blue Ribbon Road near Gortner.

Dwight Snyder, owner of Snyder's Cabinet Company, heard the noise of the crash and rushed to the scene to see what had happened. He said the road was covered with blood and parts of the animals were strewn over a wide section of the highway. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department was called to the scene to wash down the highway.

Man Is Charged With Child Abuse

Members of the Garrett County sheriff's department arrested a Friendsville man about midnight Saturday on the Rock Lodge Road and charged him with child abuse.

Randall Wade Guthrie was charged by the sheriff's department with abuse after he reportedly abandoned his sister's year-old child in the middle of Rock Lodge Road.

The child was found sitting in the middle of the road during a rainstorm by a passing motorist about 11:30 p.m. The passer-by took the child to the home of a nearby member of the rescue squad, who called the sheriff's office.

Guthrie was discovered about one-half hour later, walking along the road with two other children. He was taken to the local sheriff's office and was released shortly thereafter upon posting property bond.

Docks Disappear

Four boat docks owned by Red Run Inn, Route 5, Oakland, disappeared from the water into thin air between August 3 and 5.

Members of the county sheriff's department are investigating the incident, in which docks made of redwood and 55-gallon barrels were taken. Total loss was estimated at $1,200.

Perry Hall Woman Dies Of Injuries In Moped Mishap

A Perry Hall woman died Tuesday in the intensive care unit at West Virginia Medical Center from injuries sustained in a moped accident on Swallow Falls Road Monday morning.

Mrs. Rosalyn D'Angelo Lee, 42, was transferred to the med center by Maryland State Police helicopter after receiving emergency treatment for severe head and neck injuries at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

According to the Maryland State Police report, Mrs. Lee and her husband were riding rented mopeds along the Swallow Falls Road 4 of a mile from Cranesville Road about 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Lee appeared to lose control of her machine, and was thrown to the roadway.

Members of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported the victim to the Oakland hospital, and permission was obtained for the state police helicopter to fly her immediately to the med center.

The body was returned to her home town for burial.

Two Western Counties Listed "Impact" Areas

Garrett and Allegany counties have been designated as special "impact" areas for coal development, clearing the way for the two subdivisions to receive outright grants from the federal government for water, sewer and other projects.

According to the office of Rep. Beverly Byron (D-Md., Sixth), designation of the two counties as impact area means the two subdivisions are eligible to tap special federal funds to help this area deal with increases in coal demands.

Under the program, the Department of Energy authorizes the Farmers Home Administration to use energy funds for public service projects such as water and sewer services, housing and the like.

Governor Hughes submitted Allegany and Garrett counties for designation because the two met the following three guidelines:

1. An increase in direct employment in mining or in transportation because of mining activity. The increase must be approximately eight percent for a three-year period.

2. There is a housing shortage because of the mining activity increase.

3. The counties do not have sufficient reserves available to alleviate the first two guidelines.

Byron's office said Governor Hughes' request for designation of the two counties is the first step in the special funding process. The state now must develop a list of needs based on coal development, telling the federal government what is needed because of the demands of increased coal production.

Any money received from the federal government will be Grants and will not require loans or matching funds.

However, Byron's office noted that despite an allocation of $60 million for fiscal year 1979, the Congress has only made $20 million available for the first year of the project. Deadline for getting money from the special fund this year is September 1, a date which may be difficult for the state to meet.

For fiscal year 1980, Congress has allocated $120 million for the program, although how much will actually be spent may not be predicted.

President Carter has made a commitment to the program for five years, saying he would like to see $150 million spent in coal and uranium impacted areas.

Morton had been charged last week with the theft of tires and wheels from a vehicle along Route 135 during July, and with larcenies at Oak View Motors that month.

Morton was released on continuance of $2,000 property bond set for the tire larcenies.

Arrest of a 16-year-old male juvenile is pending in connection with the larcenies according to police, who are continuing their investigations. Maryland State Police and members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department are cooperating in the case.

Dr. Donald Ruhl, president of Garrett Community College, announced this week that the college had experienced the largest enrollment in its history during the 1978-79 school year. The full time equivalent enrollment was 482 students, for which it received state reimbursement. This was an increase of 20 state reimbursed full time equivalent students over the preceding year, and the total number of full time students reached 513.

A full time equivalent student is a student who takes 30 credit hours of work during the academic year. Approximately 750 additional students took a wide array of non-credit and non-state aided courses.

Currently the largest programs in the College are Wildlife/Fisheries and General Studies. Significant growth has also occurred in the Business division.

Dr. Ruhl also stated that the Veterinary Science Technology Program, now in its third year, is attracting an increasing number of applicants.

Garrett Community College has received more applications for admissions for the 1979-80 academic year than in any year previous. In order, the highest number of applications are for Wildlife/Fisheries Management, General Studies, Veterinary Science Technology, Business Administration, and Wildlife Management Technology.

"Modernization Of Western Society" Is New Course At Garrett C C

A new course, "The Modernization of Western Society," will be offered this fall on the McHenry campus of Garrett Community College. Taught by Professor George Dailey, the course will focus on the "average person" over the last 300 years in regard to changes in attitude, behavior, and values. The course will also cover such topics as the family, child-rearing, leisure, work, mental illness, and religion.

According to Professor Dailey, the course has been well received previously by students of all ages. Dailey attributes this to the overall theme of the course and the fact that students can identify with the course topics. The course is based on discussion and inquiry, not on a lecture format and favorite discussion topics have been the phenomenon of crime, the process of industrialization, and the changing roles of women.

George Dailey is an Associate Professor of History and Social Science at Garrett Community College. He received his Bachelor's Degree with a major in History from Franklin and Marshall College, and his Masters Degree with a major in History from Temple University. Mr. Dailey has pursued graduate studies at the University of Maryland and is in the final stages of the Doctor of Arts in History Degree at Carnegie-Mellon University. He has taught at GCC since September, 1971 and served as College Registrar from 1973 through 1977 in addition to his teaching responsibilities.

On Criticism . . .

A popular situation comedy utilized by television writers over the past decade involves a husband and wife arguing over who works the hardest, the husband at the office or the wife at home with the kids. To settle the argument the two switch jobs for a day. As the story progresses, each of them usually finds out that the other's job is a lot tougher than ever imagined.

One of the easiest, and thus most popular, types of criticism to dish out is that which involves telling another person he is "not doing his job." Nearly everyone receives this type of criticism — school teachers, managers of offices and businesses, law enforcement officials, judges, officers of clubs and organizations, street cleaners, ministers, county administrators, husbands, wives, children, . . . oh, and let's not forget elected officials. Too often people criticise others for "not doing their job" when they themselves know little about that job.

We should all work to recognize the fact that no occupation, if done well, is easy. It would be interesting and certainly enlightening if we could all switch jobs and positions with each other for a week at a time. No doubt there would suddenly be a lot less criticism and a lot more understanding and respect. But of course, we can't do that. So the next best thing is to make sure, beyond a shadow of a doubt, that criticism is in order and deserved before engaging in it.

Criticism, when constructive and well-justified, is an asset and a necessity. However, when based on heresay and rumor, it is destructive and inhibiting.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

As a former resident of Garrett County, I have been reading with interest, the pros and cons over the attempted tax increase, now in litigation.

I refer to the editorial on page 4 of The Republican, dated July 25, 1979, "Progress or Regress?" It was obvious that the writer glossed over the issue, i.e., "was the law violated". (Quote supplied). The contents were slanted to make it appear that Delegate Bolden was wasting his time on "insignificant technicalities" The article further interred that all three Commissioners should vote yea or nay, regardless of the fact that one commissioner had doubts about the legality of the issue.

It is also noted that Judge Thayer does not intend to set a speed record in adjudicating the case. It should be a simple case for a competent Judge, either a law has been violated or it has not. Also the question as to whether or not the judge had the authority to rule that the adjusted tax bills could be sent to the taxpayers. If this authority was not vested in Judge Thayer, one wonders about his capability to render proper decisions from the bench.

Delegate Bolden was elected by the voters, (apparently without the support of The Republican) to insure that their rights are protected among his other duties. This is the reason for his legal action.

In simple terms, my interest lies in whether or not a law has been circumvented. Is this reasonable?

Colonel Joe G. May,
U.S.A.F. (Retired)
Shreveport, LA.

Editor:

Thanks to the efforts of Commissioner Gregg and Delegate Bolden, the taxpayers of Garrett County have been spared a tax increase which would have been 29 cents over the constant yield rate as established by the state of Md. and upheld by Judge Thayer.

I believe that the budget and tax rate was proposed and justified by Marshall Rickert, clerk to the county commissioners. Now that the time has come to cut the budget, the present administration is determined to pursue a course of continual confusion. If the new commissioners had established their own administrative staff this unfortunate situation would have been avoided.

Now that the budget cut is inevitable, the school budget will suffer a percentage of this cut. Most taxpayers will agree that the salaries of the teachers is the last thing needed to be reduced. I fear that waste and extravagance at the Board of Education will be protected by selfish interests, while the educational process will suffer at the local school level. By shifting the burden of sacrifice from the wasteful bureaucracy to the vital functions of county government, the administration is deliberately perpetrating a crisis to re-enforce the myth that the mandatory budget cut will be a disaster.

I feel that the time has come for the heads of the county offices to pull together to make this reduced budget a success, and to replace the ones that refuse to work toward this goal with personnel that will.

Signed:
Gary L. Fitzwater

Dear Editor:

I find last week's letters to the Editor interesting, and disgusting.

I am surprised that Mr. Sincell gave Mrs. Miller an answer to her letter. Why should the name of a woman so assaulted be published? Anyone with a scanner hears a little of what happens at the Blue Moon Saloon. The Republican is more welcome at my home without their advertisements.

Thanks for Judge Thayer's tax decision. Perhaps a few suggestions to the Commissioners may help. The superintendent of schools could live well on a greatly reduced salary; a number of unneeded appointees in different departments would be a blessing to the taxpayers were they in private enterprises; the almost empty bus still runs regardless with gas almost $1.00/gallon, plus busses, salaries, insurance, licenses, etc. Two mailings to thousands of taxpayers were sent although the commissioners knew this case was pending.

Now the hospital debt of $4,775,000 (who knows how much more until it is finished), on top of our former commissioners' debt for courthouse and jail spending mistakes. Dr. Mance, whom I suppose is the oldest doctor on the staff, says a new hospital is unnecessary and unneeded.

The health department is another angle with all its immunizations it is trying to force onto the people at taxpayers expense.

So we'll let the joggers jog if they have nothing constructive to do while they exercise such as mowing the lawn, or the enjoyment from seeing well cared for vegetables grow to fill the food cupboards and freezers. It would be safer for everyone concerned, drivers of vehicles, riders and joggers if the joggers wore enough clothing that they would not draw the drivers' attention from the road. No doubt it would reduce the "honks" too.

Bye
A Garrett County Citizen

Dear Mr. Editor:

As a reader and advertiser of your paper I think I must write you this letter.

For many years your paper has posed as conservative. Many of your editorials point this way. Some editorials and much undertone indicate your are ultra-liberal. Some of the things that come to my mind are 1—You favored sex education in the school; 2—You favored the Youghiogheny Valley regulations; 3—You have favored numerous liberal projects and candidates in this county; 4—You opposed California's proposition 13; 5—Now you oppose lower taxes in Garrett County. The voters demonstrated they were opposed to government liberal spending last election. Now it seems you and others are trying to make the tax payers sorry. We hear cries and "obs from the liberals. But why so busy no one thought about the great savings that was to be brought about by the new courthouse buildings we were sold on?

Why has no one thought about taking sex education out of the schools? Or using our present good classrooms as they are? Why not cut the health department in half and everyone would be better off. Many other projects are the same but no mention has been made of these. The 12% cut on the courthouse staff would be an excellent start. If our officials could get their heads on straight instead of chopping at a couple of people interested in the good of the people we would not need that fat padding.

Yours truly,
Homer Mellott

Editor:

If it were not so serious, it would be amusing to observe how very timid Marshall Rickert and some county commissioners, can be about getting down to facts when they discuss cutting their ten million dollar budget.

They made up a big budget that is not lawful. Now they disclaim responsibility for it. They blame Gregg who refused to sign their budget, and Delegate Bolden who brought them to Court.

The budget Mr. Rickert submitted provides a Contingent fund of $250,000 to spend for anything they might wish. It provides $192,000 to be spent for solid waste. Before Rickert started making up budgets the Contingent fund was less than $50,000 and solid waste was taken care of by each home owner outside the incorporated towns.

Rickert increased the Roads Department budget from $1,950,000 to $2,600,000 (an increase of $700,000). It contains $26,243.00 for the Public Officers Association, to entertain and make "Hanky Panky" at places like Ocean City, and they call it a tight budget.

It provides $48,144. salary and operating expenses for Zoning and Planning, an increase of over $10,000. Our citizens can do their own planning much better than any appointed bureaucrats.

Civil Defense is increased from $13,604. to $19,850. This is another boondoggle. The Commission on Aging is increased from $4,000. to $6,000.

The Department of Education is increased by $504,000. The Sheriff's Department is increased from $159,000 to $244,000, an increase of $85,000. Nearly every department is increased and the increases amount to TWO MILLION DOLLARS or more.

It would be easy to cut one million dollars from Rickert's budget and no useful county service would have to be curtailed.

Commissioners Hunter and Paugh should fire Rickert and their attorney and then help Gregg to make up a new Budget.

Clifford Friend,
Accident, Md.

Editor:

May I comment upon a portion of your editorial of Aug. 8, 1979.

In the past I, too, have complained about potholes, but let me say that I will gladly take the bumps if it means a reduced tax rate.

I strongly support Ernie Gregg and DeCorsey Bolden. Let's not forget that Mr. Bolden was one of the few elected officials who tried to do something about the outrageous fuel rate adjustment tax perpetrated by the fat cat public utility companies.

practical, conservative, and achievable, he had explained. The town and individual businessmen will be responsible for financing the implementation of the suggestions. He had also explained that financial aid was available to those who wanted it.

Smokey Stanton stated that the town council's next action will probably be a formal response to Friedman near the end of this week detailing certain commitments of the town such as office space for the team, materials, and a contact person. The council will meet this Thursday to discuss this and a possible date for the meeting with Friedman and local merchants.

In speaking of the town's role in the project, Stanton explained that the commitment of the town and merchants will be required through every phase of the one-year program and will extend beyond that. County planning director, Tim Dugan, described it as a "good solid base" for continued activity in the town's development.

In a meeting of the Downtown Development Corporation Tuesday evening, the members began preparation of a list of areas needing attention in the town. The group will meet again before September to prepare its own priority list of the town's needs to present to Friedman and his staff.

School Board Hears County Curriculum Progress Report

The prospect of another budget cut hung over the Garrett County Board of Education like the Sword of Damocles as it listened to reports of progress in the county curriculum development during its meeting last Thursday.

Dr. William Buser, superintendent of schools, pointed out that although the curriculum items almost invariably have a prominent place in the school board priorities, "the curriculum program is related to the budget."

"In light of our unapproved budget and the current county financial dilemma, the rate at which we can proceed in any area may be affected by actions the county commissioners take," Buser stated.

The board held off further comments concering the budget until the executive session later that afternoon. During that meeting, the board reaffirmed the superintendent's current action to process no purchase orders for equipment and supplies and to place a hold on filling planned positions until further action by the Garrett County Commissioners. They also authorized the superintendent to release the next payroll for twelve-month employees as approved in the original budget.

In speaking for the Board, President Herbert C. Harman indicated its desire to find out as quickly as possible the action the Commissioners would be taking. The Board will request a meeting with the Commissioners if it receives no official action from them in the next week.

During the regular business meeting and following a report by Albert Ringer, assistant superintendent in curriculum and instruction, on the countywide curriculum program, President Harman stated that the curriculum is the bottom line of education and must be emphasized and given high priority.

In his report, Ringer outlined progress over the past three years in the Board of Education's aim to develop a comprehensive curriculum program developed at the county level and implemented at the school level, which would provide similar basic educational experiences and opportunities to all county students. "Our task together," Ringer told the Board, "is to provide the best education possible at the least amount of expense to the greatest number of children in the Garrett County public schools."

He showed that the greatest progress has been made in improving county curricula in the elementary schools, followed by the middle schools, and then the secondary schools.

John Rickman, Southern Middle School principal, and Thomas Fowler, Northern Middle School principal, gave reports on the implementation of the middle school curricula in the middle schools. President Harman raised the question of leadership appointments in the middle school. He stated he had received reports from teachers that leadership roles have not been clearly delineated and asked that the principals and staff review the situation and "solve it now."

Following a discussion of a staff-developed transportation proposal, the Board instructed the superintendent to develop a policy on the use of county vehicles which would place approximately nine cars in a Board-stationed car pool and would permit only five employees who have night duties to drive county cars home.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, assistant superintendent for administrative services, and George Brady, supervisor of maintenance and operations, described additional steps to be taken this year to continue the attempt to conserve energy in county schools. This fall, George Brady and Don Ringer, county electrician, will evaluate operations at each school and make recommendations for more efficient energy use. Ryscavage also mentioned that low cost energy saving devices may be installed, such as thermostat guards and time clocks.

The first phase of the evaluation will concentrate on electricity use, Ryscavage explained. The second phase emphasis will be on heating and a follow up of electricity use. He noted that the schools would comply with U.S. presidential guidelines and state directives this winter by maintaining room temperatures at 65° in the middle and high schools and at 68° in the elementary schools.

In other school board business, the board heard a grievance claim from the Garrett County Teachers' Association protesting a principal's interpretation of an article in the GCTA negotiated agreement with the Board of Education concerning student misconduct. After hearing testimony from GCTA spokesman James Whattam and Attorney Susan Crawford, who was filling in for the school board's attorney, the board indicated the case would be further considered and a decision made.

Albert Coviello, supervisor of pupil services, reported that home teaching of pregnant girls could no longer be financed by Special Education monies because it was not considered a verifiable handicap. He stated that the county spent $1,563.68 last year to teach seven students, all above sixteen years old, at home. The board members agreed that funds would be directed towards the continuation of this program.

George Brady announced that thirty CETA positions, along with the addition of a staff person to manage payment and hiring, were requested for this winter.

Sheriff's Men Check Larcenies

A cassette player, a tire, rim and hubcaps are among the items police are seeking following larceny reports filed this past week.

Michael A. Dayton, Westernport, reported that during the night of August 9, someone removed a Craig cassette player from his vehicle parked at Wynlyn's. Total loss was set at $150.

The Department of Social Services in Mt. Lake Park reported that during the night of August 7 someone removed a left front tire and rim and two hub caps from a state car. Estimated loss was $75.

W. H. Fratz Gas Mart, Route 219 south of Oakland, apparently was entered during the night of August 7. Someone pried open the front door and also a cigarette machine. A coin box was taken, with a total estimated loss of $15.

Edgar Tracy, Route 5, Oakland, told police that during the night of August 19, someone had used a club to knock over his mailbox. Estimated damage was $5.

Thomas Sereno, proprietor of Sereno's Place, Route 39, reported that someone had attempted to enter the tavern during the night of August 8. A rear window and screen door were broken, and there were pry marks on both the rear wooden door and front door, but apparently no entry was made.

"The following is a paid political announcement and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of anyone in his right mind."

Commissioners

cerning his junkyard license.

Bids were opened for the purchase of a modular four-wheel drive ambulance for the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and for expansion of the Garrett County Animal Shelter.

Eastern Rescue, Inc., with a bid of $32,000, was the apparent low bidder for the modular unit, which will include medical equipment. The county will get joint funding from the Department of Highway Safety for local funds.

Other bidders were Conway Coach, Inc., Modular Ambulance Corporation, Ritter M&M Sales, and Springfield Equipment Company.

Apparent low bidder for the animal shelter was HMF Enterprises, with a bid of $32,900. According to Gary Mullich, project coordinator, the expansion would include enclosure of the dog run area for year-round use; a small office for the dog warden, storage space, and housing for an incinerator.

Mr. Mullich noted, however, that funding for the latter project has not been guaranteed, pending budget cuts by the commissioners.

Kenneth Richmond, administrator of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, met with the commissioners to clarify their position in regard to $108,000 specified from the county for space for the health department at the hospital.

Mr. Richmond pointed out that it had been his understanding, and he had included in his certificate of need submitted for the hospital expansion plan, that the county would pay $108,000 to acquire some 25,000 square feet for the hospital.

He was concerned that at last Tuesday's meeting the commissioners had reportedly been taken by surprise by the $108,000 amount when questioned by local radio announcer Tom Butscher, and was asking if he misunderstood the commissioner's intent to finance the county share.

The commissioners said that they had expressed willingness to acquire the space, but would not discuss amounts or time of payment until a determination had been made on who actually owns the hospital. "We certainly would not pay $108,000 to ourselves, if the county already owns the building," said one commissioner.

Autumn Weather Plagues County

As a coldfront sweeps over Maryland toward the Middle Atlantic states, Garrett County shivers with the dread anticipation that Autumn may already be here.

Falling temperatures and chilly rains marked the week's weather. The high temperature, low temperature, and precipitation level (pr.) for the week are as follows: Wednesday, 84, 63, pr. .66; Thursday, 84, 57, pr. .05; Friday, 82, 65, pr. 0; Saturday, 78, 58, pr. .62; Sunday, 63, 52, pr. 1.06; Monday, 71, 44, pr. trace; Tuesday, 68, 54, pr. 0; the overnight low was 46 degrees.

Cost Of School Meals To Increase

The Garrett County Board of Education, at their August 9 meeting, adopted meal price increases for the 1979-80 school year as a result of a review of the operation of the school food service program.

The new pricing plan will include $.30 for the cost of student breakfasts, $.45 for the cost of elementary student lunches, $.55 for middle school lunches, and $.60 for high school lunches.

The price for white milk purchased in addition to that served with student meals will be $.15 whereas milk purchased under the special milk program (not served during regular meals) will be priced at $.07. This difference in the price of milk is due to the subsidy by the federal government of the cost of milk in the special milk program.

Finally, the price for adult lunches will be raised to $1.25 to remain in compliance with state and federal guidelines.

For further details, parents may contact the principal of their child's school or the food service department at the Board of Education Office, Oakland.

Charles Strauss, Sr. Retires As Camp Hickory Director

Charles F. Strauss, Sr., the person who dreamed of and developed the Outdoor Education School at Camp Hickory, retired from his responsibilities as director of the camp this past July 1.

Strauss assumed full-time responsibility in teaching, programming, and directing the county camp in 1974 when Camp Hickory became a year-round outdoor education center, serving students K-12.

The camp was a dream come true for Strauss, who recognized a need for an outdoor educational school early in his teaching career in the county. In his own words, "I must confess that teaching conservation as Camp Hickory, developing its programs and facilities has been my real life since I was given the challenge for its development. It is very gratifying and rewarding to witness the enthusiasm and appreciation by students and counselors attending the Camp Hickory School. The work has been extremely important in making my life exciting and interesting."

Strauss was born in Gary, West Virginia, December 18, 1916, in the heart of the West Virginia coal fields. His public school education was completed upon graduation from Thomas High School, Thomas, West Virginia, in 1934.

Prior to entry into college, he worked three years in the coal mines. In 1937 he enrolled in Potomac State College, transferring at the end of two years to West Virginia University where he began his studies in biological sciences.

During World War II, he served in the United States Naval Reserves, spending 29 of the 39 months overseas in the Southwest Pacific.

After being discharged in 1945, Strauss began his teaching career in the Accident High School at Accident. There he not only taught academic classes but became the coach for soccer, basketball, and baseball.

He resumed his studies at West Virginia University during the summers after being discharged and received his B.S. degree in biology in 1950.

He attended a number of other schools during the summer; namely, Western Maryland College, University of Missouri, University of Rhode Island, University of Maryland, and Michigan State to obtain his advanced professional certificate in biology and outdoor education.

When the five Garrett County high schools were consolidated in 1952, Strauss began teaching biology in Northern High School, Accident, and continued there until 1964.

During these 12 years Strauss began to visualize and dream that some day there might be an Outdoor Educational School in a natural laboratory where conservation and the love for nature might be taught.

Steady progress was made by his biology classes during the 12 years in developing the wooded area of the high school grounds as an outdoor laboratory.

In 1964 he became a traveling resource teacher. He then realized the urgency for environmental education for Garrett County children.

When funds became available under Title I, ESEA, he was given the opportunity to develop outdoor education on a County basis for the underprivileged and deprived children.

Strauss was recognized for his achievement with the camp in 1977 when he was voted State Conservation Teacher-of-the-Year.

At an Arbor Day program on April 6, 1978, the camp received a Wye Oak (white) sapplling and a wooden plaque honoring the camp. Also, Strauss received a plaque to acknowledge his devotion and service to the camp and the students of Garrett County.

Joseph Winters, assistant director, and Deane Vitez arranged a retirement dinner for Strauss June 30 at Camp Hickory at 6:30 p.m.

Members of the Board of Education including Dr. William Buser, Albert Ringer and Herbert Harman along with professional associates, friends and relatives attended the dinner.

Among the gifts presented to Strauss was a walnut plaque bearing the message: "In recognition of Charles F. Strauss, Sr., for his sincere dedication to the youth of Garrett County, June 30, 1979."

Strauss resides with his wife, Mary, in Accident.

Town View Village Becoming A Reality

by Mark Morey

Just over a year ago a group of citizens from the town of Accident and its surrounding area began discussing some of the problems which the senior citizens of that area experience from time to time. They found that many of the problems were caused or worsened by geographic isolation, physical illness or disabflities, inadequate income and the severe winter weather. This group of concerned citizens decided to investigate the steps they might take to eliminate or lessen these problems.

Under the concerned and enthusiastic leadership of Pastors William Carlson and Frederick Illick, a larger interest group was formed. They discovered that a different form of housing would address in a positive manner most of the problems they had identified. Thus, the group adopted as their goal the provision of affordable, rental housing in which senior citizens might retain their independence and enjoy not only a warm and secure home, but also the proximity of each other for daily fellowship in a close community atmosphere. Subsequently, with the assistance of attorney Jim Sherbin, on December 6, 1978, the group was registered with the State of Maryland as a non-profit corporation named the Accident Community Housing Corporation (ACHC).

One of the first and most important tasks of the group was to elect a Board of Directors capable of providing strong leadership and of maintaining an organized and energetic approach to the task. The first year's Board members and officers were elected as follows: president, The Reverend Frederick S. Illick; vice president, William Harman; secretary, Miss Esther Opel; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Silber Deniker; parliamentarian, The Reverend William Carlson; member, Mrs. August Neil; member, Mayor Richard J. Kolb. The Corporation itself has more than sixty members, all of whom have contributed support and valuable recommendations.

ACHC's next task was to determine what type of residential units would be most appropriate to meet their goals, what type and number of units would be compatible with the rural community, and by what means the Corporation could secure money for developing the project. The Corporation contacted many agencies including Farmers Home Administration, the Tressler-Lutheran Foundation, Garrett County Development Corporation and the Garrett County Housing Office while trying to determine how and where to secure funds. Deborah Lawton, County Housing Coordinator, has provided valuable technical assistance to the Corporation, has conducted necessary research and prepared the appropriate loan applications on the Board's behalf.

The project's primary source of funding is Farmers Home Administration's "515" Rural Rental Housing Program. This program provides a loan of as much as 97% of the non-profit corporation's development costs. The loan will be repaid by the project's rental income over a period of 50 years. As a non-profit entity, ACHC is not required to provide the 5% equity which is a prerequisite for participation in the program by limited dividend or for-profit corporations. ACHC, however, needs to raise 2-3% of the total project cost to contribute to the initial year's operating expenses.

Because Farmers Home Administration does not advance loans for preconstruction expenses (legal, architectural, surveying . . .), the Corporation also submitted a loan application to the Maryland Appalachian Housing Fund to cover these costs. This loan was approved for a total of 80% of the needed funds. ACHC has raised the complementary 20% of this amount. The Board received much assistance and support from Katharine Nix Schultz, that program's manager, throughout the development of the entire project. The Board also stated that numerous individuals, organizations, churches and businesses have made generous contributions.

Most recently, the Board received final approval from Farmers Home Administration, which has reserved $651,000 to fund the project costs for "Town View Village" (the name submitted by Ricky Kolb and chosen by the Corporation from hundreds submitted during their "Name the Project" contest). The Corporation now faces the task of continuing its fund-raising campaign to obtain an additional $16,000 for initial operating expenses. Some efforts already undertaken or planned are a food concession at the Summer Fest, an auction held at the Accident Town Garage, and a door-to-door fund drive in the Accident community. The Board hopes for the cooperation of all interested persons in this drive and stresses that, although it is expected that the project will serve primarily residents of the Accident community, it will be open on a first-come, first-served basis to all senior citizens.

To be eligible to reside in the apartments, a person must be at least 62 years of age. In the case of a married couple, either husband or wife (not necessarily both) must meet this requirement. A person younger than 62 may reside with a senior citizen only if 1) the person is considered a member of the family of the senior citizen or 2) his or her occupancy can be shown to be necessary for the well-being of the senior citizen. There are no income restrictions, but Farmers Home Administration rent-supplements will be available only to those residents whose housing expense would constitute more than 25% of their monthly income. Supplements will be granted on a first-come, first served-basis after certification of the applicant's need.

A special Site Selection Committee chose the site for Town View Village. It will be located behind the Accident Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library, adjacent to the Town's recently-approved park to be funded under the Maryland Program Open Space. The site is now under an option with the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav A. Baumann, who have agreed to sell two acrea to ACHC and, quite generously, to donate a third acre. Access to the site will be from the Accident-Friendsville Road by a road behind the Town Garage. The site is a convenient distance from local shops, churches, bank, post-office, professional building and the fire hall.

The Corporation's architectural firm, the Selck-Minnerly Group from Pittsburgh, has carefully designed the building to take full advantage of the natural slope of the site so that both floors of the building open on ground level to the outside. The project consists of 20, self-contained one-bedroom units, each of which is equipped with an emergency alarm system and enhanced by either a private patio or balcony. Two of the units have been specifically designed to meet the needs of the handicapped and all of the units meet the Minimum Property Standards of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for barrier-free access for the elderly and handicapped. The units will be served by a fully-equipped laundry room on each floor and by an adjoining community center for recreational and meeting activities. The center will be equipped with a small kitchen and the Board hopes to take advantage of either a hot-meals program or meals-on-wheels to alleviate the housekeeping burdens of some of the tenants.

Now that project approval has been received from Farmers Home Administration, the working drawings and specifications which will provide the basis for contractors' bids have been ordered. After these items have been reviewed by both the ACHC Board and Farmers Home Administration, formal bid advertisements will be placed in local newspapers. Bid procedures and submittals will be reviewed by the ACHC Board of Directors, representatives of Selck-Minnerly and the Garrett County Housing Office, and by Ms. Susan Crawford (of Burnett, Eiswert and Crawford), the Corporation's attorney. It is anticipated that the project will be open for occupancy by Autumn 1980.

Questions about any aspect of Town View Village should be directed to Pastor Frederick Illick (ACHC President) at 826-8170 or to Ms. Deborah Lawton (Garrett County Housing Coordinator) at 334-4443.

Remember "Rock" Averill?

Baseball Hall Of Famer Visits County

by Phil Caruso
with Jim Willis

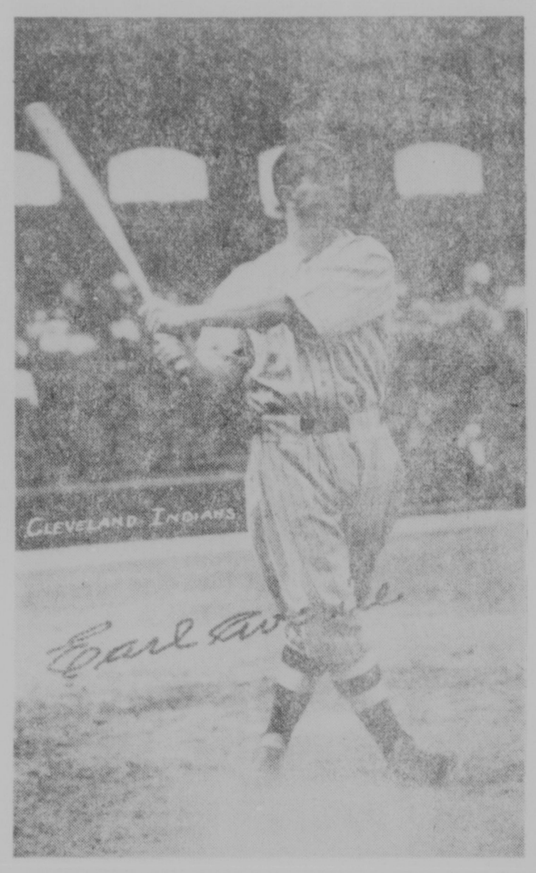
Garrett County was honored this past week with a visit from former Cleveland Indian baseball great, Howard Earl "Rock" Averill. He, along with his wife, was visiting the residence of Dr. and Mrs. H. James Fredericks, Youghiogheny Mountain Resort. Averill visited Garrett County following his guest appearance at the recent Baseball Hall of Fame induction held in Cooperstown, N. Y. He has been a member since his own induction in 1975, and the Averills were accompanied this year by the Fredericks.

Earl "Rock" Averill compiled a .318 lifetime batting average along with a record of 238 home runs. He twice led the American League in hits with over 200, and had a total of 232 hits in 1936. His career spanned over 12 years, from 1929 until 1941, and he played with Cleveland, Detroit, and the Boston Braves. Ten of those years were spent with Cleveland.

Averill was discovered while playing ball in his hometown of Snohomish, Washington. In 1926 he was sent to Butte, Montana, where he hit .429 during a six week period, and the Indians then sent him to their top farm club, the San Francisco Seals in the Old Pacific Coast League.

After three years with the Seals he was promoted to the Indians and began his major league career by homering his first time at bat. Averill drove in over 100 runs during five separate seasons and was named to the American League All-Star team five times. He was the star of the 1934 All-Star game when he doubled, tripled, and smacked three RBI's to lead the American League to victory.

Averill is also known as the man who cut Dizzy Dean's pitching career short by hitting him on the foot with a line drive during the 1937 All-Star game.



When asked who was the greatest player he ever played with or against, Averill cited Charlie Gehringer, the great Hall of Fame second baseman of the Detroit Tigers. He also stated that "Lefty" Grove (originally from Lonaconing) was the toughest pitcher he'd ever faced, and that the best competition came from the old Yankees and Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics. The highlight of his career was the day he hit four homers and drove in 11 RBIs in a double-header against the Washington Senators in 1930. The 11 RBIs stood as the major league record for many years.

Earl Averill was inducted into Baseball's Hall of Fame in 1975 along with Ralph Kiner, Judy Johnson, Bucky Harris, and Billy Herman. When asked what his reaction was when informed that he was elected into that astute body, he said, "I was surprised and thought it was about time." He explained that he was glad he'd been inducted during his lifetime and wished that many of the other "oldtimers" could have been alive when inducted.

Averill's only regret in baseball is that he was kept down in the minors too long. In his three years with the Seals he hit .330, .339, and .356 — and yet was not called up to the Indians until 1929.

"There is no way a ball player today would be in the minors that long with those kinds of averages," he said.

In further comparison with the baseball of his era, he said of today's game, "It's like playing with a golfball now, the way the ball flies out of the park." He also believes that Jim Rice and Fred Lynn are the two best ball players in the game today. He then talked about what the price tags of some of the players of his day would be worth if they were playing at current baseball salaries. "Babe Ruth would be worth a million!"

Averill never competed for a pennant with the Indians, but did play in the 1940 World Series with Detroit. In addition to that honor, the stadium in his hometown was named after him and he is one of only five Cleveland Indians to have his number retired — good ol' #3.

Averill advises young players seeking pro status, "Always take the opportunity to play in a better class of ball when you can, and you must be dedicated to your goal." He added, "the most important ingredient for playing pro-ball is that you must have the desire; if you have the ability, the scouts will find you now more than ever before."

Following his pro career, Averill spent the next 30 years in the florist and motel business until his retirement in 1971. He still lives in Snohomish, a small town 35 miles out of Seattle, where he and his wife, Joette, have been married for 57 years. They have four sons and 18 grandchildren.

One of his sons, Earl Douglas, played five years of major league ball with the Indians, Cubs, and Phillies.

In closing he commented that Garrett County is a beautiful area and that he enjoyed his visit here. Perhaps he could be lured into playing for Garrett Community College in a couple of years.

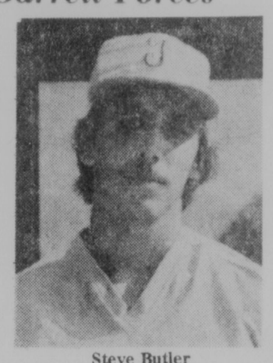
Laurence Nesselrodt



Steve Butler

by Jim Willis

Garrett Community College baseball coach, Phil Caruso announced this week the signings of Laurence Nesselrodt, a transfer from Potomac State College, and Steve Butler from Surrattesville High School, Prince Georges County.

Laurence Nesselrodt is transferring into the Laker program after sitting out a year at Potomac State. He is a graduate from Petersburg High School and will be coming to Garrett as the leading candidate for the short stop position.

Laurence is already well known in Garrett County baseball circles because of his experience with the Grantsville Post 214 American Legion team which he played for under Coach Caruso for two years. He has also played two years with the Oakland Pen-Mar team and was an All-Star player with the Little League and the Pony League. A member of the 1975 West Virginia Senior Division State Champs, he played four years of High School Ball and hit .408, .310, and .452 his sophomore, junior and senior years. He was selected the Most Outstanding Senior and made the All-PVC team his senior year.

For two years, Laurence travelled over 120 miles roundtrip to attend American Legion ball practice and games. He did this despite playing on a team that lost 21 of 24 games and because of this effort, Laurence became the first player from the Mt. District to win a National Achievement Award from the American Legion Headquarters in Indiana. Laurence holds several Post 214 records and in his second year, was voted the team's MVP and also won the Coaches Award.

Coach Caruso stated, "When I received the OK to begin my recruiting the top player on my list was Laurence — not only because of his ability, but his desire, spirit, and enthusiasm for the game. He is the most outstanding player I have ever coached and I'm just totally delighted that I have the chance to work with him another two years. He is without a doubt the most popular player in this area. Laurence is a major league prospect and needs only to refine his weaknesses and get the break he needs to be drafted."

Laurence will major in Business and hopes to transfer to a four-year school upon graduation from Garrett.

Future teammate, Steve Butler, will come into the Laker program as a pitcher/infielder. He played two years of high school ball at Surrattesville, in addition to five years of Boys Club ball, one year of senior division Babe Ruth ball, and one year of Federation ball. Steve was a member of this year's Babe Ruth Maryland State Championship team and finished the year with a 5-2 record, 1.53 ERA, and he gave up only 11 hits. He also hit a .348 this summer as a follow up to his .302 for his high school team.

His two-year record at Surrattesville was 8-4 and he had an ERA of 1.80 during his senior year.

Steve was twice named the Player of the Week by the Washington Star, and was selected for the All-County team in Prince Georges County this year. Steve won the MVP and Best Pitcher award in Junior High and was recently recruited by Towson State before signing with GCC.

Coach Caruso stated, "Steve has very good speed on his fast ball and has all the tools to be an outstanding pitcher. He is 6'2" and 185 pounds and with some work with Coach Helmick, Steve could develop into a top Junior College pitcher. He will also be a candidate for the third base position, should he demonstrate his ability to hit.

Like Laurence, Steve will major in Business and hopes to transfer to a four-year school after graduating from Garrett Community College.

ENJOY YOUR INFLATION HEDGE
The best way to get people to talk about economics is to have prices skyrocket. People who worry about inflation aren't kidding; the problem is real and serious. But what can we do to protect ourselves?
If you are a homeowner, you are doing it unknowingly because one of the safest and surest hedges against inflation is the ownership of real estate. Your "shelter" expense will stay fairly steady even in times of rising prices. The monthly payments on a mortgage don't change at all.
If you decide to sell, you can be confident — except in a forced sale — of getting back more money than before inflation hit. And, if you're in need of cash, your rising equity in your home increases your potential borrowing power. So, if you're a homeowner, you've been an effective economist all along and didn't know it.
If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

The woodcraft Add-on unit is designed to be installed in conjunction with your present furnace so that you may gain the efficient and economical heat from wood.

The Oneida Royal Woodcraft unit can also be used as a separate system. That is, as an upflow forced air furnace or as a counterflow forced air furnace, whichever fits your individual requirements. Use it to burn wood when and if the other fuels are not available or simply to cut down on the high-priced, scarce fuel that you are now using.

Blue Barn Review

by Bart Naylor

After trashing New York, east coast writers have turned their attentions to California. In "Annie Hall," Woody Allen flies to California to chase his girlfriend. He is picked up by a friend in a sports car, who wears a space hat: "Gamma rays, Max. Gotta protect myself from gamma rays."

In "California Suite," the king of situation comedy, Neil Simon takes up the subject of the motley southern California culture. He uses a vacation hotel full of out-of-towners to take pot shots at the society where everything seems to be "in." One vacationer reports during sightseeing, "I thought it was a Moroccan villa—turned out to be a Texaco station."

"California Suite," a collection of four vignettes, is directed by Milburn Mehlhop. His instructions are careful, controlling every intonation in the speeches of his actors. A respect for Neil Simon's language is clear, and he works to maximize the playwright's acerbic and probing wit.

Mehlhop has double cast all of his actors, a tour de force of their talents. Cather MacCallum is a nervous, alcoholic actress during the academy awards in one scene. She plays the part with precision, with a weary but struggling voice, and expressive face.

Her husband, an English antique dealer, is played by Gerry McLaughlin. He is stiff and subdued. In the very next scene, however, he plays the victim of a disastrous vacation. His arms flail, he employes his full voice range, and he moves about like a dynamo.

Equally active are Larry Filiaci and Laurie Daniels. Filiaci rages through the suite, insulting his friends, then forcing them to say they had a good time with him. Laurie Daniels plays a cutesy clutsy wife, who "wears every kind of perfume on the market. Babe, Charlie, Milton, Harvey . . . "

Once again, the show stealer is Joan Statkus. She plays the victim of a violent tennis game, who tries to get a doctor for her broken leg. "If you call one in Beverly Hills, they'll probably send a psychiatrist."

For Simon, this is a fairly sophisticated comedy. He deals with some familiar subjects, such as everyday irritations, which he mastered in "Odd Couple," plus some stickier ones, like homosexuality, and alcoholism. While he does not try to moralize, the vignettes are insightful, and of course, always funny.

Flood Leaves Town In Ruins; Death Toll May Reach 15,000

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Flood waters receding from the industrial city of Morvi revealed a grisly scene of mass death and destruction today, sending the estimated death toll as high as 15,000.

About 1,000 bodies had been recovered from the ruins of the northwestern city by Tuesday and rescue workers said many bloated corpses were still were rotting on streets and rooftops, in houses and temples.

Morvi, about 300 miles north of Bombay, was inundated by flood waters up to 30 feet high Saturday when the upstream Monchi dam burst under the pressure of 48 hours of torrential rains.

The tons of swirling water rushed through the city of about 60,000 persons without warning during the evening prayer time, completely covering Morvi within minutes, one witness said.

The Hindustani Times of New Delhi reported the waters submerged a hospital in Morvi, killing all patients, doctors, nurses and staff inside — an estimated total of 200 persons.

"The death toll will be between 10,000 and 15,000," Vallabhai Patel, vice president of Gujurat state's ruling Janata Party, told reporters after inspecting the disaster site.

Other officials who visited what was left of Morvi had similar comments. "The toll will run into five figures," Gujurat Congress Party leader Jashwant Mehta said.

"It may take a month to assess the total loss," Chief Gujurat State Minister Babubhai Patel added.

Five days after the dam burst, there still were no reports on casualties and damage from a number of villages downstream from Morvi.

An Indian air force helicopter pilot who flew over the downstream area said all the straw-roofed, mud-wall houses of one village known to have about 5,000 people had been washed away and there was no trace of the residents.

Indian reporters who reached Morvi described the once-thriving manufacturing center as "a ghost city."

"Vultures were everywhere," said Sanat Jhaveri, a goldsmith who went to Morvi to search for his aunt. "Vultures on the treetops and vultures hovered over the collapsed houses.

"The smell of dead bodies ... it was a nauseating scene. Wherever I went I saw badly bloated bodies lying scattered in the streets."

Health authorities moved into Morvi as soon as the flood waters had subsided and began an emergency program to inoculate the survivors against cholera and other diseases that could be spread by the rotting corpses.

Morvi, formerly the capital of a princely state of the same name, was a mixture of Moslem and Hindu architecture, with temples palaces and old hunting lodges scattered through its streets.

Today, the architectural treasures are in ruins or filled with tons of mud.

Rescue Continues Of Yachtsmen Hit By Atlantic Gale

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI) — More than 100 yachts caught in a near-hurricane off the west coast of England struggled against still-perilous seas to reach safe harbor today in an international sailing race that became a race for survival.

At least 10 persons were known dead and 14 others were missing and feared swept away by the sudden storm that slammed into the 330 competitors in the Admiral's Cup race across the Atlantic approaches to Britain.

Most of those who perished were aboard British boats but two persons aboard the American yacht Ariadne drowned and two others were missing.

By early today, 193 ships were fully accounted for, including 19 sunken vessels, a Royal Navy spokesman said. That left 137 tiny vessels spread across hundreds of square miles of ocean still heading for shelter, their exact location unknown.

Race officials said they believed the great majority were safe but had switched off their radio sets as a safety precaution to allow distress calls to be heard. Many were believed to have sought shelter in isolated coves along the Irish and English coast.

There were still fears however for the smallest boats, which carried no radios.

The worst seas had abated but conditions were still moderate to rough and unlikely to ease before this afternoon, a Royal Navy spokesman said.

Four Royal Navy ships, a Dutch destroyer and a mixed fleet of merchant vessels and lifeboats were checking dozens of rafts for signs of life in an area 100 miles in diameter between Cornwall and Ireland while four helicopters and two submarine-hunting aircraft flew rescue sorties.

The 605-mile Admiral's Cup race from Cowes in southern England across open seas to the Fastnet Rock at the southeastern tip of Ireland is one of the world's premier yacht races. The freak storm that struck early Tuesday, tossing boats about like matchsticks in a sea whipped by near-hurricane gusts astonished even the most experienced seamen.

"I have been round the world twice and it is quite the worst weather I have seen," said veteran yachtsman Rob James.

Several survivors spoke of boats capsizing in waves as tall as a two-story house.

"When she went under all I remember was trying to hold my breath," said Arthur Moss, skipper of the Camargue, which carried a crew of eight. "My clothes were torn and my wrist watch wrenched off. Then our steering went.

"I never thought I would see a steering wheel complete with a man attached soar into the sea — the whole thing broke off. Thank God for our life ropes."

Englishman David Lewis aboard the yacht Culdrose described how he was plucked out of the sea by helicopter:

"Along came a gigantic wave. It just knocked us over as if the yacht were a matchstick. The yacht then righted itself, but with the mast being thrown all over the place, we had to jump to in the sea to get clear of the boat to give the helicopter pilot a chance."

Another survivor was multi-millionaire America's Cup yachtsman Ted Turner, owner of the Atlanta Braves. Turner's yacht, the Tenacious, crossed the finishing line at Plymouth at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday to take the overall lead in the race on corrected time. The journey took him 79 hours.

Adorable Adoptables

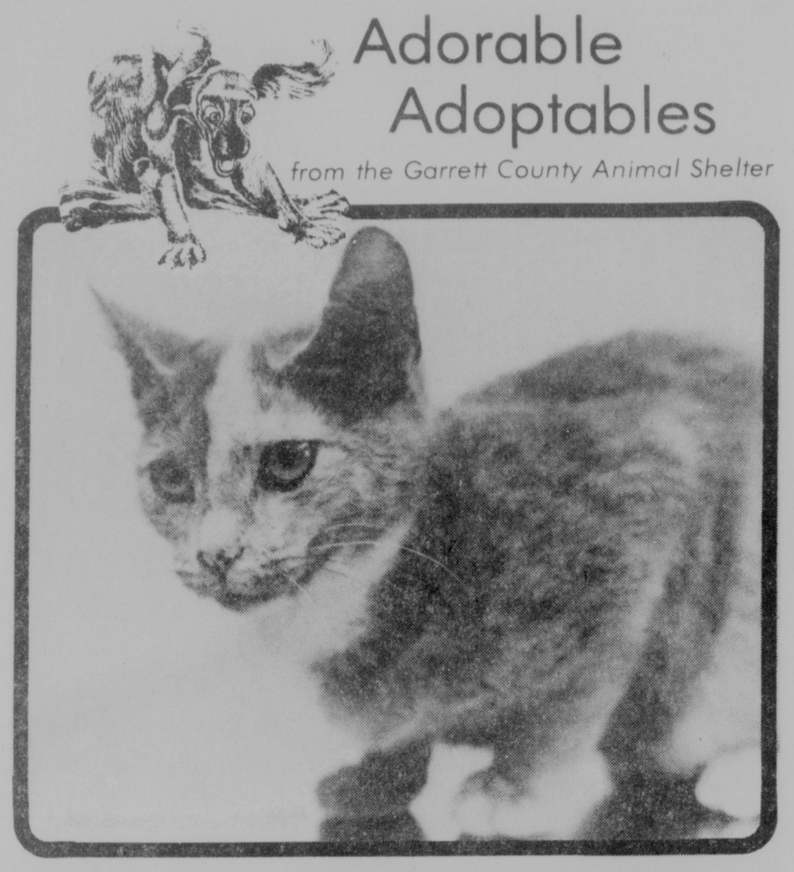
from the Garrett County Animal Shelter



COLORFUL KITTEN — This female kitten is one of the rarer color patterns to occur in the cat world. Genetically she is a blue/cream tortoiseshell which has caused her hair pigment to be diluted or "watered down." In layman's terms, that means she's very pretty with mottled gray and tan markings. Last week's puppy was adopted by Carollee Orendorf, and the holdover puppy from the previous week was adopted by Dan Elmlinger. This kitten, as well as a large selection of other pets, may be adopted from the Garrett County Animal Shelter, 334-3553. We still have a perfect record—every Adorable Adoptable to date has found a home.

Agency Attempts To Suspend License, Issues It Instead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It was a case of the right hand not knowing what the left hand was doing.

The District of Columbia government was trying to suspend the license of a used car dealer for many alleged violations. But before the Business Licenses and Permits Division could complete the suspension, a clerk went ahead and re-issued a license to Pennsylvania Avenue Auto Sales, the Washington Star reported today.

No one was more surprised than used car dealer Edward J. Kensic.

He said his application for renewal had been held up for months, but the new license arrived in the mail less than three weeks after the District had filed charges against him.

"I certainly was surprised," he told the newspaper. "The fact of the matter is I have my license and you can't take away what I already have."

The Star reported last month that Keensic had agreed in a settlement with District attorneys to surrender his license for 15 months.

But Kensic later decided to fight the charges and the Board of Appeals dismissed the case against him Monday after learning his license had already been renewed by the same agency that was bringing the charges.

Plane Crash Kills 150

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two passenger planes collided in the air over the Ukraine Saturday night, killing about 150 persons including the 14 members of a Soviet soccer team, Soviet sources said today.

The crash occurred near Dneprodzerzhinsk 500 miles south of Moscow.

One of the planes was an Aeroflot jetliner carrying the Pakhtakor soccer team from Tashkent to Minsk to play against Minsk Dynamo.

A Soviet newspaper reported only that the soccer team was killed in a plane crash and made no mention of an air collision or higher casualties.

But the Soviet sources said that about 150 persons were killed, including 14 members of the soccer team and three soccer officials.

Details were sketchy and the Soviet Sports Committee, Tass sports and the Civil Air Ministry said they had no information on the report.

The newspaper Pravda Vostoka published a brief article in its Wednesday edition saying only that the team was killed in a crash, but giving no further details.

The newspaper's executive secretary said in telephone interview from Moscow that the story was carried on the paper's front page. The newspaper does not reach Moscow until several days after it is published.

Miller Says Busch's Beer Not "Natural"

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the latest round of a continuing regulatory agency war between the nation's top two brewers, the No. 2 Miller Brewing Co., filed statements from three nutritionists saying the No. 1 Anheuser-Busch's use of the word "natural" in connection with its beers is deceptive. Busch's "highly processed, chemically modified and treated beers do not come within the accepted definition of 'natural,'" Miller said in a memo filed with the Federal Trade Commission. Miller had asked the FTC to order Busch to drop the "natural" ad campaign in February and filed the statements in support of that request.

Earlier, Busch had complained to the FTC Miller was promoting its Lowenbrau beer as "imported" when in reality it was all made in this country. Miller later dropped the imported claim.

Concern Continues To Mount Over Oil Slick Along Texas Coast

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (UPI) — While increasing amounts of oil pancakes are shoved farther north onto the shoreline, scientists' concern has turned to a growing super pool of crude floating on the edge of currents running almost the length of the 375-mile Texas Gulf Coast.

Brown blobs of oil averaging a foot wide washed up along 2 miles of shoreline 12 miles south of the Port Aransas jetties Tuesday and have begun coming ashore in greater concentrations from masses of oil extending as far as 360 miles off the coast. Scientists predict the oil will continue polluting shores for at least three weeks.

Large patches of the brown mousse were reported on shore about 5 to 12 miles south of Port Aransas today. The National Park Service also reported a quarter-mile stretch of mousse beached on the Natiol Seashore Park about 35 miles south of Port Aransas. Cleanup operations begin today in both areas.

Environmental Protection Agency spokesman Roger Meacham reported currents continued flowing today north along almost the entire coast as far as Sabine Pass, the northernmost point affected to date.

"Initial results (from overflights) indicate the current continues north along the coast at least as far as Sabine Pass," the border between Texas and Louisiana, Meacham said.

Eight giant slicks were sighted offshore Tuesday — including one stretching for 8¼ miles — that could drift into an area that previously received nothing worse than half-dollar sized tar balls.

And the latest computer projection, which accurately forecast the current landfall, indicated an even more ominous phenomenon developing about 200 miles to the south off the coast of Tampico. Coast Guard officials said data showed a giant mass of crude was collecting in the calm waters outside currents and growing larger.

Officials feared if the seasonal northerly winds began pushing in that area again the undiluted pool would move in a "front of oil" toward the Texas coast.

"The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's computer model says in the next few weeks more oil will flow toward the shoreline because a major oil front is building in the Tampico area," said Meacham.

"We don't know what's been happening down there to cause this oil to stall and collect."

The nearest large accumulation of oil was an 8¼-mile by ¼-mile slick about 5 miles off Port Isabel. NOAA coordinator John Robinson said that slick would "narrowly miss" the Texas coast and drift northward unless Gulf winds change.

"I think anything that gets very close (within 2 miles) is going to go ashore," Robinson said.

If weather conditions vary as much as 10 percent from those used for computer projections, Robinson said large amounts of oil could be washed ashore. Winds were expected to be about 19 mph.

The lower portion of 113-mile long Padre Island was the most likely target for the oil, Robinson said. However, the primary damage on lower Padre Island would be soiling of birds and contamination of their food supply.

"If it gets in the marshes, we're not going to have much of a chance," Robinson said.

Coast Guard officials said the No. 1 concern remained protecting the Laguna Madre, the narrow body of water between the island and the mainland that is vital to the Texas fishing and shrimping industry.

Subcommand posts will be set up today at the Port Aransas Coast Guard station, Meacham said, and an oiled bird rehabilitation center will be established at Padre Island National Seashore. So far, four oiled birds have been discovered.

Buried Records Haunt Prince George's County

The investigators are looking into charges of improprieties in the sheriff's office, including the possible disappearance of as much as $100,000 in county money.

Deputy Morris Ehpraim told investigators he helped dump the records at the Brown Station Road landfill. He said he had been asked to do so by the administrative section of the sheriff's department.

Ephraim said he was told to make sure the books were completely covered by the bulldozer at the dump. He said he did not know what the records contained.

Sheriff James Aluisi, who succeeded Ansell in December, said his investigators have not been able to determine the contents of the buried records. And he said there is no way to dig up the 300-acre landfill to find the records.

The target of the bookkeeping investigation — Dolores Carobrese, a former aide to Ansell — committed suicide last month.

White House Reexamines DOE Report On This Summer's Gasoline Shortage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House is examining both the results and the methods used in an Energy Department report that found no evidence oil companies hoarded supplies to create this year's gasoline shortages.

The interim report has been strongly criticized since it was released last week, primarily on the ground investigators relied too heavily on figures supplied by the oil industry itself.

Press secretary Jody Powell told reporters Tuesday the White House domestic affairs staff, under the direction of presidential adviser Stuart Eizenstat, was directed to study the report and decide if it is satisfactory.

"We are assessing the findings of that report and the methodology" used in compiling it, Powell said.

"If we determine there are — or were — deficiencies or problems in the report, then we will make sure they are corrected in the final report," he said.

Powell also said the White House may have acted hastily in releasing the report last week, in part because it had been leaked to some reporters.

"We allowed our process to be affected — in terms of official release of it — by the fact that it had come out, which we probably should not have done," he said.

The Washington Post reported Sunday the Energy Department had virtually ignored Carter's May 25 directive for a "comprehensive investigation-" into allegations the big oil companies caused or aggravated the spring and summer gasoline shortage by hoarding gasoline stocks.

The shortages led in turn to rapidly rising pump prices.

The official report said "DOE has not found evidence of hoarding of oil by refiners" and there was no conspiracy to raise prices.

But the Post said one top official who worked on the 53-page report called it "a propaganda exercise" based solely on data supplied by the oil industry.

Powell also said Carter will campaign for public support of his energy proposals during his week-long Mississippi River cruise, which begins Friday in St. Paul, Minn.

"There is little possibility that we can pass an effective energy program without this sort of effort," Powell said.

The Delta Queen, a paddle wheeler, will make its regular stops in Prairie du Chien, Wis.; Davenport and Burlington, Iowa; and Hannibal, Mo., and St. Louis.

Andrew Young Draws Criticism

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ambassador Andrew Young added fuel to his critics' flame, drew a protest from Israel, and seemingly embarrassed the State Department when he met the PLO's U.N. observer Zehdi Lebib Terzi, with whom he discussed the U.S.-supported postponement of Security Council consideration of a Kuwait resolution endorsing creation of a Palestinian state, July 26. The United States has threatened to veto the resolution.

Department spokesman Tom Reston said in a statement Tuesday, in meeting with Terzi, Young neither consulted nor informed the State Department. The July 26 meeting took place at the New York residence of Kuwait's U.N. ambassador, Yaccouv Bishara.

Baptist School Expels Student

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI) — A private school principal claims the constitutional guarantee of religious freedom gave him the right to expel a white girl because he thought she had a black boyfriend.

Alek Lee Bledsoe, a fundamentalist preacher and principal of the Marumsco Christian School in Woodbridge, Va., expelled Melissa Fiedler, 14, in January because he thought she was romantically involved with Rufus Bostic III, 14.

Miss Fiedler's parents, supported by the American Civil Liberties Union, filed suit alleging the daughter's civil rights had been violated. The family is seeking $70,000 in damages.

U.S. District Judge Oren L. Lewis took the case under advisement Tuesday and may rule today.

Bledsoe's lawyers maintained the relationship was a violation of Baptist doctrine and their client had the right to discipline the child.

But the Fiedlers' attorney, Victor Glasburg, argued the expulsion was a violation of the 13th Amendment to the Constitution and said religious schools have no right to practice racism.

In testimony Monday, Bledsoe told Lewis he was not aware that marriages between blacks and whites were lawful.

"I have never studied the law," Bledsoe said. "I have studied the Bible."

Melissa Fiedler testified she and Bostic were just friends and said Bledsoe told her if the United States was taken over by another country, "interracial couples would be exterminated."

Lewis ruled Bledsoe had reason to think the two children were romantically involved and such relationships do violate Baptist tenets.

That means the judge must decide whether the right to religious freedom or laws against racial discrimination should take precedence.

Lawyers for both sides said any decision probably will be appealed.

Candy Heiress Disappearance Still A Mystery

CHICAGO (UPI) — Somebody has just blown $200,000. But, since there is at least $21 million at stake, it may be worth it.

The $200,000 was the reward offered for information as to the whereabouts or fate of Helen Vorhees Brach, a candy heiress who disappeared without a trace somewhere between the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., and her home in Glenview, Ill., in 1977.

A Chicago judge authorized the reward offer — largest in Illinois history — last January. The chance to collect expired at the end of July.

John Menk, a Chicago lawyer who has been appointed guardian of a portion of Mrs. Brach's $21 million estate, said today he believes there are at least three people who could tell what happened to the widow of candy tycoon Frank Brach.

But none will come forward, he said, because each is afraid of the other — even though no one can collect on her fortune for almost five years when, it now appears, Mrs. Brach will be declared legally dead.

Menk, who has made a personal investigation, said "I don't think it could have been carried out alone. There had to be one person she trusted, another to carry out the alibi, and probably one other.

"These people are afraid. If one of these persons gave out information, his life would be jeopardy."

Menk said he believed Mrs. Brach, who would now be 64, walked into limbo from a Rochester boutique Feb. 17, 1977. Someone else, he said he thinks, used her North Central Airlines ticket from Rochester to Chicagos's O'Hare International Airport.

Such a theory flies in the face of the story of Bill Matlick, the Brachs' faithful family houseboy for more than 20 years.

He swears he picked up Mrs. Brach at 4 p.m. Feb. 17 and drove her to her mansion in Glenview, a Chicago suburb. There, he says, she stayed until Feb. 21 when, between 6 and 7 a.m., he drove her back to O'Hare to catch a plane for Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The trouble with that story is that Mrs. Brach bought no ticket to Fort Lauderdale, no plane was leaving for Fort Lauderdale at that time, and she apparently never got to Fort Lauderdale.

In between times and right afterwards, Matlick did some seemingly odd things. He ordered a brand new 9-pound meat grinder. He put in a fast order for a complete cleanup and repainting job inside the mansion. He had one of her Cadillacs (she had a fleet of them) thoroughly shampooed.

Matlick also put through 11 checks with Mrs. Brach's signature on them. All of the checks cleared, but all have since been determined to be forgeries.

ONE HORSE PROVIDED THE POWER to turn kernels of corn into meal long years ago. This grain grinding demonstration was observed by hundreds of fairgoers last week thanks to owner Jerry Glotfelty, McHenry. The monotonous circular path followed by the horse was occasionally enlivened by a snack of - you guessed it, corn!

Sanitary District Adds Administrative Assistant To Staff

The Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., recently appointed a former Frostburg resident as Administrative Assistant to Dick Nace, District Administrator. The appointment is part of the Sanitary District's recent reorganization plan.

Gerry Snelson, who started Friday in his new position, has been a resident of Garrett County since June 1979. Prior to moving to the county, he lived in Gaithersburg and worked as a purchasing agent for R. E. Tull and Sons, Inc., one of the two largest plumbing contractors in the Washington, D. C. area.

Snelson graduated from Frostburg State College with a degree in English in 1965, and nearly completed his work towards his doctorate at the University of Maryland. From 1965-68 he taught in a public school in Baltimore. He then taught at the University of Maryland until 1974. While at the university, he also worked as an administrative assistant.

Following his career as a teacher, Snelson assumed the position of products manager for Eastern Turtle Top, a recreational vehicle sales company. He then worked as a commissioned salesman for Montgomery Ward for two and a half years before becoming employed by R. E. Tull and Sons, Inc.

As Administrative Assistant, Snelson will assume responsibilities of supervision of Sanitary Commission/District office personnel, organization and maintenance of office procedures and District records; recording minutes of Commission meetings; processing paperwork necessary to obtain funding for projects; completion of grant applications and amendments; monitoring and facilitation of grant approval by repeated contact with funding sources during the approval process; application for payments; and coordination of fulfillment of funding conditions with execution of projects. In addition, Snelson will report to the District Administrator and act as a substitute for him in his absence.

Snelson and his wife, Jacqueline, live in Sky Valley with their two children, Corey and John.

Snelson, the son of Sara Snelson of Frostburg, and the late Frederick Snelson, is a member of the Board of Directors of the Sky Valley Association, the local government of that community.

The tallest man on record was 8' 11" tall.

Persons Receiving SSI Checks Should Report Any Changes

People receiving supplemental security income (SSI) checks should promptly report any change in their circumstances that could affect the amount of their checks or their eligibility, Richard H. Fussell, social security district manager in Cumberland, said recently.

Some changes could result in a larger check, while others could mean a smaller check, or even no check at all, Mr. Fussell said. It is important to make the report as soon as something happens, so the correct action can be taken promptly, he said.

The changes to be reported are: a person moves or changes his or her address; a person enters or leaves an institution; a person leaves the U.S.; a husband and wife separate; a person marries or the marriage ends; a person's income changes; a person's resources change; a blind or disabled person's condition improves, or he or she takes a job; a student under 22 stops or starts attending school regularly; a drug addict or alcoholic stops treatment; a person cannot manage funds; a person dies.

More detailed information about these changes, together with other information about SSI, can be found in the booklet "What you have to know about SSI". Copies can be obtained at the Cumberland social security office, located at 316 Paca Street (724-0970).

THE DEVELOPMENT

The attractive sign on the highway says "Glenview Estates" or something like that. But to folks in the older part of town it is just "the development."

And to the folks who live here it is home!

Before the builder completed his development a group of the neighbors got together and built a church here. It's a small church, and it took a lot of financial help from denominational headquarters to build . . . but it's here!

And now that the developer has left, our little church has become The Developer. It is bringing to life in Glenview Estates (or something like that) essential ingredients that architects, builders and landscapers cannot provide . . . the Faith around which to build a home . . . the Truth by which to raise a family.

In or near every development there is a real Developer. Thank God! And thank also the earnest people who establish, attend, support and serve our churches!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

NATIONAL SECURITY

Background Scripture:
2 Kings 16;
Isaiah 7 through 8
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 25:1-10

King Ahaz holds a rather dubious distinction: he was despised even more than most of the kings of Judah. In a sense it might be said that he excelled in being a terrible monarch.

The reason for his blackened memory was his betrayal of the worship of the one God of the Hebrew faith. The heinous practice of child sacrifice was reintroduced by this king who led the way in sacrificing his own son. It also appears that he took an active role in introducing other religions into the life of Judah.

Rev. Althouse

Anyone who has studied the Old Testament with any depth knows that Ahaz was one of a number of kings of Judah and Israel who reigned as virtual enemies of God. But it is not enough for us to dismiss Ahaz simply as just one more evil king. If his story is to have any value for us at all, we must try to discover why he did what he did. And if we make that discovery, we will find that we stand much closer to Ahaz than we might have imagined.

Come, Rescue Me!

Why did Ahaz encourage the intrusion of pagan religions? Was it that he wanted to defy the God of Israel and Judah? Was it because he wanted to lead his people into debauchery and moral ruin? Probably not. When we read his story in 2 Kings 16 we detect that his strategy is a practical one, rather than theological. His kingdom stands in peril of being overwhelmed by Judah's traditional foes, Israel and Syria. Both of these nations alone were mightier than little Judah; together they were truly frightening.

So Ahaz did what countless other statesmen in the same predicament have done: he made an alliance with an even stronger power in order to protect his kingdom. To the mighty Assyrian king, Tiglathpileser, he sent a desperate message: "I am your servant and your son. Come up and rescue me..." (2 Kings 16:7). Ahaz bought Judah's protection at the price of groveling before the mighty Assyrians.

Up To Damascus

In the short run it was a wise move. Tiglathpileser responded to the plea and devastated Syria with his massive armies. In the long run, however, Ahaz, it turned out, paid a price far too great. He and his kingdom not only became the puppets of Assyria, but the introduction of the Assyrian religions into Judah sealed the demise of that kingdom.

It was not that Ahaz hadn't been warned. Isaiah, inspired by God, called Judah to put their trust in God alone, not their alliances. But Ahaz did not listen and disaster was the eventual result.

It is so easy for us today to discern Ahaz's tragic mistake. Yet Ahaz's ghost rises from the pages of our Bible to point an ethereal finger at us and ask: "And where do you turn for your national security?"

Woman Injured Following Friday Evening Collision

A Gaithersburg woman is in satisfactory condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a two-car collision Friday evening on the Oakland-Sang Run Road.

Mrs. Marjorie Howard, 71, was a passenger in a car operated by Leo Franklin Friend, Route 5, Oakland. The Friend vehicle was traveling south when it was struck by a car operated by Michael Hardin Rosenzweig, Houston, Tex.

According to the Maryland State Police report, Rosenzweig was northbound and applied his brakes as he went around a sharp curve. His vehicle slid on the wet roadway, crossed the center line and struck the Friend vehicle.

Another passenger in the Friend vehicle, Dorothy Friend, and Mr. Friend were treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Rosenzweig and a passenger in his car, Thomas Belle, also of Houston were also treated and released. Southern Rescue Squad transported the injured to the hospital.

Tfc. L.N. Smith charged Rosenzweig with failing to drive right of center.

Motor Fuel Tax Revenues Plunge, Retail Revenue Up

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced recently that June's gasoline crunch had a dramatic effect on State revenues from motor fuel taxes, but retail sales tax revenues seemed to hold their own.

The Comptroller released July 1979 revenue figures for the motor fuel and retail sales taxes, which represent sales activity during June, 1979, the first month gasoline lines appeared in Maryland.

"Motor fuel tax revenues for July, 1979 totaled $16,044,144, down 11.7 percent from the $18,165,812 collected during July, 1978. These revenues reflect gasoline sales in June, 1979 totaling 156,145,293 gallons. That's 15.6 percent below the 180,393,989 gallons sold in June 1978," Mr. Goldstein said.

The Comptroller noted that revenues from diesel fuel sales continued to increase somewhat easing the effect of the limited gasoline availability.

Retail sales tax revenues for July, 1979 which represent sales made during June, totaled $62,175,333. These collections represent an 11 percent increase over the $56,012,186 collected for the same month last year.

"Revenues from several consumer-oriented categories of sales tax collections showed significant increases despite the gasoline situation," Mr. Goldstein said. "The general merchandise category, which includes department and variety stores, posted a 13.5 percent increase. The apparel category was up 8.5 percent, and the furniture, fixtures and appliance category reflects an increase of 15.3 percent over the same month last year."

You Can Make Your Gas Bills Easier to Pay!

You'll find it easier to pay your monthly gas bill if its the same each month. You can budget for it when you know the amount in advance.

Ask Us to Level Off Your Bills
We can bill you so those awfully high winter gas bills can be spread out through the whole year. We figure into the formula your past usage history, the cost of gas and normal weather conditions.

You Never Pay for More Gas Than You Actually Use During the Year
Because the formula is seldom perfect, we review each customer's progress at the end of the winter season and the budget is adjusted if necessary. The bill rendered for the twelfth month balances out the customer's actual usage with the gas he has paid for, so it might be lower or higher than the normal budget amount.

Your August Gas Bill Is Our Signal
Simply pay the budget amount shown on your August gas bill. That will enroll you in the program automatically. It will probably be larger than the amount of current charges, but you will be pre-paying some of those larger winter bills that are on the way.

The Budget Payment Plan Is Another Free Service of the Gas Company. It Can Make It Easier For You to Pay Your Gas Bills.

Free, Reduced Meal Policy For County Schools Released

The Garrett County Board of Education, Food Service Department today announced its policy for free and reduced price meals and free milk for school children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served in schools under the National School Lunch School Breakfast and Special Milk Programs.

Local school officials adopted a family-size income criteria for determining eligibility available for review in each school and in the office of the Food Service Department, Garrett County Board of Education.

Children from families whose income is at or below the set criteria are eligible for free and reduced price meals or free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are eligible to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies of the application are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Applications may be submitted any time during the school year.

To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, the application forms contain a statement above the space for signature certifying that all information furnished in the application is true and correct. An additional statement is added to warn that the application is being made in connection with the receipt of Federal funds, that school officials may, for cause, verify the information in the application, and that deliberate misrepresentation of information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable State and criminal statues.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals, or for additional benefits such as free meals and milk if the family income falls at or below the designated level.

All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color or national origin.

Under the provisions of the policy, the principal of the involved school will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he/she may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If parents wish to make a formal appeal, they may make a request either orally or in writing to Richard Buckingham, Director of Food Service, Garrett County Board of Education, 40 South Fourth Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

ACC To Sponsor RN Refresher Course This Fall

An expansion of health delivery systems in Western Maryland has created a need for professional nurses in local hospitals, according to a news release from Allegany Community College. A refresher course covering general hospital practices was conducted at Allegany Community College during the spring of 1979. The need still exists and another RN refresher course will be offered at ACC beginning September 10 through December 19, 1979, according to Dr. Hugh Malamphy, director of community services at ACC.

The 15-week course will consist of 90 hours of didactic instruction. Topics to be covered include current trends in nursing and health care delivery systems; functions of the professional nurse in assessing patient needs and planning, implementing and evaluating care; current diagnostic and treatment methods and underlying scientific principles and selected medical-surgical conditions and treatments.

An interest was expressed by nurses who are currently employed to attend a refresher class to update them on current clinical practice. The fall class will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday evenings to accommodate working nurses in addition to others who may be interested.

An advisory committee of area nurses was formed to assist in planning the course. Committee members and their respective hospitals include: Mrs. Marjorie Fawcett, director of nursing, and Mrs. Shirley Brooks, inservice director, Memorial Hospital; Ms. Bernie Simons, assistant director of nursing, Sacred Heart Hospital; Ms. May Hepsher, director of nursing, Frostburg Community Hospital; Mrs. Charlotte Bock, director of nursing, Garrett County Memorial Hospital; and Dr. Hugh Malamphy, director of community services at Allegany Community College.

Grain Reserve Call Policy Is Explained

Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, in noting the strengthening of grain prices in recent months, reviewed procedure for farmers to follow if their commodities are released or called from the grain reserve.

The farmer-owned grain reserve program was established in 1977 when grain prices were low. The objective of the program is to keep grain off the market when supplies are excessive and to move them back into the market chain when prices become profitable.

Crowl said that national average prices for all the grains except rice have reached the release level and prices for oats and barley reached the pricing point on June 26 when they were called from the reserve.

Feed grain crops are called from the reserve when the ASCS determines that the national average market price is 140 percent of the current loan rate. Wheat is called when this price is 175 percent of the loan rate.

ASCS called oats and barley from the reserve when national average prices reached $1.44 per bushel for oats and $2.31 per bushel for barley.

When a crop is called, farmers are not required to sell, but the reserve loan must be repaid within 30 days from the date of notification or the grain will be forfeited to the Commodity Credit Corporation," Crowl said. Farmers retain ownership of the crop even though the loan is called. Producers do not forfeit the grain unless they fail to repay the loan, he explained.

The farmer-owned grain reserve is designed to stabilize marketing. Producers are eligible to place wheat and feed grain into the reserve during low price periods. In return, they receive loans and annual storage payments on the grain.

SINGLE AGAIN PICNIC
Are You:
Divorced?
Separated?
A Widow?
A Widower?
If so, please join us at a picnic and bring the children.
Broad Ford Recreation Area at the pavilion, Sunday, August 26, beginning at 1:30 p.m. Come rain or shine. Bring a picnic lunch—eat around 2:30.
The purpose of the picnic is to provide an opportunity for formerly married people on the mountaintop to meet others like themselves, discuss their problems, share their experiences and hopefully through this, learn ways to better deal with this new way of life.
After lunch, at about 3:30, a meeting is planned to see if there is enough interest to form a "Single Again" organization which would hold similar activities throughout the year.

TEXTURE TALK
Although your carpet salesperson will assist you in selecting a carpet texture that will fit your decorating plan and stand up under the unique traffic patterns of your home, you'll want to be somewhat familiar with the various textures available. Let's continue with the texture discussion we began last week.
CUT AND LOOP is a sculptured style that combines both luxury and practicality. There's almost no pile distortion with this texture. It's suitable for light, medium, or heavy traffic areas.
MULTILEVEL LOOP combines several heights of loop-pile construction. It's perfect in living rooms, dining rooms and bedrooms.
HI-LO LOOP, RANDOM SHEARED is one of today's most popular choices. There is a fine variety of densities, pile heights, and patterns from which to choose.
LEVEL LOOP, TIP SHEARED. Usually the carpeting is tightly tufted and has an attractive pebbly look. It's perfect for average and heavy traffic areas.
Most of us are familiar with luxurious PLUSH carpeting. This has deep, dense pile and a velvety appearance. Plush is marvelously rich looking.
Our trained carpeting experts will be happy to assist you in the selection of the perfect texture for your carpeting. Call for your SHOP-AT-HOME appointment NOW. Come in and see us soon.
Each week we will tell you more about carpeting for your home. Watch for these columns.

"I think my spirit was saved from dissolution by an offer to do stock the next summer."

"I was a good cab driver."

Larry Filiaci, Garrett County playhouse actor, leaned against the wall backstage at the Rentsch Hallow A cigarette between his fingers, he sighed as he looked into the mist of his past. Behind him stood the scenery. It was time to check his life about his career as an actor, second guessing the career he'd built for himself in New York, if he might get a job as a TV commercial, or a soap opera several years ago. Filiaci was a young idealistic actor with the decision of whether to go into singing or whether he should place his hopes on his talent for acting.

Why not here? He was cast in a musical, "Once Upon A Mattress" and from then on, he seemed to recently completed work on Rodick's production of "Bye Bye Birdie" starring Rod Steiger and Dorothy Loudon based on the life of Jean Lyndon.

A couple of days ago, Filiaci, Karl Madden and Mike Mann flew time flies on TV. Shelley Fabares, once the darling TV daughter of Donna Reed was in Oakland. Filiaci had to be up early in the morning, and this night he stayed no longer than 2 o'clock. He was tired and had to get

More quotable quotes

By CINDY ADAMS

Due to the success of last week's quotes column and all the thousands of requests — from my mother who thank God is very loyal — I shall pluck out another brilliant batch from the world's most famous harpers. Buddy Ebsen: "The movies want me as the sex symbol of the 70's — not the year, the age." Telly Savalas: "I keep waiting for the perfect woman to come along. Meanwhile I'm having fun with the imperfect ones."

Ellen Burstyn: "I may be uneducated but I've got a doctorate in crossword puzzles."

Cheryl Tiegs: "Now that I've been told over and over that I'm the most popular girl in the country I keep thinking about all those guys who wouldn't ever date me back in high school." — Richard Harris: "It appears to be my lousy luck that whenever I meet an attractive girl either she's married or I am."

Charles Bronson: "With monies in your pocket you're wise and you're handsome and you sing well, too." — Marlene Dietrich: "You know love's gone when you said you'd be there by 7 and you get there by 9 and he hasn't called the police yet."

Jackie Gleason: "I drink to remove warts and pimples. Not from me. From people I have to talk to." — Joey Adams: "An actor is a guy who, if you aren't talking about him, isn't listening."

Mickey Rooney: "Age isn't important unless you happen to be a wine, a cheese or a Gabor."

Muhammad Ali: "I used to brag about being The Greatest. Don't misunderstand. I'm still The Greatest. But now I'm more modest about it."

Mike Douglas: "I could never never retire. I take a quickie two week vacation now and in two days I start asking questions of the waiter and the chambermaid and the bellhops."

Robert Conrad: "A good looking face like mine is nothing to be ashamed of."

Ginger Rogers: "A face lift or a hairpiece may lop off 20 years but it won't mean a thing to a long flight of stairs." — John Travolta: "Until last year I rented tuxedos a dozen times. Twelve times 35 bucks would have bought me some snazzy tuxes. This year I finally bought them."

Lily Tomlin: "There is absolutely no deodorant like success." — James Caan: "I'm against topless dresses. The best part of getting a present is unwrapping it." — Rodney Dangerfield: "My wife and I sleep in separate rooms, have dinner apart and take separate vacations. We think a couple should do everything they can to keep their marriage together."

Richard Dreyfuss: "The perfect fantasy year would be for me to have a hit movie, a hit play and a nervous breakdown." — George Peppard: "I always think of Paris as one great big motel."

George Hamilton: "A woman doesn't have to fall down at my feet. She just has to make me feel she wants to." — Mae West: "I always went for two kinds of men — the kind with muscles and the kind without."

Bette Midler: "All I'm asking for is a man who's kind and understanding. Is that too much to expect of a millionaire?" — Don Rickles: "If I meant half the insulting things I say I'd need a fast getaway car and lots of Blue Shield." — Joan Fontaine: "A career woman is someone who goes out and earns a man's salary instead of sitting home and taking it away from him."

Hollywood homes run on tennis

Wimbledon champion Virginia Wade has overcome a bid to world tennis fame at the Hobart Racquet Club in New York. Then it's home to its Nevada ranch and tennis court.

He says, "Once Hackman has the ranch next to mine, that no matter how good I am, I'm not going to win."

Eastwood is a good friend — when he's not slow folks around the racquet club. Other virtues: tennis has other virtues, because it's an exercise to both keeps coming up. Tennis — that's not all. For some of the nicer slow folks but that's for sure.

Over and over this season, the answer to "What are your hobbies" and "How do you stay in shape"

Two questions most asked of actors are: "What are your hobbies." The crew of a cargo plane report a glowing white object chased their craft, but one of the men mysteriously

"Say, Dana, I have hopes that he and his son have teams though, Hoy Emerson — and isn't it nice for all of play with us — told me in Venice Beach?"

"That way Heather might get hooked. Of course, I'll do what I did with my boys to give her confidence. Their Dana smiles. 'Of course, I'll win a few, too, so she won't get overly confident.'"

In a private speech, Dolores said the only reason not 20-year-old Teresa Laugh Dolores Taylor, the wife of Tom "Bill Jack" Laughlin who organized the Venice event for Mercy and won the mom's championship, too, was the runner-up to Dana Merrill in Venice.

Dolores said the only reason that it was so in the spot and In is that "I raised my daughter never to beat her mother."

Amazingly, it's not quite six years since the Laughlins undertook son Frank, took their first tennis lessons.

Now, every Saturday, their backyard looks like an extension of Venice Beach, as Mel Brooks tennis club, as Mel Brooks' his wife Estelle, son Bob Reiner and his wife Penny, "Lawrence" Marshall play as if their lives depended on it.

All travel to Venice. And they all agree with Dana Merrill's sentiment about the pros. But nobody puts it better than Tom Laughlin, the found-ing father of the U.S. Tennis Association.

"It's a sort of Walter Mitty thing in one way. If you play with a great pro like Roy Emerson, you begin to think you're that good yourself. You're not. But you can learn a lot. And have a lot of fun."

Diabetes Foundation.

Her handsome son, Stan Rothenberg, a photo-journalist, accompanied her to Venice because her husband Cliff Robertson, couldn't get away.

But, of course, Cliff and I have played tournaments together. And we play for fun." In fact, only one member of the family, 10-year-old Heather Robertson, remains aloof to the game.

Says Dana, "I have hopes though, Hoy Emerson — and isn't it nice for all of play with us — told me in Venice Beach?"

More quotable quotes

By CINDY ADAMS

Due to the success of last week's quotes column and all the thousands of requests — from my mother who, thank God is very loyal — I shall pluck out another brilliant batch from the world's most famous burpers. Buddy Ebsen: "The movies want me as the sex symbol of the 70's — not the year, the age." Telly Savalas: "I keep waiting for the perfect woman to come along. Meanwhile I'm having fun with the imperfect ones."

Ellen Burstyn: "I may be uneducated but I've got a doctorate in crossword puzzles."

Cheryl Tiegs: "Now that I've been told over and over that I'm the most popular girl in the country I keep thinking about all those guys who wouldn't ever date me back in high school." Richard Harris: "It appears to be my lousy luck that whenever I meet an attractive girl either she's married or I am."

Charles Bronson: "With money in your pocket you're wise and you're handsome and you sing well, too." Marlene Dietrich: "You know love's gone when you said you'd be there by 7 and you get there by 9 and he hasn't called the police yet."

Jackie Gleason: "I drink to remove warts and pimples. Not from me. From people I have to talk to." Joey Adams: "An actor is a guy who if you aren't talking about him isn't listening."

Mickey Rooney: "Age isn't important unless you happen to be a wine, a cheese or a Gabor."

Muhammad Ali: "I used to brag about being The Greatest. Don't misunderstand. I'm still The Greatest. But now I'm more modest about it."

Mike Douglas: "I could never never retire. I take a quickie two week vacation now and in two days I start asking questions of the waiter and the chambermaid and the bellhops."

Robert Conrad: "A good looking face like mine is nothing to be ashamed of."

Ginger Rogers: "A face lift or a hairpiece may lop off 20 years but it won't mean a thing to a long flight of stairs." John Travolta: "Until last year I rented tuxedos a dozen times. Twelve times 35 bucks would have bought me some snazzy tuxes. This year I finally bought them."

Lily Tomlin: "There is absolutely no deodorant like success." James Caan: "I'm against topless dresses. The best part of getting a present is unwrapping it." Rodney Dangerfield: "My wife and I sleep in separate rooms. I have dinner apart and take separate vacations. We think a couple should do everything they can to keep their marriage together."

Richard Dreyfuss: "The perfect fantasy year would be for me to have a hit movie, a hit play and a nervous breakdown." George Peppard: "I always think of Paris as one great big motel."

George Hamilton: "A woman doesn't have to fall down at my feet. She just has to make me feel she wants to." Mae West: "I always went for two kinds of men — the kind with muscles and the kind without."

Bette Midler: "All I'm asking for is a man who's kind and understanding. Is that too much to expect of a millionaire?" Don Rickles: "If I meant half the insulting things I say I'd need a fast getaway car and lots of Blue Shield." Joan Fontaine: "A career woman is someone who goes out and earns a man's salary instead of sitting home and taking it away from him."

Add Months to Your Grazing

Stockpile NOW with Southern States Fertilizer

Here's how you can extend the grazing season for fescue and other forage crops into the fall and winter months. If your pasture has not been grazed down to 3-4 inches by mid-August, mow it. Then, top dress with 75-100 pounds of Southern States Nitrogen per acre. Apply Southern States Phosphate and Potash as indicated by soil test. Close off your fields. When you turn your herd in again after the first heavy frost, they'll get many extra tons of high-quality forage to cut feed costs and boost meat/milk production.

Home Grown Fuel Subject To Regulation

It all sounds a bit romantic — using age old methods to produce alcohol, which in turn is used to help fuel America's energy needs. A patriotic renaissance of the moonshiner's art, you say?

Maybe so, but Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein warns that the backyard "still" and its end product remain subject to several government regulations.

"We've prepared a brief brochure outlining the various laws and agencies concerned with gasoline-alcohol Mixtures. The booklet will be of special interest to those who want to try their hand at producing alcohol for energy use," Comptroller Goldstein said. "But remember, it is illegal for any alcohol produced as an alternate fuel to be used for human consumption." The first thing to know is that a permit from the U.S. Treasury Department is needed before a person can begin to distill alcohol. Once the permit and bond are approved by the federal offices and a copy is furnished to Maryland's Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division, a State agent will contact the applicant.

State agents should be present at the initial operation of the still, and both the State and federal governments must receive monthly production reports.

State agents can assist, providing testing capability for the alcohol produced and offering suggestions for improvements.

If persons are going to mix gasoline and alcohol to use as fuel, they must also register with the Motor Fuel Tax Division, and if the vehicle is used on the road, a motor fuel tax is due the State. Gasoline-alcohol mixtures are taxed at one cent less per gallon than other motor vehicle fuels, however.

Persons may not sell the gasoline-alcohol mixture produced unless they have been licensed as a supplier by the Motor Fuel Tax Division.

"The answers to many other questions and appropriate addresses and telephone numbers are included in the brochure, which may be obtained by writing the Public Information Office, State Treasury Building, Annapolis, Maryland 21401," Mr. Goldstein said.

Tobacco Tax Revenue Shared

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported recently that the State's 23 counties and Baltimore City will share $4,002,901 in tobacco tax revenues from revenues received during the final quarter of Fiscal Year 1979 (April, May and June).

For Fiscal Year 1979, which ended June 30, 1979, $15,632,810 in tobacco tax revenue was shared with the subdivisions. "The distribution for Fiscal Year 1979 is 1.3 percent less than the $15,846,189 shared with the 23 counties and Baltimore City during Fiscal Year 1978 reflecting the decrease in total tobacco tax collections for Fiscal Year 1979," Comptroller Goldstein said.

ENERGY TIP — Try to use major kitchen appliances during off hours of energy consumption. Do your baking either early in the day or late in the evening - not between 4 and 7 p.m., which are peak energy consumption hours. It is also a good idea to start your baking schedule with products that require the lowest temperature first.

FOOD NOTES — Many delicious fresh fruits and vegetables are readily available this time of year, therefore it is important that they be cared for and prepared properly in order to get the most food value from them. Here are some tips to help in saving all those nutrients in fresh fruits and vegetables:

– Cook fruits and vegetables as quickly as possible and cook only until tender because overcooking destroys food value, looks and flavor.

– Use just a small amount of water when cooking vegetables. Try to use any liquid that is left over at the end of the cooking period because that liquid contains many valuable nutrients. Use the excess liquid in soups, gravies, or sauces.

– Keep vegetables covered when cooking and refrain from stirring air into food because air getting into food oxidizes and destroys vitamins.

– Cook vegetables and fruits in their skins when possible and then eat the skins which are very high in nutritive value.

– Serve fruits and vegetables as soon as possible after cooking in order to avoid deterioration of food value.

– Use fruits and vegetables immediately after chopping or crushing to avoid the loss of vitamin value and to keep the foods from wilting.

– Wash salad greens and remove from water immediately because vitamins and minerals dissolve into water.

– Cook the beet and turnip tops as well as the green leaves on cauliflower which are all rich in Vitamin A and iron.

Here are some different vegetable recipes I thought you might enjoy trying:

PHILADELPHIA CABBAGE
Shred 3 cups of cabbage. Cook in a covered pan, using ½ inch of boiling salted water, for about five minutes or until just crispy tender. Blend in one package (3 oz.) of cream cheese and stir until cheese melts. Add a dash of pepper and ¼ tsp. celery seed, serve hot. Serves 4.

FROZEN CUCUMBERS
2 onions, sliced thin
8-10 cucumbers, sliced thin
Add 2 T. salt. Let stand for 2 hours. Drain real well. Squeeze out excess liquid. Add 1½ cups sugar, ½ cup vinegar. Stir ingredients well till sugar is dissolved. Pack in containers and freeze. Keeps several months.

ZUCCHINI CASSEROLE
Enough sliced or coarsely chopped Zucchini to wind up with 3 cups when lightly sauteed
2 T. grated onion
½ cup milk
1 egg, beaten
Cracked or freshly ground pepper
½ cup bread crumbs
½ cup grated cheese
Salt
Butter
Saute zucchini and onions until onions are tender. Drain and combine with beaten egg and milk. Put half of zucchini mixture in buttered oven proof cooking dish. Sprinkle half of crumbs and half of cheese. Add rest of zucchini, rest of crumbs, and rest of cheese on top. Dot with butter. Bake at 350° for 30 minutes.

Additionally, the Personnel Advisory Committee recommended that an ad hoc committee be appointed to study the organization and responsibilities of the Agency and the related impacts of dividing the overall functions between the five technical committees; reviewed Personnel Policies such as Sick Leave, Terminations, Membership Dues, and Recruitment; approved the placement of an additional University of Maryland intern through the Area Health Education Center; and recommended the continued participation of the Agency in the State of Maryland Employees Pension System.

The Plan Development Committee has reviewed and recommended approval of the following HSP sections: End Stage Renal Disease, Summary for Introduction, and the Necessary System Changes for the Health Services Area.

PUBLIC NOTICES

CARD OF THANKS

The family of David Miller would like to express its thanks to each and every one for their kindnesses and help. For the flowers sent, food, cards and prayers. Also, to the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, Newman Funeral Home, Rev. Riffle and Rev. Hixon and other ministers and churches who helped in so many ways. Thanks also to the pallbearers and the Ladies' Aid of the United Pentecostal Church.

The family of David Miller

—Adv. 24-1t.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Thomas Nevin Hinebaugh who passed away 8 years ago, August 18th.

It's a lonesome world without you, So sad has been the way, Life and home hasn't been the same since you were called away. To some you may be forgotten, to others just part of the past, But to us who loved and lost you, your memory will always last.

Sadly missed by wife,

—Adv. 24-1t.

IN MEMORIAM
"Happy Birthday"

In loving memory of Mrs. Grace Resh whose birthday was August 12; also Arthur Resh, whose birthday was August 14: dad and mother of 12 children:

We love them too dearly for their memory to fade from our lives like a dream; our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely, for grief often dwells where it seldom is seen. Every bird that's singing, every leaf that blows, every blossom trembling under Winter's snow knows that we all miss you so.

Sadly missed by

—Adv. 24-1t.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my mother, Orpha Fike Frazee. Born: August 14, 1895; Died: December 16, 1976.

It takes a Mothers's LOVE to make a house a home, A place to be remembered, no matter where we roam . . . It takes a Mother's PATIENCE to bring a child up right, And her COURAGE and her CHEERFULNESS to make a dark day bright . . . It takes a Mother's THOUGHTFULNESS to mend the heart's deep "hurts", and her SKILL and her ENDURANCE to mend little socks and shirts . . . It takes a Mother's KINDNESS to forgive us when we err, To sympathize in trouble and bow her head in prayer . . . It takes a Mother's WISDOM to recognize our needs and to give us reassurance by her loving words and deeds . . . It takes a Mother's ENDLESS FAITH, her CONFIDENCE and TRUST to guide us through the pitfalls of selfishness and lust . . . And that is why in all this world there could not be another who could fulfill God's purpose as completely as a MOTHER!

Faye Frazee Humberson

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Steward Savage, who died August 12, 1978:

God's favorite number is seven;
Dad was son number seven.
He was seventy-seven in the year nineteen seventy-seven.
He lived to be seventy-eight,
Then was called to Heaven's gate.
His faith in God was a great lesson,
And to talk to him was always a blessin'.
He was stern, but yet humble,
You hardly ever heard him grumble.
He is resting with Jesus now,
I hope to see him after while.

Sadly missed,
(Daughter) Annabell

—Adv. 24-1t.

The Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., will hold a Public Hearing on Wednesday, September 5, 1979, at 7:30 p.m. at the Gorman Fire Hall for the purpose of reviewing and receiving comments from concerned parties regarding the

Sewerage Facility Plan
GORMAN PLANNNING AREA

The Gorman Planning Area includes most of the land between the Potomac River and the top of Backbone Mountain, which lies between Shields Run and the Oak Grove Cemetary, in addition to area around Steyer.

This Sewerage Facility Plan proposes Sewerage Facilities only for Steyer and the vicinity of Gorman in Maryland. However, the recommended alternate is a regional sewerage treatment plant which would serve the West Virginia communities of Gormania and Bayard in addition to Gorman, Maryland. Concerned residents of these West Virginia communities are also invited to attend this hearing.

The Plan may be examined from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays at the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., office in the basement of the Courthouse in Oakland.

NOTICE

MOUNTAIN LAKE
WATER COMPANY, INC.
P.O. Box 185
Mountain Lake Park,
Maryland, 21550
334-2131

On February 22, 1979, one of three routine water sample analyses performed by the Maryland Environmental Health Administration indicated that the bacteria level exceeded the permissible level prescribed by the Maryland Safe Drinking Water Act in COMAR 10.03.33, Section 10.

Two other samples taken that day at other locations in the system indicated bacteria to be well within acceptable limits. All samples since then have been within acceptable limits.

The matter has been reviewed with local health officials. The joint conclusion is that this one sample on February 22, 1979, either became contaminated from some source other than this public water system or that an accident in the State's laboratory caused the high bacteria count.

The Maryland Environmental Health Administration apparently concurs in this conclusion because of the lack of any sanction imposed during the long lapse of the time involved.

Thus, customers are advised that no action is necessary on their part.

Three To Assist Cystic Fibrosis Fund Raiser

Dr. Jean Shaw, Jim Willis, and Dee Browning have been selected to assist Doris Goldsborough, Garrett County Chairman of the Cystic Fibrosis Campaign, with the BABY SMILE-A-THON, one of the two fund raisers being planned by the local C/F Chapter this fall.

Entries are now being received by Mrs. Goldsborough for this project. Snapshots of babies, three years of age and under, are being compiled, and they will be displayed throughout the county along with a coin box for donations to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. At the conclusion of the contest, a drawing will be held and prizes will be awarded to the entries. The display of the pictures will depend upon the number received.

Parents interested in entering their baby in the SMILE-A-THON should send a snapshot, preferably action, along with $1.00 entry fee to Mrs. William Goldsborough, Garrett County Chairman for C/F, P. O. Box 309, Oakland, before August 25. The name of the baby, birth date, and name, address and telephone number of parents should be included. Proceeds from the entry fee will be sent to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation at the conclusion of the Baby Smile-A-Thon.

Plans are being tentatively set to mount all pictures with captions, as well as the name of the child, under each picture. Sponsoring this event will be Crabtree Photography. At the conclusion of the contest the snapshots will not be returned by mail but the parent may pick them up at the home of Mrs. Goldsborough.

"All parents are urged to enter their child in this contest," said Mrs. Goldsborough, "because if people see the picture of a happy, healthy child, they may be inspired to donate money so that all children would have a chance for a happy, healthy life. We are striving to make a success of the fund raisers we are planning in Garrett County for the Cystic Fibrosis 'Breath of Life' Campaign in order that we may help them with the financial support which is needed for the fight against lung damaging diseases which affect one of every 1600 babies born every year. These fund raisers replace the usual door-to-door campaign held each year."
